BERLIN HOLDS TEUTONIC PACT NONPOLITICAL

Austro-German Protocol to Abolish Tariff Is Made Public.

AGREEMENT EXCITES EUROPEAN CAPITALS

Curtius Is Busily Occupied Explaining Details of Treaty to Envoys.

Berlin, March 23 (A.P.).—The German government tonight made public the text of the protocol which would establish a customs union between Germany and Austria.

Under its terms both nations contract to correlate their customs and trade regulations while guaranteeing preservation of the absolute independence of both nations.

Both parties to the protocol declare themselves bound by its provisions to negotiate with any other nation which wishes to enter into a similar agreement.

Both parties are to agree upon customs and tariff measures which would correspond in German and Austrian territory and would be changed only upon agreement by both nations.

Customs to Be Independent.

No import or export duty would be levied on commodities traffic between the two countries, and both governments would decide mutually whether intermediate tariffs would be advisable and to which classes of commodities such intermediate tariffs would apply.

Customs administrations of both countries would be independent of each other, each nation bearing the cost of administration of its own customs service.

The net return of customs duties levied would be apportioned between the two nations on a fixed scale.

Curtius Busy Explaining.

Foreign Minister Curtius today received successively the French, British and Italian Ambassadors to explain the intentions of Germany and Austria in agreeing to a virtual customs union.

During the next few days, it was announced, the foreign minister will see the ministers of all states bordering upon Germany and Austria to offer similar explanations. In foreign office circles confidence prevailed that Curtius can satisfactorily allay any fear that the proposed union might be in contravention of existing treaties or protocols.

The foreign minister, it was said, hopes to persuade the representatives of other European governments that the Austro-German arrangement is a practical step toward realizing Aristide Briand's Pan-European ideal.

Political Union Feared.

Paris, March 23 (A.P.).—Europe as a whole was doing a lot of worrying tonight over the Austro-German economic agreement which, it is felt here, may be the first move toward political union of Austria and Germany, thereby reopening war wounds which Europe has been striving to heal.

News of the customs accord between the two countries comes just at a time when League of Nations forces are congregated in Paris for tomorrow's meeting which is expected to advance the project of Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, for a United States of Europe.

Julius Curtius and Johann Schoeber German and Austrian foreign ministers, respectively, are described as making a protocol which, while

The First Lady of the Land last night delivered over the air, to the women of America, the thanks of those who have been aided by unemployment relief efforts.

"Eloquent I can not be," said Mrs. Hoover, "but I do rejoice in passing on to you, girls and women of America, the word that what you have done for those who have suffered innocently this year is borne in ever affectionate and understanding memory."

FLAG ESSAYS DUE TUESDAY, MARCH 31

High School Boys and Girls Are Busy Preparing Compositions.

Exactly one week from today, all essays written by students of Washington's public and private high schools in competition for the good will trip to Europe sponsored by the United States Flag Association with the cooperation of The Washington Post, must be in the hands of the teachers of these respective schools. These essays on "The Typical American Boy," by boys, and "The Typical American Girl," by the girls, will determine the two students from each school who will take part in the final competition to select two "Envoys of Friendship" for the European trip. No essays will be accepted after noon on Tuesday, March 31.

Pencils and pens were flying over paper yesterday in all portions of the city and some of the students were industriously using the typewriter as they worked over the essays which are to determine their chances of winning this coveted trip abroad. Officials of the United States Flag Association gave an official "O. K." to the use of the typewriter, where the student desires to use the writing machine, but specified that the typing must be done by the contestant. This was deemed only fair in view of the fact that the typewritten documents will be in competition with those written in longhand and inasmuch as the student writing longhand must do his or her own work, it was not judged fair to permit any student to have copy typed by any one other than the student submitting the essay.

In spite of repeated requests that no calls be made on the United States Flag Association for information or Joliet, Ill., March 23 (A.P.).—The Illinois pardon and parole board was alternately condemned as "rotten to the core" and defended as careful and considerate today before a legislative committee investigating the recent unrest in Illinois' twin penitentiaries.

Convict faced parole board member in a tense session of the committee, and these conflicting statements came forth:

Chance in Movies Rejected by Davis

Senator Declares He Will Not Be Lover Before Any Actress.

Los Angeles, March 23 (A.P.).—The movies are not going to get a new leading man in United States Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania. The senator doesn't feel he could play the role of lover opposite any actress.

"I have known Lewis B. Mayer for fifteen years," the senator said, "and recently he has discussed with me the question of filming my book, 'The Iron Puddler.' I told him I was not an actor and that since I married at 42 and love only my wife I couldn't even play the lover opposite any actress.

"However, we are discussing the filming of my book. The picture I want to make is a picture of service to the people of Pennsylvania." A reception is being planned for him, with Norma Shearer and Greta Garbo as hostesses.

UTILITIES BODY COUNTERS WITH FARE CUT PLANS

Street Car Companies in Capital Are Advised to Win Riders.

NONRUSH HOUR RATE AND ZONES PROPOSED

Improvements in Service and Merger Also Counseled; Increases Rapped.

The Public Utilities Commission late yesterday turned the tables on the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. in their pleas for higher adult fares to offset anticipated losses from the 3-cent school children's fare by suggesting that they lower fares during nonrush hours, institute the zone system, or add a few up-to-date cars in efforts to win back their lost passengers.

At the same time they warned the railways that any further increases in adult rates would probably bring about even further reductions in revenues and losses in passengers.

Identical letters were sent to the street car companies to place before them a great deal of data that were not included in the communications sent several weeks ago to deny requested relief until the consequences of the school fare could be ascertained.

Higher Fare Decreases Riders.

The commission reminded the railways that instead of gaining $408,308.19 a year in gross revenue, as they estimated in June, 1929, when the District Supreme Court allowed the present rate of fare, they lost $59,127.54 during the six months beginning August 1, 1930. The Capital Traction Co., the letter states, suffered a decrease of $23,567.13 for this period or a loss at the rate of $47,-294.26 for a year, while the Washington Railway & Electric Co. lost $35,-560.41, for the half year, or at the rate of $71,280.84 a year.

"As throwing further light upon net results of increasing fares," the letter states, "attention is called to the conditions in Baltimore, Md. In that city, prior to 1930, street railway fares were 10 cents cash, or four tokens for 35 cents. In that year fares were increased to a flat rate of 10 cents cash.

"During the ten months beginning March 1, 1930, with this increased fare in effect, revenue passengers decreased 22,364,648, compared with the same period during 1929. Similarly, passenger revenue for these ten months in 1930 decreased $620,408, compared with the same months in 1929."

Reduced School Fare Helpful.

The commission further explains that the institution of a 5-cent school fare effected an increase of 1,652,695 passengers between 1925 and

Month's Collections Put at $209,000,000 Under Last March.

TREASURY IS LIKELY TO FINANCE IN JUNE

Decrease Found in Both Individual and Corporation Income Returns.

(Associated Press.)

A $700,000,000 Treasury deficit at the end of the fiscal year, on June 30, appeared probable last night as income tax receipts continued to drop. The Treasury estimated income tax collections this month would fall $209,000,000 below the same period last year, totaling only $350,000,000.

For the first 20 days of this month the amount collected was $177,000,-000 below last year's figures. Previously the Treasury had estimated the deficit would be $500,000,000 as a result of diminishing receipts and enlarged expenditures.

It also was considered probable the Treasury would resort to sale of securities before June 15 to meet expenses of operating the Government.

$200,000,000 Expected.

The Treasury was expected to raise $200,000,000 by this means to provide additional funds for loans to World War veterans. The drop in income tax receipts made it probable a much larger amount would be sought.

Proponents of the veterans' loan act have pointed out, however, that money for that purpose would have no effect on the prospective deficit, since a fund has been created to take care of the loans.

In March of last year $559,503,000 was collected on the first quarter's payments of tax on 1929 income. Officials said they did not expect to receive more than $350,000,000 this month. The decrease, it was said, was found in both individual and corporation incomes, with a considerable amount due to individual taxpayers deducting from their net income for losses in stock speculation.

Quarterly Drop Seen.

Total collections estimated for the month were about $100,000,000 less than the Treasury previously had expected. The drop for the first quarter made likely a decrease in the other quarterly payments, and indicated that in June receipts for the second quarter of tax on 1930 income would be $100,000,000 or more less than collected last June.

The Treasury statement for March 20 showed total income tax collections for the month amounted to 283,239,295, compared with $460,328,-715 in the same period last March.

It totaled $1,454,660,320 for the fiscal year since last July 1, compared with $1,712,962,857 in the

PORTO RICO ACCLAIMS HOOVER WITH CHEERS; CROWD BREAKS LINES

San Juan Throng Mills at Palace Entrance; Demands Speech.

WOMEN ON BALCONIES SHOWER DOWN ROSES

San Juan, Porto Rico, March 23 (U. P.).—President Hoover rested here tonight in the spacious government palace of one of the oldest cities in the Western Hemisphere, after being feted royally by the citizens of Porto Rico, in gay carnival mood.

The day was spent in acknowledging one of the most enthusiastic and biggest demonstrations in Mr. Hoover's career. Tonight, Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt was host at a dinner attended by the chief officials of the island at the palace. An official reception, followed by a public reception at 9:30 p. m., climaxed a long and busy day.

Guests mingled in the luxuriant garden of the palace, where palm trees were silhouetted against the tropical sky, their curved trunks reflecting the soft glow of Japanese lanterns hung under the palace walls.

Tribute All For Hoover.

Gov. Roosevelt, in a newspaper interview, said he had no major policies to urge on the President now, but hoped to have a program to submit to the next Congress. He said the main task now was to push ahead with the program of progress in education and health work, and the stimulation of manufacturing. When told that the public demonstrations seemed partly, at least, like a good-will manifestation for him, Gov. Roosevelt replied: "No. It was for the President."

The President was sunburned slightly from the long ride in an open car from Ponce to San Juan today. He appeared deeply gratified by his reception among the islanders.

Up at dawn on board the U. S. S. Arizona, which brought them to Porto Rico, Mr. Hoover and his party went ashore at Ponce, on the other side of the island. They were greeted by Gov. Roosevelt and members of the official reception committee. The President stepped ashore shortly before 8 a. m., the last to leave the battleship which brought him to the island on a tour of America's possessions in the West Indies.

President Makes Address.

From that moment until late this evening, following the reception at the palace, Mr. Hoover and his party were on the go. They drove through cheering throngs at Ponce, where the Chief Executive was welcomed by the mayor. He made a brief response to the official greetings. Speaking from the balcony of the Ponce City Hall, Mr. Hoover said:

"I am particularly glad to visit the only part of the United States which was visited by Columbus. We consider Porto Rico the oldest part of the United States. I am gratified to be able to confer with your able governor, whose distinguished father was the first to promote the welfare of this island. I am greatly impressed with the courage which you are displaying in the face of your difficulties. I only wish I could stay longer, so that I could get better acquainted with you."

Dozens of enthusiastic demonstrations were accorded the President along the winding five-hour drive from Ponce. He waved and smiled almost constantly along the route.

Like Return of Hero.

It was like the return of a popular hero. Outside San Juan school children dominated the throngs. For 7 miles they lined the roadway, and a heavy shower just before the arrival of the presidential party failed to disperse the crowds.

The efforts of Nationalist agitators to inject an attitude of hostility into the islanders apparently was futile.

Mellons to Receive Science Medal Today

Treasury Chief Is 76; Big Gifts by Him and Brother Revealed.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Science honors Andrew W. Mellon's seventy-sixth birthday tomorrow with a chemistry medal which reveals a scarcely known side of his life.

The award, jointly to him and his even more silent brother, Richard B. Mellon, was announced tonight by the American Institute of Chemists. Richard B. was 73 last Thursday.

Neither of them scientists, the Mellons are honored as pioneer patrons of science credited with gifts of many millions of dollars given so quietly that even now the totals are a secret. It all began about twenty years ago.

The practical results appear today in every American household in articles of daily use, quite literally created with aid of the Mellon gifts. They have sponsored health research with an almost ironclad condition that their identity as backers be withheld from publication.

Mainly these researches have been done at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research which they established at the University of Pittsburgh in 1913. There all industry and many branches of science are furnished a place to make discoveries. The Mellons do not usually pay for these researches

FARM BOARD'S STEP BRINGS FEE DEMAND

Equalization or Debenture Plan Urged by Senators in Wheat Crisis.

(Associated Press.)

Abandonment by the Farm Board of its wheat stabilization operations yesterday threw open the old question of dealing with the farm surplus and brought immediate demands for the equalization fee.

The time-worn battle cry around which farm relief advocates rallied as they marched the old McNary-Haugen bill through Congress to its death in a veto by President Coolidge was sounded almost simultaneously by Senate leaders and a farm organization leader.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, whose name was attached to the original farm bill which carried the fee, joined Republican Leader Watson in proposing it again.

Chester H. Gray, legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, predicted the next Congress would strip the Farm Board of its power to attempt to stabilize

COPY OF COMPLAINT MAILED TO WALKER

Gov. Roosevelt Indicates He Desires Answer From Accused Mayor.

Albany, N. Y., March 23 (A.P.).—A copy of the charges preferred by the city affairs committee against James J. Walker, of New York City, was mailed to the mayor at Palm Springs, Calif., today by Gov. Roosevelt.

The governor wrote the mayor that he would like to receive any answer which the mayor might desire to make as soon after Mr. Walker's return to New York City as possible.

Gov. Roosevelt understands that Mayor Walker plans to return to New York in about ten days.

The governor's action was made known in a very brief typewritten statement handed out in the executive mansion this afternoon. Gov. Roosevelt did not enter into any discussion of the case with the newspaper representatives, beyond denying that the charges against Mayor Walker were discussed by him and former Judge Samuel Seabury, named by the executive to conduct an inquiry into

19 Per Cent Gain Seen In U. S. Workers Here

Civil Service Records Disclose 71,252 Federal Employes Serve in District; Emergency Peak Was 117,760 During War; Lowest in 1927.

An increase of more than 19 per cent in the last three and a half years in the number of Government employes in the District of Columbia is shown by figures obtained yesterday from the United States Civil Service Commission.

Records of the Civil Service Commission show that the post-war deflation of the Government service reached its low point in 1927. On June 30 of that year the number of employes on the Government pay rolls in the District was 59,800.

This was in sharp contrast to the prewar number of employes as well as to the number of employes here when the armistice was signed on November 11, 1918.

On June 30, 1916, there were 39,442 employes on the Government rolls in the District. This number had increased to 117,760 at the date of the armistice, soon after which was begun the discharge of employes engaged in war bureaus and in war work in regular governmental agencies.

Since the bottom was reached in 1927, however, there has been a steady rise in the number of employes. The total increased to 61,388 on June 30, 1928, to 63,904 a year later, to 63,946 on December 31, 1929, and to 68,510 on June 30, 1930.

Another jump was shown in the number of employes in the last calendar year, the Civil Service Commission records showing that on last January 31 there were in Washington 71,252 Government employes, the largest number since the post-war reductions ceased and the increases began.

The record of the number of employes for the last six years, as of January 31 each year, follows:

In 1926 the number was 61,296; in 1927 it was 59,615; in 1928 it was 60,743; in 1929 the number was 62,-257; in 1930 it was 64,355, and on January 31, 1931, the number was 71,252.

The Treasury and Commerce Departments employed the largest number of workers on last January 31, with the Navy, Veterans' Bureau, Agriculture, Government Printing Office, War and Postoffice following in the order named.

The personnel of these departments and bureaus numbered: Treasury, 13,383; Commerce, 11,104; Navy, 6,564; Veterans' Administration, 5,532; Agriculture, 5,503; Government Printing Office, 4,920; War, 4,164; Postoffice, 4,059.

From this last figure the number of employes on the rolls of various Government agencies ranged downward to three on the pay rolls of the Fine Arts Commission. Growth of the Office of Public Buildings and Parks in recent years is indicated by the number of employes in that office, 2,883.

Odds and ends of war-time governmental activities still remain about as is evidenced by a study of the list of Government agencies finding it necessary to continue some work. The Railroad Administration had 14 employes on January 31 last. The War Finance Corporation had 10; the Federal Board for Vocational Education, 33; the Board of Mediation, 46.

SEE HISTORIC CHARLESTON, S. C., and World-Famous Magnolia Gardens, $20. Round Trip from Washington, Mar. 27, 28, Apr. 4, 11. Atlantic Coast Line, 1416 F st. n.w.—Adv.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The experience of the last year and a half has done much to demonstrate the economic unity of the country. In a general way prosperity and depression are rather evenly divided among all classes of producers.

The years following the war brought a good deal of complaint that agriculture was depressed. The people on the farms thought all the people in industries were prosperous while only a portion of agriculture was profitable. Yet of the corporations making tax returns for 1929 about 264,-000 showed a net income and about 231,000 showed no net income. During this boom period many lines of industry were engaged in profitless production. No doubt many farmers were in the same condition.

It is now apparent that it was not true that the farmer could be helped by taking something away from industry. When industry began to be depressed the farmer was worse depressed. The weaker class always suffers most from a decline in trade. Agriculture and industry go together. When industry recovers, agriculture probably will recover. The returns show that the farmer had a share in prosperity and that not all industry was profitable.

Viking Disaster Survivors Start Home as Ice Parts

St. Johns Expects Ships Today, With Inquiry to Follow; Plane Racing for Pictures Crashes, While Lack of Fuel Delays Balchen.

St. Johns, Newfoundland, March 23 (A.P.).—The ice floes of White Bay today released their grip on the sealing vessels carrying 127 survivors of the Viking disaster, and the ships headed for St. Johns in bright, clear weather.

Without further mishap the sealers, locked in blocks and hummocks of ice almost a week, should arrive at this port tomorrow morning.

The majority of the survivors are aboard the steamer Prospero to which they were transferred from the sealer Sagona today after a stiff wind had freed the Sagona from its prison of ice. Only the sick and injured were left aboard the Sagona.

When all the rescued men are in port and have rested, Sir Richard Squires, prime minister of Newfoundland, will open an inquiry to determine the cause of the explosion that wrecked the Viking, piling up a casualty list of 2 known dead, 26 missing and many injured.

While the rescue ships were making their best time toward St. Johns, airplanes were racing to obtain pictures of the disaster. One plane had hard luck.

Robert P. Fogg, of Concord, N. H., arrived at Horse Island and cruised over the scene of the explosion, while S. B. Wright, news cameraman, took pictures. Foff essayed a landing on the ice and cracked up. His runners were damaged and, according to word reaching St. Johns, repairs were impossible. Neither he nor Wright was injured.

C. P. Kent, another pilot seeking pictures, was last reported nearing St. Johns from Sydney, Nova Scotia.

Bert Balchen, who planned an air search of the waters about Horse Island in the hope of discovering some of the missing men, was held up in Corner Brook, Newfoundland, awaiting fuel, which arrived too late to continue the flight today.

Wife-Beater Gets Lashes At Maryland Whipping Post

Baltimore Sheriff Gives Offender Ten Strokes With Cat-o'-Nine Tails and Jail Sentence Is Suspended; Third Case in Seven Years.

Baltimore, March 23 (A.P.).—John Kowalski, a blacksmith, convicted of beating his ill wife, was given ten lashes with a cat o' nine tails whip by Sheriff Joseph Deegan in the city jail today.

The blows were light, on orders of Criminal Court Judge Eugene O'Dunne, and the chief visible reaction of Kowalski, the third man to undergo the punishment in Maryland in eleven years, was a half grin. He said nothing either before or after the lashing, and evinced no signs of nervousness.

Afterward Kowalski left the jail in a friend's automobile, the remainder of a 30-day additional sentence having been suspended by Judge O'Dunne on the condition that he become reconciled with his wife.

The whipping post, a movable affair in the general form of a cross, was placed in the main corridor of the jail and the sheriff, an assistant, a small group of jail attaches and a number of newspaper reporters, gathered around it.

Kowalski, in overalls, then was led from his cell into the main corridor of the jail by two guards. At the whipping post the guards bared his back, and bandaged his wrists to protect them from abrasion by the shackles on the cross bar. After the lashes were applied, he was examined by the jail physician, a blanket thrown about him, and he was taken back to his cell to dress before leaving the jail.

Kowalski is about 40 [illegible] brawny. The leather thongs produced only red and white streaks on his back. Judge O'Dunne had expressly ordered that the rare penalty be exacted "without brutality," and some of the spectators called Sheriff Deegan's blows mere "love taps."

The judge had threatened several times in recent weeks that he would

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 5 and 20 Today

They had distributed handbills in the last few days describing Mr. Hoover as the supreme head of the "capitalistic and plutocratic" Republican party. The handbills cited Mr. Hoover's veto of the war veterans' bonus and unemployment insurance bills and urged the people of Porto Rico to refrain from paying homage to the President. However, the people cheered on every hand. The shout of "Viva!" was heard almost at every step.

At Cayey, a town along the way from Ponce, an attractive woman dressed in black rushed up to the Hoover car. She thrust a letter toward the President.

Asks a Pardon for Son.

He was about to take it, but Col. E. W. Starling, of the Secret Service, seized it. She pleaded, but the colonel politely explained that he would give it to Mr. Hoover in the name of Senora Zenaida Monserrate.

In the letter she asked Mr. Hoover to pardon her son, Angel, 21, serving a sentence in Joliet, Ill., prison, on conviction of a charge of manslaughter in Chicago.

At San Juan, Rita Real, 81 years old, pushed her way through the throng and stuck out a withered hand. Mr. Hoover shook it warmly and smiled.

On the tour across the island the President stopped at Henry Barracks and received the 21-gun presidential salute. It was the first salute given on the island, this formality having been dispensed with at Ponce because of the early arrival of the party.

The party entered the palace of Ponce de Leon in San Juan through a shower of multicolored paper on which "welcome" was printed. Red roses were thrown from balconies. The scene was like a miniature Wall street demonstration and one of the biggest welcomes Mr. Hoover ever received anywhere.

Crowds Break Through.

The crowds broke through the police lines and milled around the entrance to the palace. They called insistently for the President to appear on a balcony. Gov. Roosevelt finally appeared instead. He spoke in Spanish briefly, saying:

"I speak on behalf of the President to say that this is splendid. He is not only our President, but our friend. He has done a great deal for us in the last year. We hope he will do still more in the coming year. He knows our abilities and possibilities and the important part we can play in the future. Our President is very sympathetic."

The crowd repeatedly laughed uproariously at Gov. Roosevelt's energetic gestures during the speech, presenting a picture reminiscent of his famous father. The cheering throng gave a loud "Viva!" for their governor as he waved his hand at two beautiful senoritas on a garden wall opposite.

Confers With Leaders.

He went inside, but still the crowd cheered and called for Mr. Hoover. Finally the President and Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt appeared for a moment on the balcony. The crowd broke into frenzied cheering. He was called back for another wave, then went inside. Gov. Roosevelt had at last to beg the crowd to let the President rest.

Mr. Hoover had luncheon with the governor privately. During the afternoon he conferred with political leaders among the Porto Ricans.

He is to hold further conversations tomorrow, prior to his departure for the Virgin Islands on board the Arizona.

the official acts of District Attorney Crain, of New York, at the conference of the governor and Mr. Seabury at Hyde Park yesterday.

Gov. Roosevelt said that the conversation was confined exclusively to the matter of the investigation of the district attorney's office.

Palm Springs, Calif., March 23 (A.P.).—Mayor James J. Walker of New York, informed that charges made against him by the city affairs committee had been mailed to him here by Gov. Franklin Roosevelt, said today he would make no comment until he had returned to New York. He emphasized his refusal by saying "the record of the administration is the best answer to the charges, and New York City, therefore, is the best place to make the answer."

The mayor today visited a school for 3-year-old children, who showed gleeful appreciation of a first-class playmate. The mayor helped them with their gardening, their clay modeling, their boat sailing and in building a picket fence. He also climbed into their tree houses.

Afterward he discussed at length school problems with the teachers and told them what was being done in New York.

same period of the previous year. On that day the Government had a deficit of $613,360,270, having collected $2,447,577,641, and expended $3,060,937,912.

While Treasury officials would not indicate what course would be followed, it was considered probable long-term financing would be employed. It was regarded as possible that Congress would be called upon to take some action in view of the prospective deficit.

Foreign Matches Curbed by Order

Mellon Signs Antidumping Decree After 2 Years of Investigation.

(Associated Press).

An antidumping order against importation of safety matches from eight countries was signed yesterday by Secretary Mellon.

It followed a two-year investigation of charges that European safety match manufacturers were dumping their products into this country at low prices to the injury of domestic producers.

Such action previously had been taken against Russian matches. The latest nations affected are Finland, Norway, Estonia, Sweden, Latvia, Austria, Holland and Poland. The order provided an immediate increase in the duty.

Berryville, Va., March 23.—Mrs. Rebecca Kline, 37, mother of seven children, was accidentally shot and killed yesterday by her son, Raymond, at her home on the farm of Harvey Fishpaw, in Clarke County.

HOLMES DELIVERS 4 OF 6 DECISIONS

Justice, 90, Rules Seaman in Country 3 Years May Be Deported.

(Associated Press.)

Oliver Wendell Holmes, oldest member of the Supreme Court, yesterday gave another instance of his extraordinary vitality by delivering four of the six written opinions handed down. The court recessed until April 13, leaving pending a number of important cases which have been argued, among them Indiana's chain store tax.

One of the opinions delivered by Justice Holmes, who was 90 years old on March 8, held that alien seamen unlawfully in this country may be deported, even if they have been here more than three years.

In another Holmes opinion, the court held in one of the many cases coming to it under the Federal employers' liability act that the statute of limitations begins at the time of the accident.

The court decided in the case of Gynther Storaasli, Army chaplain, that States and municipalities may impose automobile license taxes on motor cars used by Army officers on military reservations.

GIRL SCOUTS UNVEIL PORTRAIT OF LEADER

Mrs. Hoover Unable to Be Present at Function; Tea Follows.

Girl Scouts of America unveiled a portrait of Mrs. Hoover yesterday, but the subject of the painting, who was to have been the honor guest, was unable to attend. The luncheon of wives of "little cabinet" members and preparation for her radio talk, delivered last night, took her time.

The ceremony of unveiling the portrait of the President's wife was held in the assembly room of the house at 1825 M street, which was presented to the organization by Mrs. Henry Flather, former District of Columbia commissioner of the organization.

Before a largegroup of Girl Scout officials and M. R. Haider, who executed the portrait, four of the girls, Betty Holmes, Florence Hald, Helen Sheets and Jeanne Stambaugh, lifted the curtains from the picture.

The portrait presents Mrs. Hoover in a Girl Scout uniform and is done in prevailing tones of green and brown, with an outdoor background. A tea followed the unveiling ceremony.

Spanish Financier Sues in Art Deal

Return of $70,000 Paid for Picture Is Sought in Action.

Milan, Italy, March 23 (A.P.).—Whether a picture for which Francisco Cambo, Spanish financier and politician, paid $70,000 is worth less than $50 is agitating art circles of Italy. An international commission may be asked to answer the puzzle.

Senor Cambo has filed suit to recover the purchase money. He alleges that the canvas was sold to him as a genuine work of Antonello, of Messina, but he charges the picture is bogus and not worth $50.

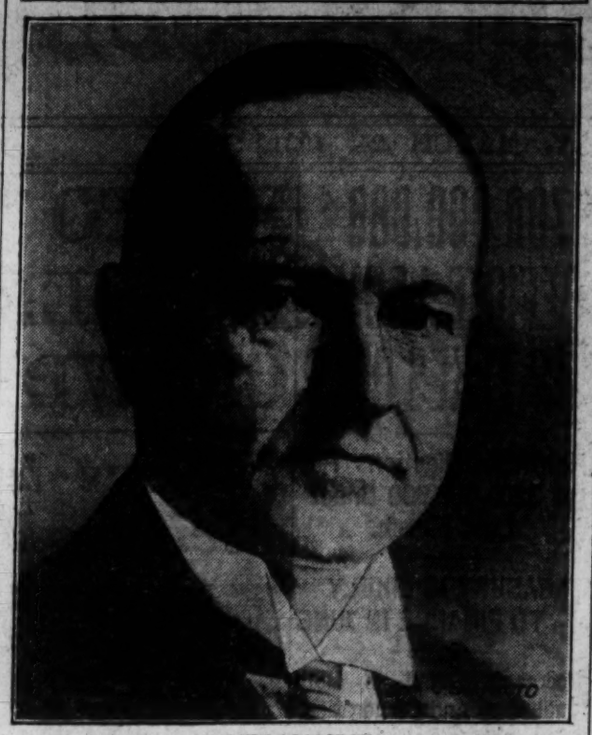
Achillito Chiesa, an antiquariarf of prominence, has undertaken to settle the dispute through a jury of the most noted European authorities. Chiesa himself says the picture is genuine.

Mine Can Feed World Molybdenum a Century

Leadville, Colo., March 23 (A.P.).—One Colorado mine, 12 miles from this bonanza town of another era, is producing three-fourths of the world's supply of molybdenum, the relatively new metal employed as an alloy for steel for automobile and airplane construction.

The mine is the Climax, which has 100,000,000 tons of ore in reserve and contains 1,000,000,000 pounds of metallic molybdenum—enough to supply the present world demand for more than a century.

COOLIDGE INDORSES FLAG PROJECT



CALVIN COOLIDGE,

Former honorary president general of the United States Flag Association. "The work which the United States Flag Association is doing is most commendable and deserves the support of every good and loyal citizen. I am glad to be one amongst those who are pledged to its program of patriotism."

Calvin Coolidge

EXTRA "BOY ENVOY" TO GO AS PILGRIM

Mrs. Klemm Will Sponsor One as Memorial to Her Husband.

Thrilled by the stupendous success of the campaign of the United States Flag Association with the cooperation of The Washington Post, to select a boy and girl "Envoy of Friendship" among the high school students of Washington, Mrs. Karl D. Klemm, of Washington and Kansas City, has decided to sponsor a boy "envoy" to be sent on the patriotic pilgrimage and good will trip to Europe, which is being sponsored by the flag association.

Mrs. Klemm is acting as sponsor for this envoy as a memorial to her husband, the late Col. Karl D. Klemm, a distinguished West Point graduate who followed the American flag on the battlefields of France during the World War.

Mrs. Klemm's "envoy" will be selected from the youth of the Nation through the cooperation of the American Boy, a magazine devoted to boys. In designating this means of selecting her envoy, Mrs. Klemm said:

"I thoroughly believe in education as a boon to any and every child in the world. It appealed to me so greatly, this idea of selecting a boy-at-large in the entire United States, to know that he had through his own merit obtained the great opportunity in patriotic education offered by the United States Flag Association, that I am happy in giving this trip to such a boy.

"The inspiration has come from Mr. Klemm, not from myself, as it is completely in line with his thought which was one of a real patriot. If every boy in the whole nation could know at first hand the children of other nations it would be a wonderful thing for those who are to make laws in the future. Keep our youth looking toward national institutions," she admonished, "and that means our flag!"

MARCH 31 IS DATE FOR FLAG ESSAYS

Entries Must Be in Hands of Teachers One Week From Today.

advice, the telephones at the headquarters of the association, 923 Fifteenth street northwest, continued to ring even Sunday and again yesterday, bringing requests for further instructions. Some of the students had not yet obtained their application blanks and were anxious to know if they were too late to enter. They were told in every instance to obtain application blanks from their teachers and that the time of entry is not limited, provided that the essays are in the hands of the teachers by noon next Tuesday.

For the benefit of any students who have not yet received blanks, the conditions of the contest are again printed here.

Who Are Eligible.

Any student of any high school, public or private, senior or junior, in Washington, who is past 14 years of age and who will not have passed 18 years of age on Flag Day (June 14) of this year, is eligible to enter, providing such student is of high character, sound health, manifest intelligence, good personality and has a good scholastic standing.

Boys must write an essay on "The Typical American Boy" and girls on "The Typical American Girl," these essays not to exceed 200 words.

In transmitting the essays, the teacher will rate the essayist on school citizenship, manifest intelligence, apparent physical condition, personality and qualities of leadership. These ratings will have a maximum value of 50 with the essay rating 50, and the boy and girl receiving the highest mark in each school will represent that school in the preliminary test. Each boy and girl so selected will receive the "Old Glory" medal of the United States Flag Association, carrying with it life membership in the Order of the Flag, headed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh as the first man to become a member of the order.

Preliminary Test April 11.

The preliminary test will be held at the Franklin School Building beginning at 9 a. m., Saturday, April 11. The test will consist of two parts, a written examination in the forenoon on the flag of the United States, and American history, ideals and institutions, and in the afternoon an oral quiz which will be a test of general intelligence. In this test the essay rates 50; written examination, 50, and oral quiz, 50, the six boys and six girls making the highest marks being selected to take part in the final test, which will be held at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, April 18, at some place yet to be selected.

This final test will be held by a jury of selection, to be named shortly, and the contestants will be required to recite their essays. They will be marked on the following basis: Quality of essay, 50; manner of recitation, 25; oral quiz to determine general fitness as an Envoy of Friendship to represent on the Good Will trip to Europe the school children of Washington, 50.

The boy and girl making the highest marks will be selected as "Envoys of Friendship" and the boy and girl receiving the second highest marks will be named as alternates. If, because of illness or any other reason the winner is unable to make the trip, the alternate will be sent instead.

Given Patriotic Pilgrimage.

The two envoys selected will be given a patriotic pilgrimage to Fort Henry, Md., where Francis Scott Key was inspired to write "The Star-Spangled Banner," Philadelphia and Valley Forge, after being received by the President here. They will then be taken on a free trip to London and Paris, with side trips to Oxford, the Shakespeare country, and Sulgrave Manor, the ancestral home of Washington, in England and to Versailles, Fontainbleau and the American battlefields in France.

Each winner will receive the Cross of Honor of the United States Flag Association, the association's highest award, which was given to Col. Lindbergh and former President Coolidge, and the alternates will receive the Patriotic Service Medal, the second highest honor of the United States Flag Association.

Flier, Lost at Sea 6 Days, Is Picked Up by Steamer

Naval Pilot, Who Became Separated From Squadron Over Latin-American Waters, Recounts Experiences of Staying Afloat After Plane Sank.

By VERNE WARREN HARSHMAN.

(Copyright, 1931.)

Buenaventura, Colombia, March 23 (A.P.).—While flying last Tuesday with other pilots of the squadron to which I am attached, near the main body of the fleet which was about 36 hours' steaming south of the Panama Canal, my auxiliary tank ran dry while we were going through a cloudbank.

The clouds had become thick since we had left the U. S. S. Langley earlier in the morning, and during the time it took me to get gas pressure on my main gas tank and to get my motor started again, I lost altitude and lost sight of the rest of the squadron.

I circled below the clouds for a few minutes and then climbed up above them, but I could see no other planes.

Then I went down below again and made a scouting circuit, first to the right and then to the left, trying to get back to my original starting point, for I figured I couldn't be very far from the fleet.

Still I didn't see any ships, so I her down on the water because my flew upwind for ten minutes and set gas supply was getting very low.

I put out the flotation gear with which the plane was equipped and it functioned properly. This was about 11 a. m. on Tuesday.

It started to rain hard right after I landed and the visibility, of course, was very poor. I got out the rubber lifeboat on top of the upper wing, put in a canteen of water, a signal pistol and a red flag.

About 8 o'clock Tuesday night the left wing flotation bag deflated and the wing went under. I saw that she could not stay afloat much longer, so I inflated the rubber lifeboat and launched it, tying up to the fuselage so I could stick with the plane as long as possible.

About 2 a. m. on Tuesday I heard the air hissing out of the right flotation tank, so I shoved off and the plane sank quickly.

Wednesday was overcast with much rain. I sighted nothing, but estimated my general drift at about 2 knots northeast.

Thursday and Friday were uneventful, and all my sensations of hunger had gone. I conserved my strength, not bothering to use the oars, but I was sopping wet from the rain which poured down without a letup.

On Saturday the visibility got better and about 8:30 p. m. I sighted a ship fairly close on the port side, heading south.

I shot off all the red stars I had but they didn't notice them, so I heaved the pistol overboard.

Sunday was clear. At 8 a. m. I sighted a Pan-American Airways plane bound north and flying low, but she was too far away to see me.

Then about fifteen minutes past noon I saw in the distance a steamer coming my way. I broke out the oars and rowed over right into her path. She picked me up at 12:30.

As soon as I got aboard I tried to radio the Canal Station, but the ship's outfit was too weak to reach more than 50 miles.

She was the Cerigo of the Hamburg-American Lines, and no other ship in the world will ever look so good to me. The officers treated me splendidly.

Now that I think it over, I remember that during the first couple of days I was sort of worried about the sharks which tried to tip me out of my lifeboat several times, but after awhile I got used to them.

UNITED PLAN URGED FOR PROGRESSIVES

LaGuardia Says Working Agreement in Houses Will Aid Legislation.

(Associated Press.)

A plan for a working agreement to unite Senate and House Progressives in an effort to obtain relief legislation at the next Congress were outlined yesterday by Representative LaGuardia.

The New York Republican said more than twenty belong to the House Progressive group which will present minimum demands, including two measures vetoed by President Hoover last session, to congressional leaders within three weeks.

"There will be an understanding and working arrangement with Progressives of the Senate that we didn't have last session," Mr. LaGuardia said. "The party that accepts our minimum legislative demands will organize the House. We will insist on this legislation before any supply bills are passed.

Major points in the La Guardia relief program include:

The Wagner Federal employment agency bill, pocket vetoed by President Hoover; a national unemployment insurance system, legislation on legal injunctions affecting labor disputes, and Government operation of Muscle Shoals.

"The program," Mr. La Guardia said, "assumes a change of the rules of the House to enable us to bring bills to a vote."

Mr. La Guardia suggested that a national unemployment insurance system be based on a weekly tax of 5 cents from each employe and 10 cents per employe from every employer, with the Government assuming the expense of administration.

Soviet Plans Aid For Disabled Vets

2,000,000 Invalids Dependent on State May Work on Farms.

Moscow, March 23 (A.P.).—Disabled veterans' relief in the Soviet Union is being turned toward the practical object of reducing the labor shortage.

A survey revealed that there are about 2,000,000 invalids in the country, most of them victims of the World War and dependent on the state for maintenance. The survey also showed about 1,700,000 as capable of some form of work.

A Central Institute of Invalid Labor has been established to study the capabilities of these persons, especially for farm work. One of the first steps undertaken is a study of the degree of fatigue to which they may be subjected safely.

Eskimos Defended By Danish Leader

"Dangerous Experiment" of Trying Blessings of Civilization.

Copenhagen, March 23 (A.P.).—The Eskimos in other lands may be subjected to the mixed blessings of modern civilization, but under the present Danish policy those in Greenland will not be made the subjects of any such "dangerous experiment."

"As long as I remain in power," Prime Minister Stauning announced, "Greenland will not be 'opened up' nor will the government trade monopoly be abolished. The Eskimo thrives under the present system. I see no reason to start experimenting with the kind-hearted, trusting aboriginal people."

At present white men are not allowed to settle or even own land in Greenland without special permission from the Danish government.

ATTORNEY RESIGNS GOVERNMENT POST

Neil Burkinshaw, Prosecutor in Smith Case, Quits Rover's Office.

The team of Nugent Dodds and Neil Burkinshaw, that successfully represented the Government in the highly intricate case against G. Bryan Pitts, C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., officers of the F. H. Smith Co., was broken up yesterday when Mr. Burkinshaw tendered his resignation to United States Attorney Leo A. Rover to take effect immediately.

The resignation was in Mr. Rover's hands for a forthwith consideration, and he complied with his subordinate's request immediately. So far as is known the resignation was not contemplated by Mr. Burkinshaw before he appeared at the Court House with it.

Since the former Assistant United States Attorney has become associated with the Government's investigation of the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., he will probably continue through to the end, in company with Mr. Dodds, who is Assistant United States Attorney General. Mr. Dodds indicated that he would offer Mr. Burkinshaw a commission to assist in the investigation now pending and also to assist in future court actions against Pitts and others in the Smith case.

Mr. Burkinshaw had been with the Government six years. He is a graduate of Georgetown University Law School, and he has assisted in many important cases that were handled by the United States Attorney's oce here.

Belgium Buys Brakes.

Brussels, March 23 (A.P.).—At an expense of $10,000,000, half the 65,000 railway cars in Belgium have been fitted with American air brakes and the others are to be equipped within the year.

SOCIALISTS IN DRIVE FOR EXTRA SESSION

Watson and Longworth Tell Thomas They Will Give Plan to Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

A campaign for an extra session of Congress to deal with economic distress was inaugurated yesterday at a conference of Socialists, representatives of peace societies and other organizations.

Delegates to the conference headed by Norman Thomas, former Socialist candidate for President, conferred with Republican Leader Watson of the Senate, and Speaker Longworth to ask them to request President Hoover to call a special session.

Both Senator Watson and Mr. Longworth agreed to present the request to the President on his return from the Caribbean. Mr. Watson, however, said he was not convinced that the situation required an extra session and expressed the view business would revive better with Congress adjourned.

Delegations also called on Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, and Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, to urge that they and other leaders of the recent Progressive conference appeal to the country for an extra session.

Senator Wheeler agreed to make a radio appeal but said he did not think the Progressives could influence President Hoover to call Congress into session.

Plans were made for sending a delegation to the White House when President Hoover returns and for having members of Congress submit periodical reports to the President on conditions in their districts.

There was much difference of opinion over what problems should be cited in the appeal for an extra session. It was finally agreed Congress should be called to consider domestic distress and "international affair in their bearing on the internal crisis."

LEADERS OF SPANISH REVOLT SENTENCED

Madrid, March 23. (A. P.).—Popular demonstrations, political manifestos and the sentence by a courtmaritial of Alcala Zamora, one of the leaders of the December revolution and a candidate at the coming municipal elections, featured the eve of the opening of Madrid's political campaign tonight.

Zamora and five other civilian leaders of the revolt received six monthhs and one day each in jail by the supreme courtmartial which tried them last week.

Minor student rioting and the issuance of a Socialist-Labor party manifesto attacking the monarchy were other events of the day. It was the second day of the restoration of complete constitutional guarantees for the first time in eight years.

Newspapers were reveling in free speech tonight. Students and members of political left parties began parades as part of a campaign for complete amnesty for all political prisoners.

Four civilians and two policemen were injured yesterday at the town of Linares in riots which occurred over the controversy developing but of renaming some of the streets of the town.

Gen. Ricardo Burguete, president of the courtmartial, said that Alcala Zanora and his colleagues were given minimum sentences because of "certain extenuating circumstances." There was a report current they might be exiled to the Balearic Islands for three months to complete their sentences. They have served three months in jail already.

The Socialists and Labor Republicans were continuing tonight to agitate for an immediate pardon by the king.

Increase in Reopening Of Banks Is Reported

(Associated Press.)

An increasing percentage of banks reopening as compared with failures was recorded by the Federal Reserve Board for February, along with a sharp decrease in the number of failures.

Forty-five banks reopened with 78 failures reported. For the preceding month there had been 54 reopenings, but 277 failures. The reopened banks in February were: New York District, 1; Richmond, 5; Atlanta, 3; Chicago, 4; St. Louis, 26; Minneapolis, 2; Kansas City, 3; Dallas, 1.

Fraud Order Issued Against Report Firm

(Associated Press).

The Post Office Department yesterday issued a fraud order against the Convention Reporting Co., in New York, on the ground that the concern distributed unwanted transcripts of convention proceedings.

The department said persons attending conventions had oftentimes unknowingly signed slips that pledged them to purchase transcripts at 35 cents a page, sometimes totaling $2,800. Joseph A. Smith, the order said, was manager of the concern.

The Miracle of ICE

What a marvelous thing it is—the making of ice! Water that runs between your fingers transformed by the alchemy of freezing into glistening rock-like masses of coldness! Day after day this miracle is performed in the great ice-plants of the American Ice Company and the wonder of it never becomes stale.

American Ice is purer than most of the water you drink because it is made from carefully protected city water which is again filtered and scientifically purified before it is frozen in great sanitary containers as clean as your own refrigerator. And when the freezing is complete, there stand the huge blocks of sparkling frigidity—so clear and transparent that they might be giant carvings from the finest rock crystal.

Akron Mechanic Enters Plea of Not Guilty; Trial to Be Set Tomorrow.

Akron, Ohio, March 23 (A.P.).—The law today took two swift strides against Paul F. Kassay, the mechanic who has been accused of planning sabotage on Uncle Sam's newest and largest fighting aircraft, the U. S. S. Akron.

First, he was indicted for violating the State criminal syndicalism law, and then almost immediately arraigned. Common Pleas Judge Lionel S. Padee accepted his plea of not guilty and will set his trial date on Wednesday.

Kassay was arraigned on an indictment returned earlier in the day by the Summit County grand jury. Judge Pardee fixed the bond in the case at $20,000, the same figure set at Kassay's Police Court arraignment. Mrs. Yetta Land, of Cleveland, attorney for Kassay, argued unsuccessfully for a reduction in the bond.

The arraignment followed withdrawal of a habeas corpus action filed in the Ninth District Court of Appeals. Judges C. G. Washburn and W. E. Pardee, of that court, decided arraignment on the indictment and not action on a writ of habeas corpus would furnish the proper opportunity for bringing up the question of reduced bond. Mrs. Land then asked that Kassay be immediately arraigned.

Assistant County Prosecutor George Hargreaves extended the search for Mrs. Golda Kassay, wife of the mechanic, to Cleveland today after repeated failure to find her at her home here. Hargreaves seeks to question Mrs. Kassay.

5 Dead, 9 Injured In Firemen's Crash

Engine Upsets as Volunteers Speed to Put Out Grass Blaze.

Malvern, Pa., March 23 (A.P.).—Five members of the Malvern volunteer fire company were killed and nine injured late today, when the company's fire engine overturned on King road, two miles west of Malvern.

Those killed were Clifford Kilpatrick, 19; William Garrett, 21; Clarence Gregg, 23; Horace Matlack, 25, and Henry Munch, 48.

The men were speeding to a grass fire. As the engine turned from a macadam road onto a dirt road it struck a rut and overturned, pinning several of the firemen beneath it.

EQUALIZATION FEE DEMAND FOLLOWS WHEAT POLICY SHIFT

prices and substitute instead either the equalization fee or the debenture plan.

Senator McNary, who is chairman of the Senate agriculture committee, expressed the opinion that the equalization fee was the most "practical method yet devised for segregation of the surplus."

Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, an advocate of the export debenture plan, predicted agitation for the debenture and equalization fee would be increased at the next session.

In a formal statement Mr. Borah said "the so-called stabilizing program had to have an end," as it was "leading to disaster."

Regarding the Farm Board agency's wheat holdings he said the very least the Government could do would be to "give the absolute assurance that this wheat will not be put upon the market until the world price has reached at least $1.50 a bushel, and then only in such amounts as will not materially lower the price."

Senator Borah is chairman of the agriculture committee set up by the recent Progressive conference. He said the board's announcement probably would stimulate the committee's activity in finding a farm program for the next session.

Senator McNary thought the most practical thing to do would be to retain the wheat now held in storage, and by process of orderly marketing gradually get it into channels of trade here and abroad.

Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board, said the board's financial condition had nothing to do with adoption of its policy of not stabilizing 1931 wheat. The chairman said the board had ample funds on hand.

Discussing the probable effect of the board's announcement on wheat prices, Mr. Stone said he saw nothing which would prevent Chicago prices from reaching world levels unless there was sharp reduction in acreage. This would mean, it is believed, a drop of 15 cents in July futures.

Deterioration Is Denied.

Mr. Stone said the board hoped for a 20 per cent reduction in both wheat and cotton acreage.

Commenting on Senator Watson's statement that one-third of the board's wheat holdings of 200,000,000 bushels had deteriorated, Mr. Stone said:

"That is not true. As far as I know all our wheat is in good condition."

Word of sinking wheat prices coming in the wake of the board's announcement that it would not attempt to stabilize prices for the 1931 crop followed close on the prediction of Mr. Gray that before autumn the country would see 50-cent wheat.

Senator Watson pointed to the equalization fee as "the only remedy" that appeared to him. He said he did not believe in the export debenture plan.

Senator Couzens (Republican), of Michigan, however, said neither the equalization fee, the debenture nor any other artificial method would solve the surplus problem. He regarded more direct sales by the farmer over longer periods, instead of dumping his crops upon middlemen immediately after harvest, as one remedy.

Wheat at Record Low.

Chicago, March 23 (A.P.).—Next summer's wheat crop could have been bought up on the Chicago market today at bargain prices, unequaled since 1895.

As an aftermath of the Government's announcement that stabilization of wheat prices on the 1931 crop rests with the farmers, holders of future contracts in the grain sold out at record low prices.

July wheat finished at 59⅜ to 59¾ cents a bushel, and September at 60¼ to 60⅜, ranging from 1⅞ to 2⅛ cents under Saturday's close. June contracts, in which there was no trading Saturday, fell more than 11 cents from its last quotation to touch 65, then recovered to 67.

The low point for July wheat, 59½, had not been recorded since 1895. That year a minimum of 50½ was quoted.

The prices for the present crop, bolstered by the Grain Stabilization Corporation, dipped only ⅛ to ¾ of a cent.

Bullish Factor Seen.

The announcement that the Farm Board will do no stabilization buying in 1931 wheat occasioned varying comment from private and official sources. George S. Milnor, president of the Stabilization Corporation, said he regarded the announcement as a bullish factor in the market, for stabilization by Government purchasing had never been intended as a permanent policy. The decision will make farmers realize they must curtail acreage to keep prices stable, he said.

Peter B. Carey, vice president of the board of trade, averred the Government must reveal clearly its plans to dispose of its stocks before stability could obtain.

Communist, Angered, Stabs Three to Death

Fort Frances, Ont., March 23 (A.P.). Enraged by criticism of communism, of which he was an ardent supporter, Antanzy Usciski today stabbed to death his sister-in-law, Mrs. Nick Strayka, 38; her two daughters, Olga, 19, and Ellen, 8, and wounded her 14-year-old son.

The scene of the slayings was Arbor Village. Usciski stolidly walked to Pinewood, 14 miles away, and surrendered to the Canadian National Railway station agent. The agent notified provincial police at Rainy River, Ont.

Stamps Bring High Prices.

London, March 23 (A.P.).—There is no depression in stamp collecting. Six stamps brought £1,700 at Harmers, Old Bond street. A shilling mauve New Brunswick on a dated envelope with three-penny red stamp realized £500.

MISSIONARIES FACE NEW PERIL IN CHINA

Reds Penetrate Close to Hankow; Yangtze River Lined With Trenches.

Hankow, China, March 23 (A.P.).—Grave fears were felt today for the safety of foreign missionaries in outlying districts as the result of increased Communist activities in southern Hupeh and northern Hunan Provinces.

The situation reached an acute stage, with the reds overrunning the country within 150 miles of the tricities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang.

Along the Yangtze River, between Hankow and Ichang, 378 miles, the reds have clamped on a crimson grip which is the firmest in several years. Both banks of the river display Communist flags and slogans, while Communist batteries continue firing on passing shipping.

An Italian gunboat has gone to Kichow, 100 miles below Hankow, where an Italian mission is located. Communists and brigands are menacing the city.

Despite American official protests and missionary efforts, Bert Nelson, a missionary from Minneapolis, remains a prisoner near Hwangan, northern Hupeh Province. He was captured by Communists last October.

The reds have constructed scores of miles of trenches along the Yangtze River below Nanking, manning them throughout. Foreign naval and commercial ships attempting to navigate this section of the Yangtze consider the area the most dangerous stretch of inland water in the world.

Nationalist government military and naval officers here continue to broadcast their plans for a large-scale offensive against reds and bandits over a huge area, but the efforts seem futile.

Communists looted numerous villages within 30 miles of Hankow in the last few days. Farther north, near the Honan Province border, they again cut the Peiping-Hankow railroad.

In eastern Hupeh they made a shambles of the important town of Yingshan and advanced on Kishui. From the latter city and neighborhood thousands of refugees are streaming toward Kwangshihkang, southwestward across the Yangtze.

From northeastern Hupeh Province came reports that at least 30,000 reds were killing and pillaging there. Farmers were fleeing from the bands roaming the countryside.

Scalded in Icy Water.

Garden, Mich., March 23 (U.P.).—William Smith, Fayette fisherman, fell into the icy waters of Lake Michigan recently and scalded himself. This unusual feat was accomplished, however, only when he fell through a hole cut to spear through and in an attempt to save himself pulled over a pot of boiling water as he plunged into the lake.

parole to a member of a previous board, whose name I won't reveal; then, eleven months later, I was rearested. You can't get any justice from the boad. They have told me I was innocent of the crime, but they kep me here."

From Thomas H. Cannon, member of the present board—"Moran told just one side of the story. You must remember these convicts hate everybody. Much of your sympathy for them is misplaced * * * We give full attention to every parole case before us."

Into the clouded atmosphere broke the warning of Moran: "The rioting March 14 is by no means the last. The men are still uneasy. The only thing that keeps it down is the iron bars."

There was another climax outside the committee room. The Rev. George L. Whitmeyer, Episcopal chaplain, who resigned, effective today, after the warden charged him with fomenting disorder, confirmed the fact that he was a former convict himself.

"What of it?" he asked. "My bishop knows all about it. Has this anything to do with the fact that I openly denounced the tactics at Joliet—that I called the killing of tthree men who tried to escape 'murder?'

"If I had kept quiet about these murders nothing would have been said or done. I was told by Col. Frank Whipp, superintendent of prisons, that I talked too much when I called the killing of those thtree men premeditated murder. When I asked to appear before the committee he told me I would be sorry for it. I knew what he meant, but I would not keep quiet."

Tonight prison officials maintained their vigilance over inmates, due to the fact that after Moran had testified, he was permitted to hear everything Cannon had said about prisoners. Then he was allowed to return to the prison yard.

SOLDIER, ACQUITTED OF FATALITY, WEEPS

Jury Finds Frissell Not Guilty of Death of Auto Victim.

Acquitted of a charge of manslaughter by a jury in Justice Oscar R. Luhring's court, Harry Leonard Frissell, a 43-year-old soldier stationed at Washington Barracks, broke down and cried in courtroom. He quickly recovered his composure and grasped the hands of several of the jurors.

Frissell was brought up on the charge after Thomas Carey, 74 years old, of H street near Second street northeast, had died in Sibley Hospital, March 5, from injuries alleged to have been suffered when he was struck the preceding day by an automobile driven by Frissell.

Testimony was to the effect that Frissell's machine struck a Negro bicyclist, then ran up on the sidewalk and struck Carey. The accident happened at Second and H streets northeast. Attorneys Theodore Saks and Irving Yochelson defended the man, while Assistant United States Attorney James F. Hughes represented the Government.

The jury deliberated nearly three hours.

Suspect Pleads Guilty in Holdup

Walter O. Jones Asserts He Got $700 as Part in Hospital Robbery.

Pleading guilty to complicity in the theft of $3,289 from Miss Eleanore Page, cashier of the Children's Hospital, Walter O. Jones, who was brought here from California, where he had been apprehended through his fingerprints, yesterday was remanded to jail to await sentence by Justice Peyton Gordon.

The case was referred to Probation Officer Amos A. Steele, who is to make a report to the court this week.

Jones admitted, in entering his plea, that he waited at the Public Library while two confederates robbed Miss Page. He said that he feared she would recognize him if he went to the hospital. Jones also said he was given $700 of the money and that he took his wife and two children to California, where he was caught.

in the President's study, once the workroom of President Lincoln. Her address was delivered under the auspices of the women's division of the President's emergency committee for employment. It was her fourth radio speech since her husband came to the White House.

The broadcast was opened with delivery by two Girl Scouts to Mrs. Hoover, honorary president of that organization, of a report upon its work in helping alleviate unemployment.

Lois Kuhn, member of a Girl Scout troop of Bethesda, Md., spoke briefly of Girl Scout activities and aims in employment work. With her was Peggy Starr, another scout.

"Peggy Starr and Lois Kuhn, of the Girl Scouts," Mrs. Hoover began, "I am very glad that as your honorary president it has fallen to my lot to receive from you this report of the activities of the Girl Scouts during this period of drought and unemployment, and consequent want.

"The great band of 250,000 active Girl Scouts, with the other 250,000 or more who have been Girl Scouts, but who have now grown beyond the age of active membership, shows a typical cross-section of the women and girls of the United States. * * *

"So the Girl Scouts but represent the girls and women of this country in meeting and, to a large degree, overcoming the threatening disaster of this national situation."

Mrs. Hoover said the President desired to express at a later time his appreciation of the work done through the women's division of his emergency employment committee. She added, however, that when "the coming clouds of depression threatened" the President said "that a very large proportion of the work and of the spirit that would make the storm pass without consummate destruction would be due to the way in which the women met it."

"From the President," Mrs. Hoover concluded, "for work you have shared as members of the women's division of the President's emergency committee for employment, from the officials of that committe, from those you have aided, even from those yet to be aided, I am delivering to you messages of heartfelt gratitude."

Mrs. Hoover reached the Capital from her week-end vacation at the President's Rapidan fishing camp yesterday afternoon. Although arrangements were uncertain, she planned to leave today, if possible, for Asheville, N. C., to visit her son, Herbert Hoover, jr., who is convalescing there.

Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, wife of the Interior Secretary, and Miss Susan Dyer, of California, who went to the snow-covered mountain camp with her, did not return to Washington, but started by motor direct to Asheville.

Executive Committee Begins Three-Day Conference at Mayflower Hotel.

Officers and members of the executive committee of the Association of Military Colleges and Schools of the United States assembled for a dinner at the Hotel Mayflower last evening prior to the opening this morning of the eighteenth annual meeting of the association. Plans were formulated for the three-day meeting which will continue through Thursday.

Col. F. Farrand, of St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis., is president of the association. Other officers and members of the executive committee are Lieut. Col. A. M. Hitch, of Kemper Military School, Boonville, Mo., vice president; Maj. H. H. Holt, of St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis., secretary-treasurer, and Col. Thomas D. Landon, of Bordentown Military Institute, Bordentown, N. J.; Brig. Gen. L. R. Gignilliat, of Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind.; Col. Sandy Beaver, of Riverside Military Academy, Gainesville, Ga.; Brig. Gen. M. F. Davis, of the New York Military Academy, Cornwall-on-Hudson, N. Y., and Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Va.

One of the principal events of the meeting is an address by the Assistant Secretary of War, Lieut. Col. Frederick H. Payne, at the dinner scheduled for Wednesday evening. Dr. William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, is also listed for an address.

One Snuff Seeker Receives 25 Days

Second Woman, Who Sent Fire Alarm, Gives Personal Bond.

Their quest for some "snuff that could not be found in town," that sent them to a Kenilworth store, yesterday landed a group of Negro women in police court.

Mary Houston drew a 25-day sentence for taking some $8 from a pocketbook of a friend and fellow snuff-seeker; Lily Holmes, who sent in an alarm for a nonexistent fire, gave personal bond, and Amanda Washington was set free, there being no charge against her.

It seems that while the Patterson woman went to arouse the store keeper, some one took $8 from her pocketbook. The Holmes woman, excited over the ensuing dispute, rang a fire alarm and soon firemen and policemen were there in numbers seeking the trouble. The Patterson woman is still minus her money.

Citizens in Southwest Ask Speed on Market

A delegation of property owners and residents of the area in which the Southwest Municipal Market is to be constructed yesterday called upon the District Commissioners and urged them to build a portion of the market at once, even though all of the land has not yet been obtained.

The Commissioners reminded the delegation that some of the lots are still in condemnation proceedings, but they took the matter under advisement. The delegation was headed by E. F. Colladay, attorney, and Col. Wrisley Brown.

U. S. SEEKS PADLOCK OF CAFE ON I STREET

Declares Place Is Public and Private Nuisance Under Prohibition Act.

The Government, represented by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Assistant United States Attorney Harold W. Orcutt, moved yesterday to close the first floor of the premises at 1320 I street northwest for a period of one year.

In its petition, the United States attorney claims that the place has been conducted as a "private and public nuisance" within the meaning of the national prohibition act. The bill names Enea Croce, Josephine De Biasi, alias Josephine Di Biassi, Emile Gianelle and Martha Fitzpatrick, who is the alleged owner of the place.

In three supporting affidavits the bill shows that Detectives H. G. Wanamaker and A. D. Mansfield, and one Sidney V. Rogers collaborated to purchase liquor in the place at various times. The Government claims that the entire first floor was operated as a restaurant and that large quantities of liquor were sold, stored, bartered and kept there.

A fac simile of a letter sent to the owners of the place shows that the Government contends she was warned that liquor sales within the place had been reported, and was notified that such knowledge was in the hands of the United States attorney.

The petition also asks that both a temporary and permanent injunction be issued restraining Croce or any of his agents from in any way violating the prohibition laws in the District. The place was recently raided and Croce pleaded guilty in Police Court to several charges of violating the prohibition laws. He is now serving a short sentence in jail for those offenses.

Former Policeman Gets Sentence on Rum Count

Pleading guilty to two charges of possession of liquor, John Latimore Gibson, 48, a former policeman, and a member of the grand jury that handled the McPherson inquiry, was sentenced to pay two fines of $100 and serve two sentences of 60 days. The sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for one year.

Gibson was arrested in front of Police Court February 10. A place on Twelfth street southeast had been raided two days previous and two men were arrested. On the statements made by these two men Gibson was later arrested. Judge Isaac R. Hitt heard the case and passed the sentence.

Fingerprints Identify Man Found Dead in Lot

The body of a man found dead in a vacant lot in Loudons court near Twelfth street southeast yesterday was identified through his fingerprints as Arthur Buckler, 40 years old.

His fingerprints were on file at police headquarters, he having been arrested here in 1927 on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon. At that time he gave his address as Minnesota avenue near Twenty-third street southeast. Death was from natural causes.

ALEXANDRIA BANKER NAMED BY CHAMBER

Secretary and Treasurer Is Reelected at Meeting for 25th Term.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 823.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, held yesterday afternoon, Luther H. Dudley, vice president and cashier of the Alexandria National Bank, was elected president of the chamber, succeeding John Barton Phillips, who declined to again be considered for office. Frank W. Noxon was chosen vice president, succeeding Mr. Dudley.

James T. Preston was reelected secretary and treasurer, for the twenty-fifth consecutive term, he having been elected secretary and treasurer when the Chamber of Commerce was organized, 25 years ago, and never having had opposition for the office since.

The new officers, with Dan S. Hollenga, business manager, have been most active in the affairs of the reorganized body.

The first annual banquet of the Alexandria District Council of Boy Scouts of America was held last night in the Young Peoples' Building. Gunnar H. Berg, director of volunteer training for the National Scouts of America, made the principal address on scouting and the community. The program was as follows: Assembly, by Councilor Bugler Raymond Galleher, Troop No. 141, M. E. Church South; presentation of the colors, color guard, Troop No. 165, Presbyterian Church; James Kelley, Stuart Abrahams, Lindsey Noble; Walter Edwards, Bugler Galleher, pledge of allegiance, all assembled; invocation, the Rev. Leitch; moving pictures and local scout activities; camp fire scene and taps, Buglers Galleher and Powell.

The Allison Women's Christian Temperance Union will sponsor a silver medal contest tonight at 8 o'clock in the lecture room of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

The program will be as follows: Opening hymn, "America;" prayer by the Rev. Dr. D. L. Snyder; salute to the Flag, Trooop No 126, Boy Scouts; violin solo, Prof. Fritz Hauer, accompanied by Mrs. D C. Book.

Recitations by the following contestants for the medal: "My Story," Annie Simpson; "Song of Bob White," Virginia Greenwood; "Cigarettes Are Not for Me," Walter Cornell; "Fight to the Finish," Janet McLean; "Wait 'Till I Light a Cig" Bessie Parker. Presentation of the medal. Closing hymn, and prayer by Mrs Weech, a State officer in the organization.

Judges invited are the Rev. E. R. Spencer, Miss Florence A. Long and Mrs. Amy Weech Mrs. Charles Strauss is program chairman.

The suit of B. B. Ezrine and others against the Fidelity & Casualty Co., of New York, Inc., to recover the sum of $2,000 for the loss of a diamond ring is to be heard today before a special jury, Judge William P. Woolls presiding. It is claimed that in April, 1930, the ring, which was insured with the defendant company, was stolen from the Ezrine home and efforts to trace its whereabouts have failed. The complainant is represented by Charles Henry Smith, and the defendant corporation by J. Randall Caton.

The first half of the city taxes for 1931 will be due and payable at the office of City Collector Purvis Taylor on April 15, next The new bills now being made out are in accordance with the new assessment made last fall, and in most cases property owners will pay a larger tax than heretofore. It is estimated that approximately $87,000 in unpaid taxes is now on the books, and the clerk has directed attention to fact that a 6 per cent penalty is now on all unpaid 1930 taxes, due November 15 last.

Mrs. Eliza Rebecca Simpson, 86 years old, widow of William G. Simpson, died yesterday at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Clarence Kennedy, 9 Myrtle avenue. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Isaac Groves, Mrs. Frank Deeton, Mrs. Henry Lyons and Mrs. W. D. Jennier; also 46 grandchildren and 57 great-grandchildren. The four daughters are the survivors of 13 children. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home, conducted by the Rev. C. M. Compher, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church.

The funeral of Mrs. Louisa Elizabeth Winston, 92 years old, widow of William Hamilton Winston, of Madison, Wis., a former resident of this city, who died on Sunday in Washington, will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning from the First Baptist Church, conducted by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

In the circuit court for this district the will of Mrs. Nellie S. L. Uhler, dated September 2, 1929, has been admitted to probate. Testatrix leaves an estate valued at $25,000. After making certain provisions for her daughters, Miss Katherine Griffith Uhler, who is to get a monthly income from the estate, she directed that the remainder go to her children. Her son, John Lloyd Uhler, and C. S. Taylor Burke, are named as executors and qualified as such, giving a joint bond in the sum of $50,000.

Alexandria Opens Fight on Water

Dispute Is Waged Over Valuation of Properties for Rates.

Richmond, Va., March 23 (A.P.).—The fight between the City of Alexandria and the Alexandria Water Co. over the company's proposal to increase rates 40 per cent began before the State corporation commission today, with counsel disputing over valuation figures.

The company claims valuation of properties, used and unusable, at $2,050,000, and asserts the present revenue is $64,000, or about 3 per cent on the investment.

The company is asking rates to bring its net return to $120,000, or between 5.5 and 6.7 per cent. The city contends present rates are yielding at least 7 per cent.

MARYLAND BILL HITS CONFUSION OF TIMES

Senate Passes Antidaylight Savings Measure; May Abolish Whipping.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 23.—With sine die adjournment of the 90-day biennial session due two weeks from tomorrow, the Maryland General Assembly reconvened tonight and settled down to the grind that always marks the closing days. Some few newly proposed laws were offered in both the Senate and House, but the major portion of time was given over to committee reports and clearing the third reading files that were pretty well clogged, mostly by local measures.

Wednesday is the dead line for presenting new bills, unless under suspension of rules. It is unlikely that introductions will approach the marks of the last several sessions. Measures offered in the House tonight brought the total to slightly above 500, while in the Senate the number is less than 400.

Senate Passes Time Bill.

The first direct crack at daylight saving in Maryland came in the Senate when the bill sponsored by Senator Ensor, of Harford County, was passed by that body. The measure makes it unlawful to display signs other than applying to Eastern standard time. Widespread confusion resulted in Baltimore City last summer when certain sections of the city operated on daylight saving and others on standard time. A similar bill is pending in the House, and indications are that the Assembly will put a curb on daylight time entirely.

Increased salaries for the clerical force in the office of the County Commissioners of Montgomery County are provided in a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Robert G. Hilton, of that county. The measure fixes the clerk's salary at $3,000 per annum, two assistants at $2,100 each, and a stenographer, at $1,500.

Repeal of the law that fixes the whipping post for wife-beaters is sought in a bill offered by Delegate Burns, of Baltimore City.

Proposes Prison Term.

This legislation had its inception in the case of John Kowalski, who received ten lashes in the Baltimore City Jail today, where he is also serving a 30-day sentence for a recent assault upon his wife. Following the conviction of husband, the wife sought in vain to have the lashing penalty revoked. The Burns bill proposes a prison term up to three years in the discretion of the court, for future wife beaters. The present term carries a penalty up to 40 lashes, a maximum prison term of one year, or both.

Pending legislation that presages warm contests this week are the several anti-Sunday blue-law bills. There is one measure designed to wipe all of the ancient Sabbath laws from the statute books, and three others embodying modification, particularly as regards Baltimore City, and one of these sponsored by Speaker Michel of the House is State-wide in scope by providing some rule for the smaller cities and the counties.

Another hot fight will center around the proposal to ban purse and buck net fishing in the waters of the State. This measure has the backing of many sportsmen's organizations and appears in a fair way of enactment. The civil marriage and marriage delay bills, antibillboard and central almshouse measures, are among other State-wide proposals yet to be disposed of, in addition to several State administration bills, including the road and bridge building program.

Man Woman Accuses Is Sent to Lynchburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., March 23.—Calvin Gromes, 19, Negro, arrested Sunday on charge of attacking Mrs. C. L. Vail, near Sandidges, Amherst County, Saturday afternoon, has been brought to the jail here. He was found in a barn at adjoining place.

The Negro, it is charged, battered Mrs. Vail's head and face with a rock, apparently without a motive. Mrs. Vail said she was feeding chickens when attacked. She is expected to recover.

Mrs. Rebecca Campbell Dies in Charles Town

Special to The Washington Post.

Charles Town, W. Va., March 23.—Mrs. Rebecca Ayers Campbell, wife of J. Thomas Campbell, a farmer of Kearneysville, died today in Charles Town Hospital, aged 60 years.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are three daughters and a son, also a sister, Mrs. Andrew J. Willis, and two brothers, James W. Strider, of Leetown, and Bishop Robert E. L. Strider, of the diocese of the Episcopal Church in West Virginia, in Wheeling.

CAR FARE CUT URGED BY UTILITIES GROUP

1930. Last year 300,000 more school children rode on the Baltimore street cars than in 1929.

The local street railways are further reminded of their opposition to the commission proposal to merge the two lines, which it is contended would save in operating expenses and improve transportation. The commission reiterates its argument in this respect.

Pending the consumation of such a unification, the letter concludes, there are steps which the railways might take for their own as well as the public benefit.

"Your company has apparently done little, if anything, to encourage street car riding or to counteract this reduction in the number of riders, the commission asserts.

Suggests Improving Service.

"There has been practically no improvement in your operating conditions. The putting in service of even a small number of more modern, up-to-date street cars might be worth trying. Likewise the putting into effect of a somewhat reduced fare during nonrush hours, or possibly reduced zone fare might attract a number of riders, possibly sufficiently great to bring about an improvement in your financial condition.

"In other words, the commission suggests that you should attempt in every way possible to help yourself before asking it of its own motion to take steps to provide your 'company with additional net revenue.'"

Kensington Backs Booklet on County

Chamber Also Votes for Retention of Names of Highways.

Preparation of a booklet advertising the advantages of Montgomery County was indorsed at a meeting of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce last night in Kensington School. The following membefs were named to cooperate with the general committee fostering this movement: W. I. Cleveland, chairman; Charles D. Bohanan and H. W. McGinnis. The booklet is sponsored by the six county chambers of commerce and the general committee is headed by Walter Funderburk, of Rockville.

The chamber favored retaining the present names of Wisconsin avenue and Rockville pike from the District Line. Erection of sign posts at the junction of Rockville Pike and Garrett Park road and at Capitol View was voted. The Montgomery County Commissioners are to be urged to install electric lights on Connecticut avenue from Chevy Chase Lake to Chevy Chase View.

Three new members, Thomas A. Conlon, John W. Self and Edward Warner Shepard, were admitted. The president, Irvin H. Linton, presided.

'Blues' Cause Found In Body, Not Mind

Durham, N. C., March 23 (A.P.).—Treatment for manic-depressive phychosis, known as the "blues," should be physical rather than mental or psychological, says Prof. Helge Lundholm, of Duke University.

The disease known as "blues," he says, is caused by a toxic disorder. The poison may be from fatigue or it may be produced by a fatigue product in combination with some chemical, as yet unknown, in the body.

BUS CRASH DEATHS HELD ACCIDENTAL

Falls Church Coroner Calls State Wrong in Licensing Wide Vehicles.

A verdict of accidental deaths was given yesterday by Dr. C. A. Ransom, of Falls Church, Va., in his investigation of the collision last Friday between a bus of the Great Eastern Stage Coach Co. and a truck on Washington-Richmond highway, which resulted in three deaths and injuries to eleven.

Dr. Ransom said that John McCall, of this city, the driver of the bus, admitted that he knew the bridge at Dogue Run, where the accident occurred, was narrow and that he dimmed his lights, but did not know that the approaching vehicle was a truck.

The coroner said it was "obviously wrong for the State to issue licenses to vehicles with a width of eight feet that must travel on roads eighteen feet wide or less."

Another accident occurred yesterday on the Alexandria-Leesburg pike in Fairfax County, in which three persons were injured. An automobile driven by William Bryan, of Hamilton, Va., struck a telephone pole and crashed into a deep ditch alongside the highway near the Colvin Run Bridge.

Bryan was driving home from a visit to his sister, Mrs. Julia J. James, of 1425 Duncan street, this city, when he veered to the right to permit an oncoming car to pass. The driver of the second car did not stop when Bryan's care left the road. Bryan's mother and father were treated for injuries to the body by Dr. E. C. Shull, of Herndon.

A committee of citizens will go to Culpeper this week to request State District Engineer J. C. Albright, of the highway department, to remedy the dangerous curve at the Colvin Run Bridge.

Two Men Are Indicted In Detective's Slaying

Fort Smith, Ark., March 23 (A.P.). A grand jury today returned indictments charging Thomas A Moore, of New York, and W. P. Giles, of Boyce, La., with first degree murder in the slaying of Sam Booth, Fort Smith detective, Saturday night.

They were also charged with grand larceny for the theft of an automobile. The detective was shot as he sought to halt occupants of an automobile for violation of a minor traffic law.

MRS. VIRGINIA WEYMAN DIES.

Former Resident of City Succumbs in Salem, N. Y.

Mrs. Virginia Cole Weyman, for many years a resident of this city, died yesterday in Salem, N. Y., following a long illness. She was 37 years old.

A native of Albany, N. Y., Mrs. Weyman had been a resident of Washington since her early girlhood. She received her education in the schools here and following her marriage in 1917 moved to Salem with her husband, Robert Weyman.

Besides him, Mrs. Weyman is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cole, of Albany; three children, Robert, John and Virginia Weyman, and a sister, Mrs. Joseph Gauges, of this city.

Funeral services and interment will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Salem.

JOHN J. THOMAS FUNERAL.

Resident of City 35 Years to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Funeral services of John J. Thomas, of 1344 Ingraham street northwest, who died suddenly Sunday afternoon at his home, will be held at the residence tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Henry M. Ranck officiating. Interment will follow in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Frederick, Md.

Mr. Thomas had for many years been employed by the Washington Railway & Electric Co. in the transportation department. He had lived in this city for 35 years, coming here from Frederick County, Md., of which he was a native. He was 66 years old. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. A. Elizabeth Thomas, and two children, M. Adelaide and R. Branson Thomas, both of this city.

MRS. HARRIET WILSIE RITES.

Widow of Hyattsville Man to Be Buried Today.

Funeral services for Mrs. Harriet R. Wilsie, 78 years old, of 325 Allison street northwest, will be held at her late residence this afternoon at 3 o'clock, with the Rev. Freeley Rohrer, pastor of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment will take place in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Wilsie had lived in Washington for about thirteen years, coming here from Hyattsville, Md. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. J. Keller Hammer, with whom she made her home in this city. She was the widow of Kyes J. Wilsie, of Hyattsville, who died in 1913.

18 FARMS GAINED IN PRINCE GEORGES

Five-Year Period Shows Changes in Two Nearby Maryland Counties.

Montgomery County, Md., gained only one farm between 1925 and 1930, while Prince Georges County gained 18 farms, Census of Agriculture figures show.

For census purposes, a "farm" is all the land which is directly farmed by one person, either by his own labor alone or with the assistance of members of his household or hired employes. The land operated by partnerships is likewise considered a farm.

A farm also may consist of a single tract of land or of a number of separate tracts. The census enumerators were instructed, however, not to report as a farm any tract of land of less than 3 acres, unless its agricultural products in 1929 were valued at $250 or more.

Number of Farms.

Census figures show that last April Montgomery County had 1,971 farms, as against 1,970 in 1925, and 2,145 in 1920, whereas Prince Georges County had 2,291 farms last April, as compared with 2,273 in 1925 and 2,457 in 1920. The total acreage of the Montgomery County farms was greater, however, than that of Prince Georges County, the Montgomery County acreage being 238,728 and the Prince Georges County 207,459.

Of Montgomery County's total farm acreage, 109,223 acres were classified as crop land and 73,787 as pasture land, and of Prince Georges County's farm acreage, 87,803 was crop land and 46,904 pasture land.

Montgomery County also had 40,774 acres of wood land not used for pasture, and Prince Georges County had 52,658 acres of the same class of land.

All Other Lands.

Under the heading "all other land in farms," which includes all rough, swampy or waste lands not in forest, pasture or crops, and also land occupied by buildings, barnyards, feed lots, ditches, &c., Montgomery County had 14,954 acres, and Prince Georges County had 20,094.

Of farms under three acres, Montgomery County had 45, and Prince Georges County 14. Montgomery County also had 254 farms comprising 3 and 9 acres, against Prince Georges County's 251. Of farms containing from 10 to 19 acres, however, Prince Georges County had 316 and Montgomery County only 171; likewise of farms containing from 20 to 49 acres, Prince Georges County had 495 and Montgomery County only 242.

Of the 50 to 99 acres classification, Prince Georges County had 478 and Montgomery County had 351, but in 100 to 174 acres classification Montgomery County had 423, as against Prince Georges County's 420. Of the 175 to 259 acres classification, Montgomery County also had 254, as against Prince Georges County's 166; likewise in the 260 to 449 acres classification, Montgomery County had 198 to Prince Georges County's 122.

500 to 999 Acres.

Of farms containing 500 to 999 acres, Montgomery had 29 and Prince Georges 24, and of farms containing between 1,000 and 4,999 acres, Montgomery County had 4 and Prince Georges County had 5. Neither County had a farm of 5,000 acres or more.

The value of farm land and buildings in Montgomery County last April was fixed at $34,955,719, and in Prince Georges County at $21,971,531. The value of "farm lands and buildings" represent the total value of farm real estate. The farmer was also asked to report the value of farm buildings and of his dwelling house.

All farm buildings in Montgomery County were valued at $11,306,210 and farm dwellings at $6,873,190, while farm implements and machinery were valued at $1,395,396, whereas all farm buildings in Prince Georges County were valued at $9,113,942, and farm dwellings at $5,148,030, while the farm implements and machinery totaled $1,078,401 in value.

BEATER OF WIFE GETS TEN LASHES

revive the whipping post penalty, permitted for wife beating only under a statute enacted by the Legislature in 1888, for the next flagrant case of the kind tried by him. Testimony at Kowalski's trial was that he had beaten his wife 40 times in their 17 years of married life.

A parish priest and a justice of the peace interceded with Judge O'Dunne to rescind the lashing sentence, but he agreed only to modify the 30-day additional sentence. The last previous time a wife beater was lashed here, five years ago, the sentence was imposed by him.

He said he told the priest and the magistrate that "if a delegation of at least ten women who had been beaten by their husbands wanted to ask remission of the lash, I would hear their plea."

Judge O'Dunne said today he would ask that wife-beating cases be sent to the grand jury and the criminal court as a deterrent.

A bill to abolish the whipping post in Maryland has been drawn up for presentation at the current session of the Legislature. The Legislature earlier killed a bill to impose the penalty for poultry thefts. The neighboring State of Delaware uses the whipping post much more frequently than Maryland.

Police Offer $300 For Lane's Killers

Reward for Conviction in Motorman's Death Totals $800.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, yesterday authorized a reward of $300 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the men who fatally wounded James H. Lane, street car motorman, while resisting a holdup on March 18.

The Police Department's reward brings the total reward posted to $800, the balance having been offered by the Washington Railway & Electric Co., by which Lane was employed.

Funeral services for the slain motorman will be held Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock at his home at 507 Daniels street, Colmar Manor, Md., and at St. James' Church. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

CHARITY WILL GET WENDEL MILLIONS

Personal Bequests Are Also Found in Will Leaving Fabulous Sum.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—The hundred-million-dollar Wendel fortune, builded on furs, pelts and real estate—"Buy but never sell real estate" was the Wendel motto—has been bequeathed almost in its entirety to charity.

The will of Miss Ella V. Von E. Wendel, last of the land-wealthy family founded in 1799 by John Gottlieb Wendel, was made public today.

It will be many months before it can be probated. The executors explained that a "determined search" would be made for any possible legal heirs before distribution of the estate was attempted. Miss Wendel had no near relatives.

Personal Bequests Made.

Numerous personal bequests are made, such as $20,000 to Miss Wendel's personal maid and $2,000 each to other servants. The residuary estate, including all real and personal property not otherwise disposed of, is to be divided into 200 equal shares.

Five institutions are bequeathed the bulk of the estate, 35 shares each going to the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the Nankin Theological Seminary at Nankin, China; New York Society for the Relief of Chippled and Ruptured; St. Christipher's Home for Children, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.; Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J., and the New York Flower Hospital.

The remaining 25 shares go in varying quotas to other institutions.

Drew Institution Named.

The family home at Fifth avenue and Thirty-ninth street, one of the points of interest on Manhattan, is bequeathed to Drew Theological Seminary. It was there Miss Wendel died March 13. At the time the will was drawn—in 1923—Drew was a seminary. It is now a university.

The executors named are Charles G. Koss, Isabel G. Koss and George Stanley Shirk. They estimated, in a petition filed with the surrogate, the amount of cash and personal property left by Miss Wendel would not exceed about $4,500,000.

The real property of Miss Wendel consists of 200 parcels of land in New York and other States. Gross rentals from properties in New York, Westchester and Suffolk Counties for 18 months, the petition revealed, came approximately to $1,910,000.

Iodine, Fats and Iron Work as Growth Vitamin

Morgantown, W. Va., March 23 (A.P.).—A synthetic substitute for vitamin A, the growth factor in food, has been announced by the University of West Virginia.

The substance is a combination of iodine, fats and iron. Fed to rats in the form of ferrous oxide and linoleic acid, the combination had the apparent ability to synthesize vitamin A.

AMERICAN WEALTH AND INCOME.

The wealth of the United States is amazing, as revealed in the calculations of the national industrial conference board. The value of real estate, automobiles, farms, live stock, personal property, gold, silver, &c., held by the average man amounted to $2,977 in 1929, and the per capita income to $692. The actual growth in national assets, as distinguished from increased dollar value, was 32.8 per cent during the fifteen years from 1914 to 1929. In dollar value the increase was 88 per cent. During the same period the national income increased 153 per cent in dollar value and 59 per cent in actual value.

The distribution of this wealth is a subject of great interest. The wealth of the Nation is not all locked up in the money centers, as so many people suppose. The desert State of Nevada has a per capita income much higher than that of any other State. Nevadans, with their $6,318 per capita, are nearly twice as wealthy as the average resident of New York. Agricultural Iowa has a per capita wealth about 35 per cent greater than industrial Pennsylvania. Such States as Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Oregon, South Dakota and Nebraska are in the upper brackets. It is interesting also to note that only the Southern States fall below an average of $2,000.

The real significance of the national income figures becomes apparent only when they are divided on a family basis. The average individual gainfully employed has an income far above the per capita figure, because only a fraction of the population is in the earning class. The average family of five had an income of $3,460 in 1929. A standard of living on that level has never been known before in the history of the world.

It is a popular fallacy that the average figure is made abnormally high by the enormous incomes of a few individuals. Income tax returns for 1929 released by the Government a few days ago show that 371,754 persons had incomes of $10,000 or more. The total of these incomes is approximately $12,000,000,000, compared with $84,000,000,000 for the whole population. This leaves $72,000,000,000 to be distributed among the masses who receive moderate incomes. Taking all large incomes out of the picture, the average American family nevertheless had an income of approximately $3,000 in 1929.

This wide distribution of income is one important reason why the United States has become the greatest market in the world. The standard of living has been raised because the people have enjoyed incomes enabling them to consume the products of agriculture and industry on an enormous scale. The future success of the American economic system is contingent upon the continued expansion of the average income and the wealth of the masses.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

The first spring meeting of the National Woman's Party stressed the demand of equal rights for women, as usual. It is rather an unfortunate expression in a world which today seems to be so well disposed to give women everything they want. "Equal rights" presupposes equality of service, and while few have the temerity to question woman's mental capacity and ability in most lines to fill the places of men, there still remain a few departments of human endeavor which seem to require man power in the literal sense.

The dividing line between rights still demanded and those that are conceded to women spontaneously, because they are women, grows rather faint in this twentieth century. The remaining points still demanded doubtless will be attained, but it is to be hoped never at the sacrifice of instances in which women already have first choice and that without question and without the constraint of law.

It is claimed that women are discriminated against in industry. There are notable instances of successful women at the head of many kinds of business in this country. If these cases are not numerous it may be because women have been engaged in such work only during comparatively recent years.

More women are working at men's jobs all the time, and the old-fashioned prejudices are disappearing before demonstrated ability. No one can justly demand that when women do the same work as men they shall not be paid equal wages. Women must still be allowed to discriminate, however, in what they elect to do in the field of business and labor.

No doubt there are women capable of being pursers, mates and ship captains, but it would not be a happy sight in this country to see them employed as stevedores and stokers.

The point may be captiously raised but nevertheless the "equality" demand for rights, if stressed too much, does bring up the complementary issues as to whether women wish to be placed in a universal and common draft for all kinds of jobs, both high and horrible, that must be done both in peace and war. There are lady bootleggers and taxi drivers, which are comparatively mild callings, but it is to be hoped women may continue to enjoy the right of avoiding them as a rule.

OBEYING ECONOMIC LAW.

The Federal Farm Board has violated the law of supply and demand as long as it dares. Farmers who plant wheat in 1931 must take the market price for it. The Government can not go on supplying funds to purchase wheat above the market value.

As a result of the board's announcement that it will not attempt to "peg" the price of the 1931 crop wheat prices sagged to the lowest point since 1895. Stock prices followed in the wake of wheat's 11-cent decline. The Farm Board claims to have saved the farmers millions of dollars through its stabilization program, but it is questionable whether the shock caused by its sudden withdrawal from the wheat market will not leave agriculture in a worse situation than would have obtained if the Farm Board had not interfered with the law of supply and demand. An adjustment must be made, and the sooner the farmers strike sound economic bedrock the better it will be for them.

Since last November the Farm Board, through the Grain Stabilization Corporation, has been buying sufficient wheat to maintain prices about 20 to 35 cents above their usual relation to the world market. The purpose of the board was to save farmers from heavy losses while they were adjusting their crops to domestic demands. When the exportable surplus of wheat has been wiped out it is believed that the tariff will enable American producers to maintain a home price above the world market level. But the exportable surplus has not been wiped out, and the very fact that the Farm Board was maintaining an artificial price had the effect of encouraging continued overproduction.

Spring planting is now at hand. The board made known that it would not "peg" prices of the 1931 crop as a warning against increased acreage. Ever since the Farm Board was organized it has been pleading with farmers to curtail production, but its advice was ineffective, because prices have been maintained. Apparently there is only one way to cut down the output of wheat, and that is to allow its unlimited cultivation to become so unprofitable that farmers will have to curtail.

Obviously, the Farm Board could not go on indefinitely buying wheat above the market price and holding it at heavy storage costs. Knowledge that this surplus stored away at the expense of taxpayers must some day be sold becomes a heavy drag on prices. The carry-over of wheat this year will be much larger than in 1930. Farmers still produce a surplus in addition to the vast quantities in storage which must be disposed of. The ultimate effect of such a program is to push prices lower than if the law of supply and demand had been in operation. But what is still worse, the maintenance of artificial prices has a tendency to stimulate still greater production.

The Farm Board has engaged in a costly and foolish experiment. It is well that the failure of its stabilization program has been recognized, and that economic law shall supersede price-fixing in 1931. There remains only one hope for the wheat farmers, and that is to cut down their crops. Efforts will be made to remedy the situation in the next Congress, but the failure of the stabilization scheme only emphasizes the inherent fallacies of the export debenture, the equalization fee and every other panacea that has been proposed to set aside economic law. Curtailment ought to be the farmers' watchword. With a carry-over estimated at 275,000,000 bushels there is no danger of too drastic a cut. The more acreage is reduced the more farmers may hope to realize on their crops. But if they insist on producing for export they must expect hereafter to sell their entire crops at or near the world price.

THE GERMAN-AUSTRIAN MOVE.

Foreign Minister Curtius of Germany hastens to inform inquiring ambassadors that the free trade accord with Austria is only a project, and that several months will elapse before a treaty can be drafted. Dr. Schober, Austrian foreign minister, has been formally reminded by three envoys that their governments would look upon the proposed economic alliance with Germany as a violation of the Austrian pledge to maintain complete independence, which was given when the governments concerned lent that country $30,000,000 for rehabilitation. Dr. Schober insists that the German-Austrian agreement is merely a step in the execution of M. Briand's plan for economic unification of Europe, and that any government may join in the plan.

The German-Austrian move is so palpably a political maneuver that it is absurd to suppose that France will permit the plan to be consummated. It is a step intended to bring about revision of the Treaty of Versailles, by raising the specter of economic chaos as a reason for permitting Germany and Austria to strike down trade barriers. Austria is indeed hard pressed, but not more so than Hungary. The effect of the proposed arrangement would be to swing Austria under the domination of Germany, first economically and then politically. Economic dependence and political independence are incompatible and can not subsist together.

The repercussions of the arrangement, if it should be put into effect, would be injurious to other countries, by diverting their Austrian trade or stopping it altogether. While inter-European freedom of trade would be beneficial, it must apply to all countries in Europe unless some of them are to suffer while others gain undue advantages. Germany, firmly in control of Austrian trade, would virtually extend its borders along the Danube, and would be in a position to cut into French and Italian trade. Mitteleuropa in an economic sense would have been created, and it would be correspondingly more difficult for France and her satellites to prevent the creation of a greater Germany politically.

It is said that the German and Austrian negotiators have worked out a scheme which will not violate the Treaty of Versailles. This may be true in a verbal sense, but if the effect of the economic alliance is to make of Austria an exclusive German sphere of influence the treaty might as well be scrapped. France will, of course, study the effect of the proposed action, and not merely the technical wording of the arrangement.

M. Briand is mildly criticized by the French press for having furnished an opening to Germany and Austria to take a long step in the "anschluss" under the disguise of promoting his plan for a United States of Europe. But M. Briand is too old a hand at the business to be deceived by the Teuton maneuver. He and the British foreign minister are already in conference on the subject. Holding Germany in the firm grip of the Treaty of Versailles, France may not be expected to countenance any move tending to consolidate Germany and Austria. M. Briand's obvious answer to the German-Austrian argument is to insist that European nations must all act together or not at all, in the matter of abolishing tariff barriers, which affect them all.

SPAIN'S NEW PROGRAM.

For the first time in seven years the people of Spain are enjoying the constitutional liberties of free speech, freedom of the press and of assemblage, and immunity to invasion of their homes. This is the first step in King Alfonso's new program to put his government on a constitutional basis. His previous efforts failed, and the last attempt brought Spain to the verge of revolution.

Constitutional liberties were partially restored in preparation for the national election which had been set for March 1. But the political tumult reached such a pitch that the elections were postponed, the Berenguer government was forced out, and constitutional guarantees were again withdrawn. The constitution had been suspended since Primo de Rivera was made dictator in 1923.

The government has not yet reached a point where it desires to risk its future on a national election. The balloting scheduled for April 12 concerns only municipal officials. Yet it will be a test of the monarchy's strength. The parties will have an opportunity to demonstrate whether or not they can conduct peaceful campaigns and register their wishes at the polls without precipitating another national crisis.

The outcome of these municipal elections will no doubt have an important influence on the future course of the government. If the monarchists win, King Alfonso will be encouraged to proceed with plans for a national election. On the other hand, if the Socialists and Republicans demonstrate superior strength, Alfonso could not call a national election without placing his throne in jeopardy.

Spain is by no means out of the woods. The revolutionary spirit which flared so high a few weeks ago subsided under stern discipline. But it remains to be seen whether or not it will again be kindled in the approaching contests. The same problems and the identical feuds remain to plague the government. Spain will be fortunate indeed if constitutional government can be restored without further political upheavals.

THE NEXT CONVENTIONS

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Chicago's invitations to the Republican and Democratic conventions to meet in that city are standing affairs. The bids are merely reiterated every four years. And already Chicago is pressing her invitations for both conventions in 1932.

The Midwest metropolis has entertained national political conventions more often than any other city. It undeniably has advantages as a political convention center. The central location of the city, equalizing the train trips, a great number of hotels, an auditorium large enough to seat the huge crowds, and other resources, though not mentioned in formal invitations, are nevertheless considered. If Al Capone is still out of jail the convention refreshment problem probably would not be difficult of solution.

Chicago also boasts of her summer climate. But two other cities that can lay superior claims to attention in this respect are also bidding for the conventions in 1932. San Francisco and Los Angeles each will urge acceptance of their invitations. Each of these cities has all the advantages of Chicago and others Chicago does not have, save central location.

It's a long way to the Pacific Coast cities from the thickly populated areas of the country from which most of the delegates come. Were the conventions to be held there in 1932 the attendance probably would be smaller than if the meetings were in the East, the Midwest or even in the South. Of course, the railroads give extremely low rates these days, and offer wonderfully comfortable accommodations on fast trains. Going to California from the East and other sections of the country on this side of the Rockies is not nearly so great an undertaking as it formerly was, before rail service was brought to such a high plane of efficiency, and before fine highways were stretched across the continent into the Golden State.

Neither party has anything to gain politically by going to California in 1932. Assuming that President Hoover will be renominated, there would be no point in the Republican convention meeting in his home State. And California is so surely Republican that the Democrats would not likely find any advantage in staging their convention out there. It is hardly to be expected that the Democratic convention will come South again in 1932. For the sake of political expediency, the Democrats, cultivating the Progressive West and encouraging insurgent defections from the G. O. P. might find it advisable to meet in a Midwestern or Western city, either Chicago, Kansas City, Denver, or maybe Cleveland.

It will not be long until the respective party national committees will be weighing all these factors, as they consider invitations for the conventions. One big consideration, not mentioned above, but which will have much weight, will be the amount of money offered.

POST HASTE.

For the next fifteen months the platform builders will be figuring on how to mean "dry" and "wet" without saying "wet" and "dry."

The reform candidate for Mayor of Chicago might add to his program that every facility will be given the gangsters to continue killing off each other.

That fellow who is making a collection of famous overcoats scored a quick hop from Florida with Admiral Byrd's to grab off the Prince of Wales' raglan in Montevideo.

Senator Norris claims it is the power trust that is keeping up the prohibition discussion and trying to force a sham issue into politics. If all the people who talk wet 'n' dry are creatures of the trust it has indeed assumed alarming proportions.

Lots of Democrats like Gov. Roosevelt, but they find his program—opposition to Raskob, shush-shushing on prohibition, uncertain about Tammany and his gesture to the Progressives—not very hurrahful to telegraph the home folks about.

Among the inexplicables must be classed the people who raise heaven and earth to save a man convicted of beating his sick wife from receiving ten lashes himself.

It is suggested by some sour-grape nuts that there's a reason why more members of Congress don't talk like the senator-elect from Chicago.

Reno, with a 48-day reduction of its own and open-faced gambling, is said to look complacently upon new rival quick-divorce shops.

Senator Johnson should relieve the pressure. The present situation must fill him so full of suppressed expression that there is danger of an explosion.

One of the sights of the Capital this week is a self-appointed peoples lobby telling a Congress just elected by the people what it should do.

A lot of Haitians think they have the better of Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands—they are entertaining the King of the Senate.

The final edition of the Record, just out, shows that the last Congress made 1,524 new issues. Be sure you read them all so you will know just what is verboten.

The chaplain's sermon on the Arizona did not mention either Senator Norris or Senator Borah, but in his peroration he said: "Do not let the little things lick you." P. H.

POWER.

He strode the world with head in air—
A man of muscle and of might,
Who found in power his chief delight;
He'd rather frighten than be fair,
He'd rather bully than be right.

So used to being strong he grew
That pity from his bosom fled.
"Mercy is but a word," he said.
"I do what I have power to do.
Strong men should lead and not be led!"

But he who lives by strength alone
Walks blindly to his sure defeat.
Soon comes the day when he shall meet
A force that's greater than his own
And from his castle walls retreat.

The gains of strength to strength are lost;
Success on many things depends.
A life is judged by how it ends.
Who takes the prize at any cost
Makes enemies and loses friends.

Neither Side Seems Worthy of Support If You Don't Want to Fight.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THESE are the times that try men's souls.

This is a season of testing, when faint hearts fail and the unthinking lose faith.

The gods are winnowing the chaff from the wheat.

It is the fashion to be cynical, and those who have no capacity for leadership or independent action are following the fashion.

When the normal boy reaches his late teens and begins to think himself a man, he delights to sit in the dark with others of his age and kind and discuss God and women.

With the darkness to conceal his embarrassment and lend him courage, he confesses the loss of his illusions. He no longer has faith in God, and he has decided that all women are false.

This juvenile cynicism, so hopeless and so forlorn, is boyhood's reaction to the destruction of ideals. It is the resentment of one who has been tricked. It is the bitterness that follows the discovery of sawdust in a doll. A world that seemed pure gold has tarnished, and the boy now doubts the existence of gold anywhere.

Few boys escape this season of cynicism. It represents the opening of their eyes. It echoes their first contact with reality.

It is a passing phase, for it is a part of immaturity. It marks the destructions of faith built on ignorance and the beginning of faith built on wisdom and knowledge.

The point to remember is that cynicism is juvenile—the defense mechanism of a hurt child who fears being tricked again.

It is quickly outgrown, if the mind grows, but the cause of it will appear again in after years to test the grown man.

There will be further disappointments, other shattered ideals, more broken faiths. Every advance will be made at the cost of hard experience. And if the man is too weak to survive his hurts, he will lose all faith in everything—which means that he will nurse the memory of his hurts and cultivate suspicion because he is afraid of traps. Cynicism is the scar tissue that hides wounded vanity. It is the device of the weak to avoid taking a chance. The fearful one says the game is crooked because he is afraid to play.

Cynicism is the fashion of the day because it doesn't require thinking. It is the cheap and easy way to solve the problems of life. By declaring everything rotten, one may avoid the man-size task of separating good from evil. If men of good repute are mere hypocrites, no less evil at heart than the bandits who steal openly, then one may without loss of self-respect avoid the hard business of taking sides.

Standing for definite principles requires courage. The easy way is to declare all things rotten and stand aloof. The moral coward need make no choice if both sides are vile.

That is the explanation of cynicism. It is a pretense of scorn to hide a yellow streak.

Why should the politicians of both parties and so many in the press of the country be engaged with speculations as to what the South will do politically next year? They ought to know well enough that a square-toed Democrat on a heart-oak Democratic platform will almost surely get the electoral votes of the solid South.

Why not? In 70 years of the life and power of the Republican party the South has received no substantial solicitation or encouragement from that party to find advantage in supporting it. Certainly, the South has received no justice from the legislation or administrations of that party that could be denied to it. It is as absolute a fact as any in nature, science or politics that the Republican party is no friend of the Southern people.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Something About Rain in Peru and Panama Canal History.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Strange as it may seem, John Hix has been misled in his information about Peru.

Peru is not dry and almost rainless, but is so only in that portion of the country on the Pacific Coast bordering the western slope of the Andes. Adobe buildings with mushedding roofs are not washed away by rains, and such construction is often used throughout Central and South America in regions where rains occur. At Oroyo, where it often rains, there are adobe buildings and the quarters of the American employes of the Cerro de Pasco Corporation are in part constructed with walls of rammed earth plastered on the face. Adobe and earth walls are not used in buildings above the first or second story, not because of possible damage from rain, but because earthquakes would shake them down. Upper stories are framed of timber and covered with a mud or plaster coating on lath or woven cane. Modern high buildings of four to six or more stories in Lima are of reinforced concrete.

There have been disastrous rains in the arid coast region of Peru within the past ten years, and many adobe and other buildings were damaged, due to their lack of tight roofs, which are usually constructed with no precaution against rains that may not come within 50 years.

Your correspondent, David Rankin Barbee, is also rather shaky in his facts about Panama Canal history. The work from the first was always under the War Department, but was not directed by the Army. The Isthmian Canal Commission, appointed by the President, always contained at least one Army officer, but it employed no Army personnel previous to 1907. In 1906, when President Roosevelt visited the Isthmus, the chairman of the commission was Theodore P. Shonts, and John F. Stevens was chief engineer. Later the latter was given both positions, and, under his direction, results were accomplished in organization and installation of plant, and necessary preliminaries in providing quarters for all employes, with streets, roads, water supplies, sewers, &c., and the ultimate attainment before he resigned, of a rate of excavation of over a million cubic yards per month. Col. (later Gen.) Goethals on several occasions gave expression of his appreciation of the work of his predecessor.

It was largely due to his confidence in Mr. Stevens' judgment, that President Roosevelt approved the present type of canal instead of one at sea level. After Mr. Stevens' resignation in 1907, the President reorganized the commission, making Col. Goethals the head of a board which included other Army engineers and an officer of the Civil Engineer Corps of the Navy. Later the work was placed under the sole direction of Col. Goethals. On his executive and construction staff were many eminent military and civil engineers, but the work of canal construction was never under a military organization.

HENRY WELLES DURHAM.

Old Fox and Big Smoke Will Be on Guard Against Overconfidence, Says Observer of World Affairs.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I got my first baseball kick of the year Sunday morning out of the headline across your sporting section: "Nats Win Fourth Straight, Beating Louisville, 4 to 1." Not that winning four exhibitions straight is much to brag about, but you know how it is. It started that old springtime hunch, with visions of straight-win Post headlines aplenty all through the regular season.

In the account of the Louisville game I was also made glad by the statement that Judge's wallop with two on was decisive. With that old kid in his best form it is hardly necessary to tell Washington fans that first base will be a regular Gibraltar in holding back the Nats' rivals for the pennant.

But to add to this morning's satisfaction is the subhead: "Nats Win Six-Inning Duel With Hadley in Fine Form." Griffith, Johnson and the rest of the outfit have, of course, been anxious as to how Hadley would round into shape. With him going strong to start the season they can count themselves 20 and probably more games to the good before the season opens.

Altogether I like the looks of the Biloxi baseball bunch, and my only fear, and that is not much, is that they may get a bad jolt sometime before the fight is at its hottest on account of overconfidence. I do not take much stock in what Henry Ward Bleacher says in this connection. It is all right for a loyal fan to give his club preseason credit for what it is capable of doing, and it may be all very well to theorize over the wonderful influence of the "Whataman" spirit. But the "Whataman" spirit is never safe without a good supply of ordinary common sense to keep it steady. You can depend upon it that the reaction of overconfidence from such a string of defeats as may happen at any time has queered more than one champion ball club in the past.

Here is where the experience and good management of veteran bosses are necessary to get the best out of a brilliant line-up, and you can trust the Old Fox and the Big Smoke for that.

CANCER OF STOMACH DISCOVERY IS MADE

Finding of Chemicals May Lead to New Study of Disease.

Baltimore, Md., March 23 (A.P.).—Discovery of a possible new avenue for the study of cancer of the stomach was announced before the American College of Physicians here today.

Dr. Lay Martin, of Johns Hopkins University, said he had found four previously undiscovered chemical constituents in gastric juice of humans. They are ammonia, aminoacid, urea and uric acid. In cases of cancer of the stomach the proportion of these elements in gastric juice shows a marked increase.

It is not yet known whether the increase is typical of cancer of the stomach. There is a possibility the proportion varies with different diseases, and may be an aid to diagnosis, he said.

Chronic appendicitis is not as frequent as generally believed, and many operations for appendicitis do not relieve the real cause of the trouble, declared Dr. Julius Friedenwald and Dr. Theodore H. Morrison, of Baltimore, in a joint paper.

Pains in the abdomen and other symptoms usually taken to indicate chronic appendicitis may be caused instead by neuralgia in the abdominal wall, or by ulcers of the stomach, gall bladder disease or other ailments in the abdominal area.

Several types of heart disease may be treated successfully by keeping the patients in air that contains 40 to 50 per cent oxygen, Dr. Alvan L. Barach, of Columbia University, N. Y., told the physicians. Patients with heart disease often can not get enough oxygen from ordinary air.

Dr. Russell L. Cecil, of New York, reported discovery of a vaccine that gives "very encouraging" results in treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, a deforming disease of the joints. It is usually associated with infected tonsils, teeth or sinuses. He found a special type of bacteria in the blood and joints of persons who had the disease, and these bacteria produced an almost identical disease in rabbits.

seeing to help out Briand's idea of an economic union by getting rid of customs barriers, is considered really injurious to the project because it goes too far in one jump and is not done with the consent of other nations.

League Circles Anxious.

In some international quarters the Austro-German move is regarded as Germany's answer to the recent naval accord reached by France, Italy and Great Britain, which Germany is said to fear may lead to the loss of expected Italian support for revision of the war treaties and for a campaign toward reduction of the armies of France and her allies.

League of Nations circles are more anxious over the political consequences of the agreement than its economic aspect.

London, March 23 (A.P.).—The threatened Austro-German customs union has created deep concern in official circles in Downing street, though perhaps less excitement than in Paris, Prague and Budapest, where it is feared the move foreshadows a political union between Austria and Germany.

Great Britain has not registered a protest against the customs union, as has erroneously been reported in some sections of the continental press. Officials here are calmly awaiting further details of the agreement, full particulars of which have been requested by the foreign office.

"The Mellon Institute," says Dr. Frederick E. What the Pittsburgh institution has done for industry, Dr. Beithut said, will now be done for public health by the National Institute of Health at Washington, to which Andrew W. Mellon is devoting his interest.

Mellon Dinner Host Preceding 76th Birthday

Secretary of Treasury Has Distinguished Company as Guests.

ON the eve of his seventy-sixth birthday the Secretary of the Treasury greeted a few friends bidden to dinner last night at his sumptuous apartment on Massachusetts avenue. His guests of honor were the Ambassador of Mexico and Senora de Tellez, for whom the Secretary assembled a delightful group, the company numbering only 20 yet including some of the brilliant raconteurs of society.

The Secretary's other guests were the Ambassador of Great Britain, Sir Ronald Lindsay; the Minister of Sweden, Mr. W. Bostrom; the Minister of China and Mme. Wu, Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, Senator and Mrs. Claude Swanson, Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont, Mrs. David Aiken Reed, Representative and Mrs. Hamilton Fish, jr., Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Arthur A. Ballantine, the Director of the Pan-American Union, Dr. Leo S. Rowe; Mrs. Guy Norment, Mrs. McCook Knox and Mr. David Edward Finley, of the Treasury Department.

Senator Glenn to Sail With Daughter.

Senator Otis F. Glenn, of Illinois, will sail on April 4 for Europe. He will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Glenn. Mrs. Glenn and the younger children will remain in Washington until their return from abroad. The Senator and Mrs. Glenn have as guests Mrs. Harlan McMullin and Mrs. E. J. Anderson, of Manistee, Mich., who are en route home from Thomasville, Ga.

Maj. Gen. William E. Crozier and Mrs. Crozier entertained at dinner last evening at Wardman Park Hotel.

Brig. Gen. Stanley D. Embrick and Mrs. Embrick, of Fort Monroe, Va., are at the Martinique.

Mrs. J. West Roosevelt, mother of Mr. Nicholas Roosevelt, Minister to Hungary, arrived in New York early this morning from a sojourn in Europe.

Miss Laura Tuckerman entertained at dinner last night in honor of Miss Loranda Prochnik, daughter of the Minister of Austria, whose marriage to Mr. Francis Lecompte Spalding will take place on Thursday. Miss Tuckerman had a group of the young society set of Washington and several out-of-town friends, including friends of Mr. Spalding, from Boston and New York, and also Miss Eleanor Crane, of Baltimore, and Miss Alice de Peyster, of New York, a cousin of Miss Tuckerman.

Mrs. Bissell, wife of Col. Harry H. Bissell, of Coronado, Calif., is at the Martinique with her young daughter, Miss Sally Bissell, and her mother, Mrs. S. R. Hurt, of Lexington, Va.

Panama Envoy Departs for Capital Post

New Minister Is Given Send-off by Alfara and Friends.

Dr. Harmodio Arias, the new Minister of Panama, and his family will arrive in Washington on Sunday, having left Panama City last Sunday to sail aboard the S. S. Calamares. From New York the party will come directly to the Capital.

At the railway station in Panama City to bid him bon voyage were President Alfaro, the cabinet and other high officials and hundreds of friends. With his family the minister left there in a private car placed at his disposal by Col. Harry Burgess, Governor of the Canal Zone. The preceding night the Accion Communal the organization of youths which overthrew the Arosemena government and then called Dr. Arias to take charge of the provisional government, gave a farewell demonstration in his honor.

Dr. Arias, whose place as provisional president was taken by Dr. Alfaro, now President of Panama, succeeds Dr. Alfaro, former Minister of Panama. He is an international lawyer and newspaper editor and served Panama as the first delegate to the League of Nations.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. William Littauer, who were in Washington most of the winter, are now established for the summer at 51 Rue de Varenne, Paris.

Mrs. George Barnett has returned to Washington after spending several weeks in Florida. After spending a few days here she will go to her country estate, Wakefield Manor, Va.

Capital Visit Set by Mayor Of Liverpool

Thompsons Coming Here for One Day in May to See Hoover.

Seldom do notables from foreign lands come to this country without making a visit to Washington, be it ever so brief. And when the Lord Mayor of Liverpool, Mr. Thompson, arrives in May for a two weeks' sojourn in the United States, he will come to the Capital, but just for a day. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Thompson.

Mayor Thompson will call on President Hoover, and with Mrs. Thompson will probably have luncheon at the British Embassy.

He will arrive in New York May 5, on an invitation extended him by Mayor Walker to visit the city as a gesture of good will between Liverpool and Gotham, returning to England May 18. He wil invite New York's may to come to Liverpool and repay his visit.

En route to Washington, Mayor Thompson and his wife will stop off in Philadelphia to visit friends.

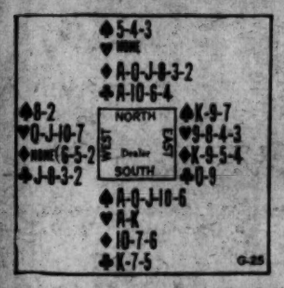
WORK ON BRIDGE

AN INTERESTING HAND.



WITH the above hand played at Auction Bridge, the bidding would be extremely simple. South would call one Spade. West North and East would pass, and the action would be over. North, with no great assistance for South's major, would not show his Diamonds.

At Contract, however, the bidding would be more interesting. South would start with two Spades; and North, having wonderful strength for that declaration, could bid six Spades or be more conservative and feel the situation out by bidding four Diamonds to show tremendous strength and the desire to play with a suit the trump. Both these conditions would be shown by a jump-shift which goes above a No Trump game bid. South would respond with four Spades showing that he had at least five Spades, and giving North the chance to make another move. North then would bid six Spades.

By bidding Diamonds instead of six Spades on the first round, North avoided an overbid which the Spade slam might have been if South held only four Spades.

When the hand was played, West led the Queen of Hearts, and South won with the King. South then led a small Club which North won with the Ace; and to trick 3 North led a Spade, South finessing and winning the finesse. A small Diamond was led by South to trick 4, but West trumped and led a Club. South won the Club trick and then led the Ace of trumps, hoping to drop East's King; but he failed and East eventually made both his King of Diamonds and his King of Spades. East not having any more Clubs, South was able to discard his losing Club on one of dummy's long Diamonds.

Could he have made a small slam?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Yes, in either of two ways; the only adverse card to win would be the King of Diamonds.

North could ruff the first Heart although South is sure to win the trick, lead a Spade and finesse, and then South could lead a Club, putting North in for a second Spade finesse. Or South could win the first trick, lead a Club and win with North's Ace; take the Spade finesse and then lead a good Heart which North would trump and lead North's last Spade for the second finesse.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Eyelet embroidery in scallops makes the smartness of this little dress, with yoke effect that is not separate but incrusted right on the dress. (A Dah-ray Design.)

Paris, March 23.

YOU may remember my telling you a few months ago, that is, you will remember if you cherish every word that slips from this faithful typewriter, that combinations worn under chiffon dresses had to be about the same length as the dress in order for the effect to be really smart. Well, my deah, all that has been changed—and I've only reminded you of the fact in order to warn you to forget it! It seems that for spring and summer fashions, the higher the state of visibility, or rather transparency in skirts, the better. I suppose girls proud of their pretty legs simply wouldn't be balked by long skirts and they or rather the haute couturiers, have found a way out.

Daytime, afternoon and evening attire will, in all modesty—and oh, so intriguingly, reveal your lower limbs "as through a veil darkly!" For instance, under a transparent lame, or georgette or chiffon evening gown, the accompanying slip may be knee-length or even shorter. And, but this is for only the warmest summer weather—the accompanying "slip" may just be knee-length shorts! The slashed and divided skirt on many evening gowns carry out this subtle but alluring disclosure! The slashes and divisions are apparent only when the mannequin walks.

Daytime and morning clothes made of the sheerest lacy tweed and fine wool nets can be quite safely worn without a double crepe full-length slip. In fact, you just don't have to worry at all about the fact that the silhouette of your shapely calves are quite apparent to the eye of the beholder. Just wear your knee-length combination under your sheer frock and walk proudly in the full blaze of the noon-day sun. The effect, I assure you, will be quite in accordance with the latest dictates of chic!

You wrap a little of this around there, tack it into place thus and so—and you can have a darling Paris hat! Oh yeah—that is, if you have the foresight to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that tells you how to go about it! Otherwise, I can't promise—but I can promise you the smartest hat in your whole circle of friends, and one that they can tell a mile off is Paris. One minute for the envelope, one day to wait, and one evening to make, vola!

* * * *

They call it in Paris "Embroidery Anglaise," meaning English embroidery—and that means the kind of work that is on the dress I have designed for you today. It's very feminine and charming, and very much the thing for this type of a dress now, so I made a whole design especially to be thus trimmed, the dress, not the design. Satin or crepe flamenga, or even taffeta or faille, and there you will be!

* * * *

Oh, a dash of leopard can do so much more than a dash of lavender! Worth puts a rather narrow leopard skin belt on a creamy-white satin evening dress, and I just can't live without it—so some one in far off Africa is sending me six leopard skins for a coat, honestly.

Meanwhile, couldn't you be content with a belt like the one I have designed in the corner of today's illustration? With amber and gold and jet for a buckle, my deah!

* * * *

Suppose you had the time to string miles 'n' miles of cut steel beads, and then to crochet the strands of them, and make yourself a little jacket—well then, you would be saving yourself about four hundred odd dollars—(after all the beads were paid for!) on an evening jacket chez Lanvin, which looked like a coat of mail. A vulnerable one, though, as you could see right through it to the dress underneath, oh, easily!

* * * *

You'll want to read Dare's weekly fashion letter every week. Always look for it in Sunday's Washington Post.

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF March 24th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 2:15 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.

Astrological influences on this date spell progress, and more or less substantial gains will be made in various directions. A silver lining will be revealed in the dense clouds of uncertainty which have been obscuring your vision from the goal of your heart's desire. Troubles which occur will be due to "the other fellow."

The child born on this March 24 will develop into a strong character, in which will power and consistency of purpose will be prominent traits. A tendency to an exaggerated self-importance should be checked, or conceit will spoil an otherwise likeable personality. It will be very ambitious, and a good student.

Were you born on a March 24? If so, according to your horoscopical picture, you are always looking forward, peering into the future. You are a pioneer of advanced thought. Because of your remarkable foresight, you are seldom caught napping, when opportunities knock at your door. You would achieve more if you were less idealistic and more practical. You live in a world of ideas.

You are very self-willed and self-opinionated and it is difficult to restrain you from acting upon impulse when it would be wiser to wait for the development of plans. You are never lacking in zeal, but you are lacking, sometimes, in discretion. Your enthusiasm is so great that it is rarely daunted by obstacles, and you will never be a failure through the want of trying. Your will is dominant, and your spirit masterful.

You make a splendid companion, being affable, genial and witty. You are never at a loss for a word, and you make an excellent conversationalist. You try to make those around you happy and are never a joy killer. Jealousy sometimes creeps out in your nature, and you exact extreme loyalty from others. Those of your type do best in life as organizers, leaders or promoters. Marriage with a Leo individual is advised, if harmonious blend from the union is desired. You, perhaps, need to learn more thoroughly the lessons of "give and take."

Successful people born March 24:

1—Joel Barlow, diplomat and poet; one of "Hartford Wits."

2—William E. LeRoy, naval officer. "The Chesterfield of the Navy."

3—Herbert (Otto Henry) Lang, naturalist.

5—Andrew Mellon, Secretary of Treasury.

6—Fanny J. Crosby, hymn writer.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Mac Lean" (also spelled "Mac Lane," "Mac Clean," "Mac Clane," &c.) is derived from the Gaelic "Mac Gille Eoin," which means "the son of the servant of John." The personal name "John" is ultimately of Hebrew origin and may be translated "the Lord's grace" or "the Lord's gracious gift." This family name was borne by a numerous and powerful clan in the western highlands of Scotland. In the seventeenth century some members of that clan settled in the north of Ireland. However, many Irish families which bear this name have adopted it as the supposed equivalent of wholly different Irish names. For example, it has sometimes been incorrectly adopted by families whose original name was the Irish "Mac an Leagha," meaning "the son of the physician."

The family name "Runyon" (originally spelled "Runian") is of Celtic origin. It is derived ultimately from the Irish "O Ruanaidhin," which means "the descendant of little Ruanaidh." The old personal name "Ruanaidh" means "the hero." This name is especially common in Sligo and other parts of Connacht.

The family name "Shackel" (also spelled "Shackell" and "Shackle") is of English origin. It is derived from "Scacel," an Anglo-Saxon personal name and nickname meaning "chain" and "fetter." This family name appears to be first recorded in the year 1379. An English register of that year includes the name of Willelmus Shakelle. At the present time the diminutive form "Shacklett" (little chain) is rather frequently found. Another variation is the family name "Shackelton," which means "the farm or estate of Scacel," and indicates an original place of residence. A certain Hugh Schachelliton is mentioned in an English document of the year 1246.

Readers' Club to Give Poetical Fantasy Today

The Washington Readers Club will present a fantasy, "The Poet's Garden," today at Pierce Hall, Sixteenth and Harvard streets. The production is staged under the direction of Miss Lenore Marie De Grange, and 40 poems, ranging from Shakespeare to modern writers, will be used.

Members of the cast are Lenore Marie De Grange, Ada Louise Townsend, Emma Ware Anderson, Esther Waldron, Alice Louise Hunter, Alice Robinson, Augusta Machen, Lorraine Hansen, Esther Marshman, Rosemary Arnold, Ethel Lynn Fast, Emma A. Jordan and Marguerite Kappel, with musical accompaniment by Eva Whitford Lovette.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

A WIRE direct from Mr. Hubbard Keavy, chief of this column's ear-to-the-ground department on the West Coast, conveys the prophetic tidings that one of the greatest first-page personalities Hollywood has ever known, a star capable of reaching extraordinary dramatic heights, is coming back to the scene of her silent picture triumphs to see if the talkies will treat her as kindly.

Pola Negri is the name.

The dynamic and lovely Pola, whose sea-green eyes, ebony hair and clear white skin gave her an exotic and unusual beauty, left the United States three years ago because of a dispute with executives of the Paramount Studio, in which no compromise apparently could be reached. She still was a star of the first rank—her salary is reputed to have been $8,000 per week—when she retired to her chateau in France.

As nearly as the records disclose, Pola—whose real name was Appolonia Chalupiec, or something like that—was born about 1896, the daughter of an Hungarian father and a Polish mother. When she was 15 she entered the Imperial Ballet School in St. Petersburg, Russia, and became a favorite of the Czarina. After several years on the stage she went to work in the studios of Ufa, in Berlin. She and a couple of other unknowns—Ernst Lubitsch and Emil Jannings—first came to the attention of American audiences in "Passion," a renamed picturization of the story of Du Barry.

Pola had one strange hobby, according to Mr. Keavy, of which little has been said. That was tree collecting. She brought trees, big trees, from all manner of places to her estate in Beverly Hills. Once she is said to have paid $25,000 to have two Italian cypresses transplanted to her yard from northern California.

And she was superstitious. On the first day of a new picture, she always had a baby pig on the set. Just before going into her first scene she always held it in her arms for a few minutes. Then she was sure the picture would be a good one.

Usually it was, although your guess as to what the pig had to do with it is as good as any.

Speaking of returning to the film colony reminds me that after nearly fifteen months of stage work, Frank Richardson, headlining this week's bill at the Earle with Lita Grey Chaplin and remembered for breezy and tuneful performances in such productions as "Sunny Side Up," "Let's Go Places," "Movietone Follies" and "Happy Days," will forego the footlights to appear again before the cameras and microphones. Mr. Richardson has just signed a contract with Radio-Keith-Orpheum to appear in Radio Pictures following the completion of his present vaudeville tour, which will take him to the coast in time to begin studio work some time in July.

Frank began his career as a boy soprano and later was noted as "The Wonder Boy Tenor" with the Dumont Minstrels in his home town of Philadelphia. From then on he was rated as one of the outstanding singing comedians on all of the major circuits of the country.

A couple of years ago he took a screen test for Movietone and Winfield S. Sheehan, vice president of Fox Films in charge of production, happened to be present when the test was run off. That accounts for "Walking with Susie" in the "Movietone Follies of 1929."

You know the rest, probably including this week's hit at the Earle.

It is perfectly obvious that Mary Pickford has definitely eschewed the ingenuous "kid roles" upon which her world-wide popularity was based. This is conclusively proved by her work in "Kiki," current at the Columbia. In "Kiki" our Mary plays one scene of considerable length, clad only in the scantiest of diaphanous underthings. This, according to modern standards, is mature art at its zenith!

On the same bill, "Little Daddy," one of Hal Roach's juvenile comedies, may be relied upon to make up whatever amusement value may be held to be lacking from "Kiki." This, to me, is a remarkable bit of funmaking, since throughout the action there is a pronounced undertone of pathos. I recall nothing funnier in recent months than the fat boy's bathroom rendition of "Asleep in the Deep," or Farina's endeavor to explain the story of Noah and the Ark to little brother Stymie. You'll die!

On page 3 of the March issue of the National Press Building News, I note a considerable article devoted to Mr. Corbin Sheild, former manager of the RKO-Keith Theater here, who now serves as manager in the Washington territory for the Ross Federal Service Corporation.

For those both in and out of the industry who, like myself, have never quite understood what the R. F. S. C. was all about, Mr. Sheild will be permitted to speak for himself:

"There is a growing practice in the movie field for producers to expend huge sums in the production of large and expensive pictures. These producers, in effect, say to the exhibitors that they are taking a big gamble in producing this picture and that it can be exhibited only on a percentage basis. The service rendered by our concern is to audit the daily receipts of that picture, no matter where shown."

So, you see!

It won't be long now. I understand some of the boys are already dusting off their refrigeration plants and setting the boxoffice thermometers to register 20 degrees cooler than the street!

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR Frances McDonald—I have read the two letters published in your column relative to women using their brains.

Being a business woman working along with a number of men, I am in a fair position to state their impressions of women as a whole. I might say that I am always excepted when their conversation concerns women, gracious of them, don't you think? But, of course, my woman's mind tells me that it is only because I happen to be present when each discussion occurs.

The men in my office, and I am only writing of the things I hear from them, are all carefully educated and brilliant men in their lines, so we can safely take their opinion and apply it to the majority of men whose opinions would count.

Women, to these men, will always be classified as selfish, without the slightest sense of responsibility, and grasping (oh, terrible word). By grasping they mean nagging their husbands constantly for money, and more money, and, if not married, we all know what women are called who seem to be grasping. Women, therefore, are designated in their opinion to a class of acceptance only leaving any assertiveness to the men.

Because these men have classified women as above, they actually sit back in their chairs and dare to say that a woman's opinion is worth nothing; that they have single track minds, not being able to see any angle of a question except the one which they choose to see, and nine times out of ten the wrong angle, because women have no conception of the right road of thought.

These men I speak of all agree that a man, under no circumstances, should mistreat a woman even though he is married to one with whom he is not in accord; but her place primarily in this world is one of accepting his gold-edged assertions, never questioning the same. When they speak of mistreatment, I wonder sometimes why they can not see that they are handing us exactly that when they listen to us with such complaisant amused indulgence, just waiting for us to finish what we have to say and then promptly ignoring it.

I have learned never to inject myself in any discussion with these men or any man. Every man and woman have some thoughts in common, thank God, and the wise woman, as I see it, will cling to these and slide tactfully over the others if she values her equilibrium.

Though there are women with brains with the power to think as clearly as any man, my observation so far has shown me that the business man of today thinks the average woman flighty, vain and foolhardy, and when a woman comes along who sounds sensible they will not admit, even to themselves, that it is possible, they are so filled with their own conceited sense of power and efficiency. Because of the attitude that men take, women have always had to use their wits (they should be sharpened by this time, don't you think?) and charms. They are weapons which women have to fight the self-sufficient male. Those weapons, I think, are foes that have made men afraid of women. If their judgment was only sound, poor dears, they would realise that they themselves have forced their use upon us.

I'm afraid you will not want to publish this long letter, Miss McDonald, but anyway now, at last, that's off my chest.

A-TRY-TO-BE-TOLERANT.

Do you blame men for thinking lightly of woman's mentality when the woman who is wise carefully conceals what mentality she may have? It is not strange that man should fall for woman's cleverness. It is what she intends him to do. She asks his advice even when she knows him to be incapable of advising a cat. She cares nothing for the advice, but she wants him to be in a good humor for the evening. And, poor simple soul that he is, he struts his stuff and tells her what a wonderful little woman she is.

And what of it? Woman uses her brains to get what she wants, and it only proves how deftly she uses them when man never even perceives either the process or the results. Being clever is man's business. Being disarmingly dumb, despite cleverness, is woman's pastime. Which keeps everybody happy and the men chesty, which is as it should be!

4 Fliers Will Try to Trim Globe-Encircling Records

Rivalry in Prospect Among Airmen Preparing Long Flights During 1931 Aviation Season as Marks Are to Be Attacked and Defended.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Four modern Magellans, aviators all, are to attempt this spring and summer to stretch new wings around the world.

Theirs are the most ambitious projects of the 1931 flying season.

Wiley Post, Oklahoma City pilot, will try to slash the zero for the 80-day record of Jules Verne's mythical globe-trotter, Phineas Fogg. The others have set no goal but to lower the Graf Zeppelin's world-girdling mark of 20 days and 4 hours.

Post, using the Lockheed monoplane with which he won the nonstop Pacific Derby of the 1930 national air races, will be accompanied by Harold Gatty, 28, Australian-trained navigator who was with Harold Bromley in an attempted Tokyo-Tacoma flight last year.

Their rivals will be John Henry Mears, out to recapture the record he has twice held, with Vance Breese as pilot; Clyde E. Pangborn, Seattle, with Hugh Herndon, jr., son of a New York investment banker, and Bernt Balchen, Norse-American flier of transatlantic and South Pole fame.

Mears set a record of 15 days 21 hours 36 minutes in 1913, and fifteen years later, with the late Capt. C. B. D. Collyer, encompassed the globe by plane and steam in 23 days 15 hours 21 minutes 3 seconds.

Last August, with Henry J. Brown as pilot, he left New York on an all-air venture which ended in the crash of their loaded plane as it was taking off for the Atlantic flight from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

His newest craft, third to bear the name City of New York, will be another streamlined Lockheed. Breese, who will be at the controls, is a test pilot for the Detroit Aircraft Corporation.

Pangborn, a veteran air circus pilot, and Herndon, a wealthy aviation enthusiast, will fly a single-motored Bellanca J-6. They have been schooled in aerial navigation by Capt. Lewis A. Yancey, who flew the Atlantic in 1929 with Roger Q. Williams.

Balchen's plans are the least known of any. He announced in January that he would attempt a round-the-world flight in a Fokker plane, probably in April, but has revealed nothing further.

The other three pairs of fliers plan to follow similar routes, going eastward across the Atlantic, spanning the Eastern Hemisphere by way of Berlin and Moscow and Siberia, and striking the United States at Seattle for the return to their places of departure.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me whether there is such a plant as a philodendron.

It is a new plant to me which I have just heard about and I do not know if the one that told me about it gave me the correct information. AN OLD GARDENER.

Yes, there is a most beautiful plant known as the philodendron cordatum. I have only seen one specimen, though in some locations, especially in the neighborhood of St. Louis, it has become quite popular in the last two years. It is advertised as a plant well fitted for house use or office decoration. The name philodendron means "tree loving," and most of the species use the trees of the jungle for a means of support.

Please give me the names of three varieties of zinnias that you feel are reliable. I want a yellow, a crimson and an old rose variety. ANNIE S. P.

Golden state, old rose and crimson giant are all reliable in every way.

Some one at our garden brought up the question of the time to plant hybrid delphiniums. Those who seemed to know most about the culture of these plants said they should be planted very early. Is this a correct idea? HELEN T. P.

Delphiniums start their growth before the last snow has melted. Early plantings will make the strongest blooms.

Please tell me whether a plantain lily likes a moist, shady situation or a moist, sunny one. MRS. WILLIAM H. S.

Plant a funkia when possible in a moist, shady location. The plantain lily, while it will grow in sun, does best in a rather shady place.

Please tell me whether gladiolus will grow in almost any soil. ALICE T. P.

Yes, but better results may be had if your soil is well prepared and enriched with pulverized manure or bonemeal. Do not neglect to cultivate the soil about these bulbs constantly.

Please tell me whether I can expect success from planting regal lily bulbs in the spring; also how deep to set the bulbs. MRS. GERALD T. H.

You can expect success if you plant the bulbs quite early. Set them 8 or 9 inches deep.

Does the scabiosa bloom the entire summer? I am away in July and want to plant an annual for cutting purposes which will bloom both early and late. Is this a good choice? MRS. JAMES K. Y.

Yes, as it blooms almost continuously until early October. Be sure to remove the dead flowers and thus prevent the plant from going to seed.

Will pink geraniums and blue ageratums make a suitable combination for a window box for the southern side of the house? MISS SALLIE P.

Yes, both suitable and beautiful.

I want to plant a rapid growing vine to ramble over the side of a new bungalow which I have built for my farmer. Can you suggest a vine that will make a showing of growth the first year? MR. JAMES H. W.

Polygonum auberti. This vine is free from disease and a rapid grower. While it will cling to a wall, it will ramble over any support.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

A MODIFIED ASCHHEIM-ZONDEK.

THE accepted laboratory test for pregnancy has been simplified and made more practical and less expensive. One name of the procedure is the hormone test. The name by which it is generally known is the Aschheim-Zondek test. The original method and some of its possibilities and applications have been covered in this column on several occasions. The simplifications and the demonstration of their feasibility have come from animal research, and fairly extensive clinical trial by Drs. P. F. Schneider and M. A. Friedman.

The simplified method consists in injecting some urine from a supposedly pregnant woman into the large ear vein of a young female rabbit. At the end of a day and a half, or less, the rabbit is killed, autopsied, and evidence of the action of a certain hormone on the pelvic organs is searched for. These effects can be recognized, as a rule, by the unaided eye, though it is customary to follow up with an examination of the rabbit tissues with a low-power microscope.

The old method was the same except that young female white mice were used for the test. Several mice were injected. A microscopic examination of the mouse tissue was required. The advantages of the modified method are these:

It discloses pregnancy by the end of the third week and probably even earlier.

Young female rabbits are cheaper and more readily available than young white mice.

Only one animal is required or, at most, one for the test and a second for a check.

The test can be completed in 30 hours and probably in less time.

It can be made by any physician who has enough experience to inject a rabbit vein and who knows the appearance of tissues at autopsy.

If any laboratory equipment be necessary, the only requirement is for a low-power microscope.

Dr. Schneider reports the test to be exceptionally dependable. It makes some mistakes, but they are few in number and they can be checked with no great difficulty. He thinks it probable that the test can be made use of even earlier than the third week, and the time required for a test can be shortened from 30 hours to possibly eight hours.

WE SHOOT ALONG A HORIZONTAL SHAFT RIGHT BACK INTO THE CITY!
IN NO TIME WE WERE BACK IN THE CITY BENEATH THE SEA.
WELL, HERE WE ARE—AND I PROMISE NO MORE CRIMINAL CHARGES WILL BE BROUGHT AGAINST YOU.
BUT HOW ABOUT LETTING US GO BACK TO THE OUTER WORLD?
YES—ARE WE STILL PRISONERS OF STATE?

LINGLE TRIAL JURY SWORN AT CHICAGO

Lawyers to Make Opening Statements Today in Death of Reporter.

Criminal Court Building, Chicago, March 23 (A.P.).—Twelve men were sworn in today to decide whether Leo Brothers fired the shot that killed the Chicago Tribune police reporter, Alfred Lingle, last June.

As the last of the jurors was accepted, in a brief but heated session, the State revealed for the first time that it did not intend to prove why Lingle was killed or who ordered the assassination.

"It is unessential in this State to prove a motive for murder," said Assistant State's Attorney Wayland Brooks, as he questioned the last venireman. "If we can prove that this defendant committed the murder; that he was seen to fire the shot, then you need not be concerned about motive."

Mr. Brooks further narrowed the case down by impressing upon the jurors that the case they were about to hear was merely "the State of Illinois versus Leo Brothers," and by cautioning them against taking upon themselves the State's attorneys' duties and attempting to find any one else guilty.

Guilt of One Guilt of All.

"It has been suggested here," Brooks said, "that others have been arrested and one indicted in connection with this murder. I will remind you that if several persons plot a murder and it is carried out by common design, they are all guilty of murder. But no matter what may or may not be done about others, your problem here is simple, Did Leo Brothers kill Alfred Lingle?"

The jury was completed suddenly, not long after court opened. After a short conference between the attorneys and Judge Joseph Sabath, an adjournment was ordered until tomorrow morning to give the lawyers time to perfect their opening arguments. The defense reiterated its demand for the financial records of the Lingle murder investigating board, and was assured the records would be brought into court whenever needed as evidence.

Ample Time Promised.

Although Brooks' statement indicated the long anticipated "surprise" evidence of the State might not materialize, defense Attorney Louis Piquett again asked, and was reassured, that the names of any new witnesses be given to the defense in time to permit investigation.

The jury is an unusually youthful one, five of the men being no older than the 31-year-old defendant. Brothers took an active part in the selection, making frequent suggestions of questions to ask the veniremen and having several excused preemptorially. No attempt was made to find jurors who had not read of the sensational case. The attempt was more to find those whose reading had not given them fixed opinions.

The first witnesses to take the stand for the State tomorrow are expected to be Coroner Herman N. Bundesen and Mrs. Helen Sullivan Lingle, the widow, who will merely establish the fact of death.

Chaplin Quits Paris To Hunt Wild Boar

Briand Gives Luncheon at Foreign Office for Noted Actor.

Paris, March 23 (A.P.).—Charlie Chaplin left here tonight for Normandy to hunt wild boars on the estate of the Duke of Westminster, but the prospect seemed to interest him less than did Aristide Briand's proposal for a United States of Europe. He learned about that today at a luncheon M. Briand gave for the screen clown and a few other guests.

"It's a magnificent idea," he said later. "M. Briand may not live to see the dream realized, but he has planted a seed which is certain to bring fruit."

The other guests, veering away from political topics, asked Chaplin whether he had ever hunted boars. He rolled his eyes and dusted off a shoulder as if to say, "Lately I've been fighting them off in droves." The laughter was so hearty that he felt obliged to explain that he did not include those who had lunched with him. Chaplin is coming back tomorrow, or some time this week, it was reported today. He is to be made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

Ethel Barrymore's Manager Is Dead

Body of Aid for 21 Years Found in Private Car of Company.

Nashville, Tenn., March 23 (A.P.).—The show went on tonight as friends prepared to send the body of William Frank, 53, personal manager for Ethel Barrymore for 17 years, to New York.

Frank died on a train en route here from Atlanta, Ga., last night, of his death, believed to have been caused by heart trouble, was not announced until midafternoon.

Miss Barrymore refused to discuss Frank's death, and her leading man, Walter Gilbert, said she was suffering from a "case of nerves."

Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of the actress, said, "Mother is very much broken up."

The company presented "The Love Duel" here tonight.

A. P. Man Is Chosen Assistant to Lamont

Clinton Coffin, for a number of years connected with the Washington bureau of the Associated Press, has been appointed assistant to Secretary of Commerce Lamont.

For several years Mr. Coffin has "covered" the Commerce Department for the Associated Press and is considered an authority on its multiplicity of activities. The new assistant is well known in newspaper circles. He was the first conductor of the press association's financial news feature, "The Washington Ticker."

Ring Cut From Finger By Fire Rescue Squad

A ring was cut yesterday from the finger of Charles Holmes, 2 years old, colored, by the Fire Rescue Squad. The child had been given the ring by a friend of the family. His parents were unable to remove it.

They called surgeons from Freedmen's Hospital, who also were unable to pry it loose. The Fire Rescue Squad cut the ring with a pair of shears. The child lives at 1812 Fourteenth street northwest.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

Gay 90's Play To Be Attended By Noted Folk

Columbia Actors Tonight Give "Nellie, Beautiful Cloak Model."

Among the distinguished folk who will witness the Washington premiere of "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," at the Wardman Park Theater tonight are the German Ambassador and Frau von Prittwitz.

The list of reservations for the performance by the Columbia Players, who rose to fame with their production of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," reads like the social register. Among those who are planning to attend this stirring melodrama of the gay 90's are Mrs. John C. Fremont and her guests, Mrs. Rushmore Patterson, Mrs. Mark Reid Yates, Brig. Gen. William C. Horton, Col. Mervin Buckey and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Deering; Mr. Philip Sims, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Cunliberti, Mr. and Mrs. Newbold Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Scott Thropp, Mr. and Mrs. Paulding Lamberton, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Putnam, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Reynolds, Gen. and Mrs. Clarence C. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, jr., and party of six; Mrs. Fayette Brown Dow, who is having a party of young people, and Mrs. W. Thompson Burch, who is entertaining at a supper party in her apartment at Wardman following the play.

Representative and Mrs. Longworth will have twelve guests, for whom they are entertaining later. Mrs. Tracy Dows has a party of six, among them her schoolgirl daughter, Deborah, who is in town for the Easter holiday. Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt Myers are also entertaining a group of friends.

Old ballads of the period of "Nellie" will be one of the features of the evening. The management announces that the audience may join in the chorus of "Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage," "Take Back Your Gold," "Bicycle Built for Two," and the other old favorites.

The trustees of the Corcoran Gallery of Art have issued invitations for the opening of the private exhibition of Mexican arts, which is being held under the auspices of the American Federation of Arts on next Tuesday afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock.

The Art and Archaeology League has issued cards for Saturday afternoon for an illustrated lecture to be given by Mrs. William S. Corby at 4 o'clock at her home in Chevy Chase. His subject will be "Book Plates." Selections from her collection will be on view and a program of pipe organ music will follow the talk.

The commanding officers of the United States Navy and Marine Corps will entertain at a ball to be held at the Willard on April 8.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. McKinney are for a time in St. Augustine, Fla. Also at the resort are Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Knapp.

Mrs. F. Lawrence Walker has returned from Florida and the Bahama Islands, where she has been for about six weeks. While in the South Mrs. Walker flew from Miami to Nassau, where she spent a fortnight. En route home from Florida, she visited her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. William Carr Guthrie and family, in High Point, N. C.

District Officers Back From Cuba.

Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer of the District highway department, and Capt. Hugh P. Oram, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, returned yesterday from Havana, Cuba, where they went to attend the celebration incident to the opening of a national highway. They had been away more than a week.

ANNUAL KOBER DAY PROGRAM ARRANGED

Veteran Dean Emeritus of Georgetown University Is Approaching 81.

The annual Kober Day exercises will be held Saturday evening at Georgetown University, marking the eighty-first birthday of Dr. George M. Kober, veteran dean emeritus of the Georgetown Medical School and president of the Washington Tuberculosis Association.

Under the terms of a foundation provided by Dr. Kober, the awards of which are given on his birthday anniversaries, the Association of American Physicians has awarded the honors this year to Dr. Frederick George Novy, professor of bacteriology of the University of Michigan, and Dr. Henry Sewall, famous tuberculosis authority of Denver and dean emeritus of the University of Colorado Medical School.

Dr. Novy, one of the greatest specialists in his field, will deliver the annual Kober lecture at the exercises. His subject is "Respiration of Microorganisms." The Medical Society of the District will be among the guests. At the same time Dr. Kober will announce the award of the Kober medal to Dr. Sewall, in recognition of his important work in promoting knowledge of the cure of tuberculosis. Dr. Sewall, however, will be unable to attend.

On other successive years, the selections for the Kober awards are made by the Medical Society of the District and the Association of Military Surgeons, which represents the Army, Navy and Public Health Service. The Nordhoff-Jung cancer prize for 1930, which has been awarded to Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute of New York, also is to be presented in connection with the forthcoming exercises.

Dr. Sewall was awarded last year the Trudeau medal by the National Tuberculosis Association. Under the terms of the Kober Foundation, the annual lecture must be given at Georgetown University.

Dr. Kober is convalescing from a severe illness and is engaged now in writing his reminiscences.

Girl's Suit Causes Thaw to Sell Land

Declares Court Action Has Exceeded $50,000; Hits Claim as False.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Harry K. Thaw issued a statement today explaining the sale of property on his estate in Winchester, Va., tomorrow was due to his desire to fight "a false claim in the New York supreme court."

The statement said Thaw had no fault to find with the judges, but could not extend this opinion to the plaintiff. "" would rather oppose this person than save money," he said. "Leaving out any bond, the suit has cost me over $50,000."

"This person" is Marcia Estardus, who recently was awarded $16,000 damages against Thaw. She charged that he bit her and paddled her with a hair brush at a New Year's party in his home in 1922.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Fair and slightly warmer Tuesday; Wednesday cloudy, probably showers; gentle shifting winds, becoming southerly Tuesday.

For Maryland and Virginia—Fair and slightly warmer Tuesday; Wednesday cloudy, probably showers; moderate northeast, shifting to south winds.

The disturbance that was central near Cape Hatteras Sunday night is advancing northeastward over the ocean, with center tonight about midway between Nantucket and Bermuda. It was attended by rain Sunday night in the Middle Atlantic States and portions of the Carolinas. The western disturbance is moving slowly eastward, and it now extends from southern Hudson Bay to the lower Rio Grande Valley, with principal center over Iowa, Des Moines, 29.48 inches, and it has caused general precipitation, mostly in the form of rain, within the last 24 hours from the northern Rocky Mountain region eastward to Illinois and Wisconsin. Fair weather has prevailed in all other parts of the country. Pressure is low and falling over western Alaska, St. Paul, 29.30 inches. High pressure prevails over the greater part of Canada, and from the north Pacific Coast eastward to Montana and Wyoming. Coppermine, District of Mackenzie, 30.54 inches; Spokane, Wash., 30.32 inches, and Harrington, 30.26 inches. The temperature has risen in the Southern States, the Ohio Valley, and the Middle Atlantic States, and has fallen in the Rocky Mountain region, Arizona, southern California and the Plains States.

The eastward advance of the Iowa disturbance will likely be attended by showers in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the western lower lake region Tuesday, and eastward to the Atlantic Coast by or during Wednesday. The temperature will be slightly higher in the Middle Atlantic and South Atlantic States Tuesday, and it will fall in the western portions of Kentucky and Tennessee Tuesday, and eastward to the Appalachian region Wednesday.

SCHOOL LUNCH FUND IS WAITING FOR VOTE

Only $125 Is Received, but Larger Pledges Hinge on Formality.

Although the small sum of $125 was received yesterday by the District Congress of Parents and Teachers for the central fund for feeding needy school children, considerably more than this has been pledged by the executive committees of various Parent-Teacher Associations and dispatch of these contributions is merely awaiting the formal sanction of the entire membership of the associations, it was learned last night.

The reason all the contributions have not yet been received is because the associations meet only once a month. A number of those whose officers have recommended donations have not met since the drive was started to aid the impoverished children, school officials pointed out.

Assistant Superintendents of Schools Stephen E. Kramer and Robert L. Haycock conferred yesterday with officers of the Congress of Parents and Teachers, and reported encouragement over what has been accomplished. Recommendations are to be made by the school officials as to sections where help is most needed and money will be distributed among these schools as quickly as it is received.

Recommendations are also to be made as to homes where help is needed. The plan of the Congress of Parents and Teachers and of school officials is to have the more fortunately endowed associations aid the poorer ones.

Insane Man Hunted By Tear Gas Posse

Virginia Farmer Terrorizes Section With Shotgun; Flees to Hills.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 23.—Hand grenades and tear bombs were being used today in efforts to subdue and capture Charles Reedy, farmer of Shenandoah County, who became violently insane suddenly, ran amuck and terrified the rural section in which he lives.

War time submissives were obtained here and Frederick County officers joined Shenandoah sheriff's posses in surrounding Reedy's house, only to find he had fled while Shenandoah officers were awaiting reinforcements with gas weapons.

Reedy had previously barricaded himself in his house after driving his family away, and with a double-barreled shotgun shouted defiance at everyone. Sheriff Sheetz and many deputies were raking the mountains cautiously as darkness settled hoping to capture Reedy before he sees them.

Former Prohibition Man Fined on Theft Charge

R. J. Burlasque, former prohibition agent and now engaged in automobile repair contract work for the United States Geological Survey, was yesterday convicted in Police Court on a charge of stealing a piece of slip-cover material claimed to be the property of Frank Saks, proprietor of the Rite Way Auto Top Co., of Washington.

Burlasque, who denied the charge, was fined $19.25, including costs, by Judge Harry R. Thomas. An appeal was noted by Attorney Thomas W. Phillips, counsel for the defendant.

2 Women Hurt as Car Leaves Richmond Road

Mrs. Gertrude Thorpe, 24, and Miss Helen Minin, 17, both of Queens Village, N. Y., who were en route to their home from a visit in Miami, Fla., yesterday morning were badly hurt when the automobile they were in left the road near Pohick Church, on the Richmond-Washington highway. The car overturned three times. Both were taken to the Fort Humphreys Hospital and given first aid and then brought to the Alexandria Hospital and treated by Dr. M. D. Delaney.

Last night at the hospital it was stated Mrs. Thorpe is seriously injured, having a fractured skull, while Miss Minin is severely bruised, with possibly a broken nose.

HEARING ON BUS LINE SUSPENSION IS SET

Utilities Group to Consider Foxhall Village-Potomac Heights Protests.

A formal hearing has been scheduled by the Public Utilities Commission to hear protests on the proposal of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to abandon its Foxhall Village-Potomac Heights bus line. The hearing will be held at 10 a. m. on April 6.

The commission set the hearing after it had received a protest from Robert A. Cooper, chairman of the public utilities committee of the Foxhall Village Citizens Association, and after People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech had advised that he had received a protest from the Conduit Road Citizens Association.

Will Fight Abandonment.

At the same time Mr. Keech informed the commission that he would aid the citizen associations and residents of the communities involved in fighting the abandonment.

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. last Friday filed its petition on the grounds that it is losing revenue by operating the bus line. Boss & Phelps, realtors, until March 12 last had a contract with the company to make up its losses in serving Foxhall Village. This has not been renewed.

Some of the representatives of the citizens' groups contend that the line would have a better patronage if run into the downtown section instead of terminating at Thirty-fifth street and Reservoir road.

Approves Bus Terminal.

The commission yesterday approved a new route and terminal for the Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis Bus Line, which must vacate the little Ninth and G streets depot by April 1 to make way for the Federal building program.

The line was authorized to make its Capital terminal at Twelfth and D streets northwest, in front of the Postoffice Department. Buses will enter via B street southwest, then proceed over Maryland avenue, C street, Virginia avenue and up Twelfth street to D street. The outbound route will be the same as now followed.

Authorization was given the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to remove center poles on Rhode Island avenue northeast, between the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad viaduct and Twelfth street, and to replace them with side poles and a span-wire construction.

Indictment Found In Liquor Killing

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., March 23.—The Page County grand jury meeting in Luray today indicted David C. Sours, a farmer of Marksville district, for the murder, on March 5, of Edward Buracker in the Blue Ridge, 10 miles east of Luray.

Buracker was killed with a shotgun alleged to have been held by Sours while the latter was in ambush. The affair is said to have been the outgrowth of an old grudge over moonshine operations. Sours stoutly denies all knowledge of the shooting, saying he was ill in bed when the crime was committed.

He will probably be tried at the March term of the Page County Court before Judge H. W. Bertram. Sours will be defended by E. D. Ott and J. Lynn Lucas. S. Lynn Walton, assisted by Robert W. Keyser, will conduct the prosecution.

Neuritis

There is no pain like Neuritis. There is nothing quite so torturing—so utterly unbearable as Neuritis. It robs life of all joy—and makes people desperate. But Neuritis is not hopeless—it responds to proper treatment. A well-known physician has written us, "Have been drinking Mountain Valley Water for six weeks for Neuritis and am feeling better than I have for two years." Mountain Valley Mineral Water from Hot Springs, Ark., brings relief in Neuritis because it gets at the root of the trouble—it tends to neutralize the acids which are irritating the nerves and retards the further accumulation of these acids by aiding healthy, normal elimination through the kidneys. $25,000 FOR WIDOW OF TRAFFIC VICTIM

Jury Gives Two Others, Hurt in Same Crash $500 and $250 Each.

One of the heaviest judgments returned here in recent months for a fatality growing out of an automobile accident was handed down in the District Supreme Court yesterday when a $25,000 verdict was given Mrs. Emily Luginbuhl, widow of Paul Luginbuhl, formerly employed at the Mayflower Hotel, who was killed in a Maryland accident.

The statutes governing District cases does not, of course, cover Maryland accidents, and the jury returned a verdict that was $15,000 in excess of the maximum allowed under local laws.

At the same time, two others, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pleininger, of 1115 Seventeenth street northwest, who were hurt in the same accident that resulted in Paul Luginbuhl's death, received sums of $500 and $250 each for their hurts.

The verdicts were against Lester L. Charlton, a coal dealer, of Sherman avenue near Fairmont street northwest, and they grew out of a collision of a coal truck and an automobile driven by the man killed on the Defense highway, May 24, 1928. Attorneys Simon, Koenigsbebrger, Young & Brez, with Alvin Newmyer and Godfrey L. Munter appeared for the plaintiffs.

Legislators Hear Ruth Bryan Owen

Florida Representative Is Greeted by Crowd in Old Home.

Lincoln, Nebr., March 23 (A.P.).—Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida, today returned to her old home town with a plea for good government. She addressed members of the Nebraska Legislature convened in joint session.

Galleries of the House chamber were crowded by spectators eager to hear the daughter of the late Commoner, William Jennings Bryan, and the niece of Nebraska's Democratic governor, Charles W. Bryan. The governor accompanied her to the Assembly.

The Florida representative, who returned for a visit with relatives and friends, told the legislators that the individual citizens should bear the burden of good government.

835,000 Auto Crashes Kill 32,500 in Year

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—There were more than 835,000 automobile accidents in the United States last year, and they killed 32,500 persons and injured 962,000, the Travelers Insurance Co. reported today.

Deaths increased 4.5 per cent over 1929. New York State went contrary to the general tendency, reporting 3,074 fatalities, a decrease of 3.1 per cent.

Lindbergh Called Prince of Sales

Chicago, March 23 (A.P.).—Grover A. Whalen nominated Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today as "America's prince of sales."

New York City's official "greeter," whose handshake and welcoming words have introduced many distinguished visitors to this country, told the advertising council of the Chicago Association of Commerce that the Prince of Wales and his brother, George, were creating millions of dollars worth of good-will for British business on their South American trip.

"We also have a 'prince of sales,'" Whalen said. "He is more generally known as Charles A. Lindbergh. The good-will he gained for America on his flight to Paris and trip to Mexico only can be measured in millions." And the Flying Colonel, Whalen said, was just as capable of good salesmanship as Great Britain's emmissary of trade.

Two Bank Thieves Slain as They Flee

War Veteran Shoots Pair Down as They Emerge With Loot.

Edna, Kans., March 23 (A.P.).—Two unidentified men who robbed the First National Bank of $1,397 here today were slain in a gun fight with Dr. A. T. Hyde, World War veteran, as they fled with their loot. Hyde, a dentist, stood in a doorway across the street from the bank and opened fire with a shotgun as the bandits emerged.

One robber was killed instantly. The other returned the fire. Hyde continued to pour buckshot at his adversary, who fell fatally wounded.

Three bank officials were forced to enter the vault during the robbery. The robbers displayed a bottle and asked them to join in a drink. Dr. Hyde served in France with the Eighty-ninth Division. He said he had expected a repetition of the robbery of the bank last July, and had armed for the emergency.

Acquiesces in Suicide, But Hates Big Gas Bill

Baltimore, March 23 (A.P.).—Albert Dodge objects to his friends wasting his gas.

"This man is a nuisance. Lock him up," he directed, pointing to the man who accompanied him to the police station.

"He's been wasting my gas," Dodge explained. "He waited until I got to sleep and then went in and laid on my bathroom floor and turned on the gas.

"I don't care if he committed suicide, but I won't have him running up my gas bill."

The alleged gas waster, who gave the name of Charles Fiedel, was locked up on a charge of disturbing the peace.

John Shotzberger Accuses Wife, Now Patient in Hospital.

John I. Shotzberger, of L street, near Eighth street northwest, yesterday filed suit for absolute divorce from his wife, Mrs. Alice E. Shotzberger, who is now a patient in a local hospital. He also seeks to have the court award him the permanent custody of seven minor children.

In his bill, in which he names a corespondent, Mr. Shotzberger said that his wife had been adjudged an "improper custodian" of the children by Justice of the Peace John A. Downey, of Edmonston, Md., in August, 1930.

The couple were married in Baltimore, Md., March 30, 1918. Mr. Shotzberger said he was compelled to leave his wife in August of 1929, and that he continued to support the children. They are now being maintained by him he said.

A DISCOURAGED CRIMINAL— THE FIREBUG

THE arsonist more and more is becoming a discouraged criminal. So relentless is the search—so greatly improved are the methods of detecting the deeds of this foe to all society—that fires started either for revenge or gain are steadily decreasing in number.

Likewise the pyromaniac, with his abnormal mind, is being curbed. More than half the states have amended their laws to more effectively check the operations of men who endanger the lives of others in their efforts to profit through destruction by fire. Other states are joining the movement.

3 Hold package as shown and with your thumbs push it part way out of Humidor Pack

4 To avoid tearing tin foil, slip first finger of each hand under Revenue stamp and break it

5 Help yourself to a fresh cigarette, then slide package back into its Humidor Pack

6 Close package. It guards Camels from dust and germs and provides sanitary protection

THE moment you open the new Camel Humidor Pack you begin to note the advantages of this new, scientific and sanitary method of wrapping Camel cigarettes.

At once you are greeted with the delightful aroma that comes from choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobaccos in prime condition.

Your sense of touch also detects the freshness of Camels, for unlike moisture-robbed cigarettes Camels are pliable to the fingers.

But the real difference comes when you light a Camel and inhale its cool, fragrant smoke.

Cigarettes brought to you so perfectly conditioned deserve to be kept that way in your pocket.

The simplest way to insure this is to open the Camel Humidor Pack as shown above.

That will keep intact the mildness and freshness that is making the whole country say: "Now I'd walk two miles for a Camel because they're twice as good."

If you haven't tried Camels in the new Humidor Pack, switch over for just one day.

Then go back tomorrow if you can.

STOCKS UNSHAKEN BY FALL IN WHEAT

Net Losses Among Leaders Prove Nominal While Trading Is Dull.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Stocks refused to be seriously disturbed today by weakness of wheat, the outstanding development in the financial markets.

Shares were in an easy-going decline during most of the listless session, but net losses of the leaders were nominal. Prices reached their lowest levels around noon, when grains and cotton encountered the heaviest selling. Oils, for some unexplained reason, started a rally which held until the late trading, when the market again tapered off. The turnover in the last hour, however, was only 300,000 shares, the smallest volume in some time for that period, and the day's sales reached the unimpressive total of 2,000,000 shares.

The Farm Board's decision to terminate its wheat stabilization program with the end of the 1930 crop was hardly a surprise, since it had been realized that the Government agency would not continue the support policy indefinitely. Nevertheless, the announcement was followed by quick reactions in the new crop months. July sold down more than 2 cents a bushel, to 59½ cents, the lowest quotation since 1895. The inactive June delivery tumbled 12 cents to 65, closing at 67. It had been supposed that the board was supporting that month around 77 cents, and withdrawal of the crop brought a prompt readjustment.

Cotton Prices Fall.

Cotton broke $1 a bale. Traders felt the announcement concerning wheat possibly meant that neither the 1930 nor the 1931 cotton crops were to benefit from stabilization purchases, which so far have been limited to the 1,300,000 bales acquired by the stabilization corporation from the 1920 crops.

The Saturday reaction in stocks was extended quietly during the forenoon but the volume of offerings was decidedly limited and bearish professionals had little success except in issues affected by dividend situations. Liquid Carbonic and U. S. Industrial Alcohol were under pressure, together with Columbian Carbon, Allied Chemical, Case and Air Reduction. Auburn Auto saved the day for the specialties by staging one of its characteristic advances which carried it to the new high of 221¾. At the closing price of 219 it was 4½ points net higher.

American Can, Radio, General Electric, General Motors, Union Carbide, Anaconda, Consolidated Gas and Electric Power & Light finished with fractional losses. U. S. Steel, North American, New York Central, Loew's and Sears Roebuck sagged a point. Rails generally were mixed, but very dull.

Foreign Exchange Firm.

U. S. Government securities moved away from the rest of the investment market, closing with small gains, whereas domestic corporation bonds eased. Money was firmer to the extent that there was no concession from the stock exchange renewal rate of 1½ per cent, reflecting the virtual completion of the mid-March operations and the repayment of the Treasury's accomodation at the reserve bank.

Final wheat prices were ⅜ to 2½ cents lower for the new crop. Old months were little affected. Corn lost a cent in sympathy and the net losses in cotton ranged between 85 cents and $1.15 a bale.

Foreign exchanges were firm, featured by the strength of the German mark, which again made a new high. Firmness of bar silver, which was unchanged at both New York and London, held the Far Eastern currencies steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 23 (A.P.).—Confronted by official announcement that United States Government-sponsored efforts to stabilize grain prices would not be extended to 1931 crops, June wheat collapsed 11½ cents here today.

The spectacular drop was associated with flurried attempts to adjust the Chicago market to a world competitive export basis, especially a level low enough to rival Canadian wheat as shown by reduced quotations at Winnipeg. Uncertainty as to how existing huge wheat holdings of Federal Farm Board allies would be disposed of, added to trade nervousness, and the Chicago market plunged down to below any level since 1895, when July wheat sold at 50½ cents a bushel, the lowest point touched since dealings in monthly future delivery contracts were first started.

Today's maximum setback of Chicago wheat values was in the June delivery, which slipped from 76½ cents down to 65 cents. Transactions in June delivery were of comparatively small volume, however, and other months showed a maximum loss of but 2¾ cents.

Wheat closed nervous, ranging from a shade to 2¾ cents under Saturday's finish, except June delivery, which finished 9 cents off. Corn closed 1@1½ lower, oats ½@¾ down, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

Wheat prices began to crumble as soon as trading started. An immediate break of a cent a bushel was quickly followed by successive further fractures that left the market limp at as low as 59½ cents for the July delivery. The day's final figures showed but ¼-cent recovery in July, the most active speculative trading month, and the one which represents the first heavy movement of wheat from the 1931 harvest. March and May deliveries were little disturbed, as official announcements left no room for doubt that Government-sponsored bodies would continue to uphold prices for those deliveries, which stand for old wheat already in bins, as contrasted with wheat yet to be harvested.

One effect of the Federal Farm Board's announcement and of the ensuing downturns in prices was to increase materially the speculative interest in wheat and other grains. Traders who of late have been avoiding the grain market were reported as again taking an active hand, and by no means entirely on the selling side. Much of the purchasing was done on account of opinions expressed that the Farm Board announcement was the last of bearish developments expected, and that any change in winter wheat crop prospects would necessarily prove bullish. On the other hand, wheat selling in Chicago today was largely against purchases at Winnipeg.

Corn and oats owed their weakness entirely to the action of wheat. Corn touched a new low price record for the season, May 62¼.

Provisions were easier, influenced by downturns in hog values and in grain.

BOND MART SLUMPS AS RAIL ISSUES SAG

Government Obligations Go Definitely, if Slightly, to Higher Price.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Led by the more active issues the bond market receded today. Sales totaled $9,950,000, which indicated that the selling pressure was of moderate proportions.

Weakness in rail liens featured the market and followed publication of several earnings reports for February of important carriers, which showed marked declines in net and gross income. The 4½s of 1978 of the St. Louis-San Francisco, one of the reporting lines, closed unchanged after a temporary decline.

However, such representative and active bonds as Atchison general 4s, Alleghany 5s of 1944, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960, Chicago & Northwestern series A 4¾s, St. Paul 5s of 1975, the several issues of Missouri Pacific 5s, Southern Pacific 4½s of 1968 and the Refunding 4s of 1935, closed lower. Many of the gains by such rails as closed higher were achieved by the less active issues.

Steady selling and fractionally lower prices in German 5½s were features of the foreign group. Cuban 5½s of 1953 broke 3 points to a new 1931 low at 94. The downward trend was less marked in this group than in some others. Berlin Electric Elevated 6½s, Bordeaux 6s, which reached a new 1931 high at 105¾, both issues of Colombian 6s and of Brazilian 6½s and British 5½s of 1937 were active and higher.

United States Government obligations contrasted with the action of the rest of the market. Their prices were definitely, if moderately, higher. Presumably the wave of selling induced by estimates of the extent of borrowing by veterans and the probability of further Government financing has terminated.

Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s made another gain. Most issues with conversion or stock purchase options were lower, reflecting the heaviness of the stock market.

An additional issue of $25,000,000 of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. first mortgage sinking fund 5 per cent bonds, series B, due April 1, 1970, is being offered tomorrow (Tuesday) by a syndicate headed by the Bankers Co. of New York, at 101 and accrued interest to yield 4.94 per cent.

Proceeds from the sale will provide funds for additions, betterments and improvements and other corporate purposes. The company has under consideration the construction of important additions to its finishing capacity in both the Youngstown and Chicago districts.

ORIOLES HAMMER GRIFFITH FOR 5-5 TIE WITH NATS

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, March 23.—It has been my idea that the football coaches who write or pretend to write pieces for the newspapers about their teams in the fall are marketing something which is not properly theirs to sell, by which I mean to contend that the news and the news background of a team do not properly belong to the coach. Yale University has the same belief, apparently, as from now on no person connected with the football organization will be allowed to function as a trained seal of the fourth estate.

To the best of my knowledge, this practice of selling news began with the late Mrs. Jane Gibson, the so-called "Pig Woman" of the Hall-Mills murder case at New Brunswick, N. J., who said she saw the murders done or saw somebody thinking of doing the murders or something of the kind. It became impossible after a while to determine just what, if anything, Mrs. Gibson really had seen in connection with the unusual incidents under the apple tree a mile out of town that night.

Mrs. Gibson gave away her first story, which probably was her best one. Several other newspapaers which did not have the story approached her the next day for elaboration of the narrative. But Mrs. Gibson was a business woman and when she saw that she had something which the newspapers were very eager to have, she asked a natural question. Mrs. Gibson asked: "How much?"

Willing to Rack Her Brain

Her second day's story got her $50 and from that time on she was willing to rack her memory and her imagination for forgotten and previously unpublished details for the best available price. In this manner her story inevitably became confused, but that did not matter especially. The old lady had one fine trait in that she stood back of all her stories, however contradictory.

This practice of selling news presently became a great nuisance to the newspapers and press associations. Persons wishing to make a little money fell to creating news and then bottling up for sale to the highest bidders.

There was one aviator who set off from a distant place to fly somewhere else and was blown a long way off the prescribed course—blown right into the teeth of the wind, as the weather reports indicated—to fall, like a wounded thing, as the bottled-up story put it, on a deserted shore.

Naturally, the disappearance of the flier caused public alarm and, apparently, constituted news, so the newspapers and press associations began finding money to find the ship. The Government and independent fliers also took up the hunt. In the meantime, however, the alarm of the aviator's relatives and manager seemed to lack the proper tone of apprehension, and so when the flier, sure enough, turned up in an out-of-the-way place on foot and led the rescue party back to the undamaged ship, certain skeptics of the fourth estate remarked that they were beginning to smell a peculiar odor about it all.

The flier's manager had been trying to sell the story, first for $5,000, then $3,000, then somewhat less than that, conditional upon the rescue of the flier. This commercialism, too, seemed incompatible with the sorrow which he professed to feel. So, when, upon receipt of the glad news of the rescue, the manager tried to book reporters as passengers in a big ship to fly to the scene at $100 per head, the newspapers dropped the story.

Managers Sorrow Unreal

There followed some editorial comment to the effect that if this accident had been on the level it was doubly unfortunate, because the whole thing looked so peculiar. The next time a flier was lost other fliers might not be so willing to risk their lives searching land and ocean for him.

This, of course, is an extreme case, but football coaches are inventive, and they are as acquisitive as the next group of men, so if they find that news has a good market price it is possible that they will start manufacturing synthetic news.

Perhaps they will want to sell their line-ups exclusively. At several big games the line-up of one famous team has been concealed by an ingenious but not necessarily ingenuous shuffling of the numbers on the athletes' sweaters. The correct one, exclusively, would be worth a little something, and the coach is a business man.

Perhaps those intimate scenes in the dressing rooms, which are generally held to be private and personal, would bring some money if offered exclusively. News about injuries, about new plays, and a transcript of the repartee between the players along the lines during the big game might be salable.

C. Coolidge Offered in Rebuttal

One weakness of my contention is presented, however, by the case of Mr. Coolidge, who never was a journalist nor an essayist until he had been President of the United States, but who now writes a daily piece at, I believe, $2 a word. Of course, Mr. Coolidge can not be charged with selling news when he charges $2 a word for writing that honesty is the best policy and that farming is one of the important industries of the United States. But in a certain way his example establishes the ethical propriety of a football coach who exploits his position to sell

Mt. Vernons Eliminate Red Star Quintet, 27-23 In Post's Court Tourney

Church Team Enters Semifinals by Staving Off Rally.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.
130-POUND DIVISION.
Jewish Community Center, 28; Aztecs, 20 (quarter-final round).
Olmstead Grill, 44; Hawkins Motors, 11 (quarter final round).
115-POUND DIVISION.
Boys Club Optimists, 36; Nye House, 14 (quarter-final round).
UNLIMITED DIVISION.
Mount Vernon, 27; Red Stars, 23 (quarter-final round).

LAST night's jamboree of basket ball at Tech High School, under the auspices of The Post and the A. A. U., was dominated by the defeat of the sensational Red Stars, who earlier in the tournament eliminated the Jewish Community Center in the unlimited class, by the Mount Vernon five, former champions of the Sunday School League.

This contest was one of the queerest games in the tournament's history. The Red Stars trailed hopelessly at 15-3 at the end of the first half by reason of their absolute inability to reach the peak that has marked their former appearances in the league. Nothing they could do was right, not even the play of Paul Brown and Bill Woodward, George Washington University Freshmen aces.

Then in the second half the whole complexion of the match changed. The Mount Vernon found their opponents charging up at them and once the score stood 20-19, the Churchmen holding the lead by the scant point. But here the shooting Red Stars stopped and began the long parobala back to earth.

Another odd game on last night's schedule was the 44-11 victory of Olmsted Grill over Hawkins Motors. Play was the nip-and-tuck variety throughout most of the first half, when suddenly the Grillmen began to shoot from all angles to leap ahead and finish by more than a comfortable margin.

Red Stars' Hopes Are Dashed.

The fateful trek of the Red Stars, which has seen them eliminate among others the seeded Jewish Community Ceter Club in the unlimited class, came to an end last night when the Mount Vernon five, which has performed a miracle of two itself during this tournament, came out of the hectic fray a 27-23 victor, the recipient of a long ovation from the fans and a semifinalist.

Doubtless it was the feature game of the night's array of basket ball. The game possessed a second half that will not be forgotten in many day. The contest saw the stellar Red Stars play as though they were on the floor for the first time during half of the game and then saw them come out for the second half a totally different and dangerous team.

Few of the fans could believe their eyes when the Mount Vernon quint, with Terneak and Melton carrying the brunt of the work, had amassed a 15-3 lead at the conclusion of the first half's play. The Red Stars were completely outclassed in all departments of the game. Their passing was bad and their shooting was practically negligible, while their noted guards, Brown and Woodward, did little in their chosen field.

A remarkable change came over the losing club once the second half had gotten under way. With Bill Woodward, former Central High player and last season's ace of the George Washington University Freshmen team, holding the reins of the team, the Red Stars began to skyrocket in thrilling fashion. Maxwell and Brown contributed point after point, and with the end of the game in sight the score stood 20 to 19 in favor of Mount Vernon.

Terneak's shot from the center of the floor at this juncture was the turning point. The Red Stars faltered for the moment and before they coul drecover their stride Melton had broken loose from his guarding to sink two baskets in quick fashion.

J. C. C. 130-Pounders Always in Lead.

The Jewish Community Center's 130-pound team, with several Business High School stars in the lineup, created a mild upset when it defeated the highly touted Aztecs, 28-20.

It was perhaps the best played game of the 130-pound division to date, good guarding was in evidence throughout and the baskets scored by the players were shot in the face of high defensive play.

Although yielding high scoring honors to Goldberg and Cordova, Leon Esenstadt and Dave Nemerofsky shone brghtly for the winners. Nemerofsky's guarding was particularly effective.

Play was reasonably close at all time. The scores at the intermissions were 8-4, 17-8 and 20-12, with J. C. C. always in the lead.

Olmsteds Draw Away From Hawkins.

One of the features of the night was the peculiar 44-11 victory of the Olmstead Grill Five over the Hawkins Motors tossers, victory which sent the third 130-pound team into the semifinal round.

The two clubs started out as though perfectly matched. Play was at the closest sort obtainable, and after 10 minutes had passed, the count stood 4-4.

The competition continued to be keen until about midway in the second quarter, when the Olmstead team appeared to go into another and higher gear. With Berni Reichardt and Al Waters, regulars on the varsity squads of Tech and Eastern High Schools, respectively, finding the cords from all corners of the floor, the Grillmen found themselves leading by the score 29-to-4 at the half.

Nothing could stop the Olmstead tossers. The Motormen attempted gallantly to stop the flow of baskets, but failed, and could boost their score by only seven points in the last half while the leaders were piling up their total of 44 points.

Individual honors went to Reichardt and Waters, while Gretz's good guarding and foul shooting was outstanding for the losers.

Optimists Outpass Northwesterns.

The Boys Club Optimist 130-pound club scored a comparatively easy 36-15 victory over the Northwesterns, leading at the end of each quarter and showing a generally better passing and guarding game than their opponents.

Galligher, with seven field goals to his credit, showed the way to the high scoring stars and was approached only by Williams, of the losing combination.

The feature of the game, however, was the passing of the entire Optimist team. The boys tossed the ball through and around their opponents throughout the fray.

B. C. Optimists Outclass Nye House Five.

The Boys Club Optimists 115-pound team made it a great night for their institution by trimming the Nye House tossers, 36 to 14, to move into the final round of their division. There they await the winner of the match between the Charlottesville Five and the Mount Rainier tossers.

The Optimists were just too seasoned a club for the Nye House boys. They showed better passing, guarding and judgment, and put some of their older brothers to shame with their shooting.

Hollis and Billings were the stellar marksmen of the night, with 10 and 11 points, respectively. L. Gevison, guard, led the losing combination.

Easter Hero Favorite In Grand National

London, March 23 (A.P.).—J. H. Whitney's Easter Hero was the favorite today in the call-over of betting odds on the Grand National Steeplechase to be run at Aintree Friday.

The American horse was at 100 to 9 against, with Sir Lindsay, his stablemate and the British-owned steeplechaser, Ballasport, second choices at 100 to 7.

Other odds: Drintyre, 18 to 1; Drin, 18 to 1; Grakle, 18 to 1; Kakushin, 20 to 1; Shaun Goilin, last year's winner, 25 to 1.

Dublin, Ireland, March 22 (U.P.).—The records of the Grand National Sweepstakes were moved under armed guard to Mansion House today, where the draw will be held Tuesday.

WHEN swans in the Bishop's Palace Mere get hungry they make the fact known. Young swans learn the trick from their parents and if some of the young birds are a bit slow in catching on there is no worry for swans often live from 70 to 100 years.

It is difficult to imagine a large locomotive flying, but the weight would be no greater than the giant Dornier DO-X. When well loaded the huge plane weighs 100,000 pounds. It can carry 200 passengers and 10 tons of fuel.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 23 (A.P.). — Bill Terry, National League batting champion, made his 1931 debut today and led the New York Giants to a 6-to-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox. The victory was the third in five games played with the Sox.

Terry played only four innings, but poled out two singles to help the Giants get away to a flying start. The Giants scored all of their runs in the first three innings, one of which was the result of a home run by Freddie Lindstrom.

Fred Fitzsimmons and Pete Donohue held the Sox to seven hits while their teammates were collecting eleven off Thomas and Braxton.

Better Spirit Seen Asset to Nats

IN a brief and concise note to the "Baseball Editor" of The Post, Frank G. Martin, of 123 C street northeast, enters The Post's box seat contest with the assertion that Washington is going to win the pennant by reason of the fact that every last player on the team has confidence in himself this year, where last year several of the performers were uncertain of their ability.

Having finished but a shade behind the Athletics after being picked by the experts to head the second division, the Nats are going to enter this year's contest with the feeling that they are good, and the results will soon be seen, Mr. Martin believes.

In comparing the Nationals and the Athletics, for the battle lays between the two, Mr. Martin finds that the fielding and hitting average of the infielders give Washington a slight advantage over their rivals.

Outfield Is Seen Equal of A's

In the outfield Mr. Martin states that West and Manuah are going to be better ball players this year, a fact that is bound to bring the Nats' outfield to a plane equal to the A's.

Most significant of all, Mr. Martin believes, is the fact that every man on the Washington team has an understudy very nearly as good.

Among the pitchers Brown and Hadley are the two who will show the most improvement. The entire staff, however, will show the experience born of last year's hectic race.

Mr. Martin concludes with the prophecy that he'll wave to the Baseball Editor from his box seats. Maybe? Who knows? Everybody has a chance, and it seems that nearly everybody is taking a chance for those six box seats. The rules are simple enough. Write 250 words on what you think of Washington's chances this year. On one side of the page.

Shields Beats Borotra In U. S.-France Match

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Frank Shields, No. 2 in the United States ranking and one of America's brightest Davis Cup prospects, tonight defeated Jean Borotra, of France, indoor champion of three countries, in straight sets of the first of the international team matches between the United States and France. The scores were 7—5, 6—1 and 6—3.

Second Swim Record Credited to G. W. Ace

Max Rote, George Washington University freshman, established two District amateur indoor swimming records instead of the one accredited him in the championship meet last week at the Shoreham pool. In a conference yesterday between A. Earle Weeks, swimming committee head, and J. Kip Edwards, chairman of the records committee, it was determined that Rote's time of 26 3-5 seconds in one of the 50-yard free style heats on Friday night, shall stand as a new standard. The final 50-yard race was won in 27 2-5 seconds by George Groff, unattached.

Rote's other record was made in the 100-yard final, which he negotiated in 1 minute 1 second.

MACKS WIN, 3-2, OVER BRAVES

Dykes' Drive Breaks Deadlock in 7th; Connie Honored.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 23 (A. P.).—The Athletics wound up their spring exhibition schedule at Fort Myers today by defeating the Boston Braves, 3 to 2, while Thomas A. Edison and the largest crowd of the series here loked on. To help mark the wind-up, Connie Mack was escorted around the field by a bevy of beauties and presented with a Panama hat, while the Athletics players received gifts from Mayor Josiah Fitch, of Fort Myers.

The game was close until the seventh inning, when the Athletes broke a 2-to-2 deadlock. Bruce Cunningham, Boston pitcher, relieved Brandt and was socked for a single by Todt. A pass to Miller was followed by Dykes' line drive through the pitching box, which sent Todt home with the winning run.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

GULFPORT, Miss., March 23.—The Nats today benefited from no less than eight bases on balls and six errors, five charged to Shortstop Heinie Sand, but the best they could do was to tie the Baltimore Orioles here this afternoon, 5-5. The game was called by agreement at the end of the ninth.

Until just before the game ended, the Nats thought they had scored six runs, for Harry Rice had crossed the plate before Dave Harris had been run down on an attempted double steal, which ended the eighth. Umpire Van Grafian ruled, however, that a mistake had been made in scoring this run, as Harris had run out of the base line before Rice reached home.

The bases on balls figured quite prominently in Washington's run coining, but Sand picked his spots for his miscues and only two did the Nationals any good. These came in the fifth inning, and, coupled with Myer's double and a balk, netted the first run of the game. A miscue by Solters, combined with two walks and singles by Griffith and Harris, gave the Nats two more runs in the seventh, and three walks and another single by Harris, all coming after two were out, completed the Nat attack in the eighth and gave them another brace of markers.

Griffith Weakens in Eighth.

Meanwhile the Orioles pecked away at the southpaw offerings of Carl Fischer and Lynn Griffith, but could not dent the dish until the eighth. In previous games, "Griff" had held them scoreless for a total of seven innings and he promised to make it eleven today. After passing the nine mark, he faltered, however, and the International Leaguers hopped on his slants with both feet in the eighth session.

Boyle was hit on the elbow as a starter and then followed Solters' single, a walk to Gill, singles by Hauser and Stroner and a wild pitch. These were good for five alien runs before a man was out, but the southpaw managed to put on the brakes here and to set down the next three in order.

Nats' Attack Fails in Pinch.

Sand's fourth error put Montague, Nat lead-off man, on first in the ninth, and he advanced on Kuhel's helpful out. It was first put up to Burns to single home the runner, but he failed and Sand then contributed his fifth "boot" by letting Jordan's grasser get past him. This gave Bolton a chance to become a hero, but he, too, was an easy out. Griffith fanned two and walked one in the home ninth, the stroller being caught stealing, to end the game as Solters missed a third strike.

Of the Nats' seven hits, Dave Harris accounted for two, one driving two mates over the plate, while Gill, Hauser and Stroner, with a brace each, were credited with two-thirds of the Oriole attack.

Better Pitching Now Due.

With only five more games to be played in this neck of the woods before Manager Walter Johnson takes his team in the general direction of home, a much higher caliber of pitching may be looked for. In games played to date, the Nat flingers have not been punished to any great extent, but have had practically no "stuff," and have gotten by more or less on luck.

There are three stages of a pitcher's training which tie him up. The first is the preliminary general conditioning, the second is when he starts using speed, and the third is when he starts curving the ball. In each case muscles are stiff and time and work are needed to iron them out.

Several, including Irving Hadley and Lloyd Brown, have passed through all of these stages, but practically all of the others are still slowed up from their curve-ball efforts. Sad Sam Jones, General Alvin Crowder and Fred Marberry, three on whom Johnson is banking greatly for the coming season, all complained this morning from the effects of their mound debuts yesterday. They did some more pegging this morning, however, and within a week every member of the mound department should be just about ready to pitch some real baseball.

Johnson vs. Schacht on Mound Today.

Of all the games listed so far this spring, the most interest is being shown in tomorrow's scheduled fracas between the Varsity and Freshman teams. Several small wagers have been made and the Frosh, in view of their victory over Mobile in the Alabama town Sunday, are actually cocky and asking no odds. There is some dissension in their ranks, however, over the fact that Coach Al Schacht has nominated himself as their starting pitcher.

Cards Consider Deal For Hafey, Hold-Out

Bradenton, Fla., March 23 (A.P.).—President Sam Breadon, of the St. Louis Cardinals, said this afternoon, the club would consider trading Chick Hafey, slugging outfielder, who is holding out for more money, but it would be difficult to arrange a satisfactory deal because of Hafey's value.

Before the game with the Phils, Breadon conferred with L. R. Ruch, president of the Philadelphia Club. No statement was forthcoming, but it is known the Cardinals would like to get Chuck Klein, of the Phils. Hafey, upon his arrival in St. Louis today, said the club had offered him $12,500 for 1931, an increase of $3,500 over his 1929 salary, but he was holding out for $14,000.

Brookline, Mass., March 23 (A.P.). Five of the six players seeded in the twenty-fourth annual women's national indoor singles tennis tournament swept through their opening matches in convincing fashion here today on the Longwood covered courts. Mianne Palfrey, of Brookline, the defending champion, drew a bye and will not swing into action until tomorrow.

The best of the fourteen matches on the first day's card was provided by Sarah Palfrey, top seeded, and Mrs. Roger Griswold, of Boston. The famous Brookline girl was pressed to the limit by her experienced rival and had to call upon all of her expert strokes to oust Mrs. Griswold by a 6—4, 7—5 margin.

Mrs. C. J. Hubbard, jr., of Cambridge, runner-up in 1928 and 1929, kept the seeded list intact by defeating Marion King, of Washington, 6—0, 6—1.

Arthur Thurnbald is the present three-cushion champion, having won the title last month in Chicago. Baker said that if Thurnbald or any other player of note accepted the challenge, the tournament would likely be held here the latter part of April, at which time Hoppe is scheduled to appear in Pittsburgh.

Athletics Would Aid Martinsburg Club

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 23.—The Philadelphia Athletics, who for seven years either owned the Martinsburg Club of the Blue Ridge League or used it as their farm, will gladly send young players here in the event this city is admitted to the Middle Atlantic League, according to information received by local owners today from Earl Mack, one of the A's coaches, who formerly managed Martinsburg.

Recently, when it became known that Joe Cambria, Baltimorean, who owns an M. A. loop franchise, was considering operating in Martinsburg instead of Hagerstown, the world's champions were interrogated as to whether they would help out here in case Cambria decided in favor of coming into West Virginia. The answer, a highly satisfactory one, came back with a rush. Not only did Mack say players would be sent here, but he added that if any of them attracted their eyes and they took them back, the local club would be well paid for them.

WESTERN, GONZAGA NINES START OUTDOOR DRILLS

18 to Be Retained; Infield Features Western Drill.

Gonzaga's Squad of 35 Get Taste of Batting Practice.

YESTERDAY'S balmy breezes stirred two high school baseball teams to action, Western and Gonzaga, both of which held lively batting and fielding practices while the other school teams still remained indoors.

Western, under the eye of Coach Cliff Moore, went through a stiff workout on its pasture situated about a half a mile from the school building. Resplendent in new uniforms, all hands joined in a lengthy batting practice, hopping on the stuffless offerings of four Western flingers to good effect.

Weeding out of the 40 diamond prospects began with yesterday's drill, Coach Moore stated. Western will carry a squad of 18 this year.

Western Infield Features.

The feature of the drill yesterday was the work of the Western infield, Foxx, first base; Wilhoite, second; Pimper, short, and Clark, third, who went through their paces with something resembling midseason snap. Foxx, at first, was particularly impressive, gathering in wild heaves exceedingly well and showing a marked ability to get the ball away from him quickly.

Roy Yowell, first string catcher and a veteran of last year's nine, did all the receiving during batting drill. The lanky receiver looks to be in better form than ever before, and has it over the other Western catchers like the proverbial tent.

About 20 outfield aspirants chased fungoes directed by Everett Buscher, pitcher. Sam Taylor, a letter man, is back in uniform and probably will have no trouble holding his berth, despite recent treatments to his eyes.

Batting Features Gonzaga Drill.

Gonzaga's squad, 35 strong, worked out on the remnants of the old Terminal field, which, with the exception of a puddle or two, was in fair playing shape yesterday. Coach Orrel Mitchell ordered batting practice for the most part, but also concentrated on his second base patrolmen, Mills, short, and Fitzgerald, second. This pair gives promise of developing into the classiest fielding key bag combination in the high schools. Dickey Fitzgerald, especially, handles himself well and is no slouch with the hickory.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—St. John's Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SILVER SPRINGS HANDICAP, a mile and a sixteenth, feature of St. John's Park today, brings out a field of six. BOUNDING DEEP, which beat Chancellor last week, and has won his last two races, should make it three consecutively by winning this. He seems much the best of the field. Greentree Stable's filly, MUFF, which has not been running to her best form, should be second, turning the tables on BLUE LAW, which formerly belonged to the Greentree Stable, and which won from a high class field of 2-year-olds last week. BLUE LAW is not dependable.

FIRST RACE—Maiden 2-year-olds start in the first race at 4 furlongs. P. S. P. Randolph's filly, EVEN, looks best, as this is about the cheapest field in which she ever ran. EVELYN BARR should be the contender, with TRYABIT next.

SECOND RACE—STEPHANUS may win. He is the class of the ordinary field. DONAU, which has won two races recently, is a dangerous contender. STURDY, a winner Saturday, has a chance.

THIRD RACE—The speedy and reliable ESTIN should account for the purse in the third race. He won three races at this track, but was unplaced in his last start. ZETA will be the contender. CROYDEN may bet third money, but MONNIE is to be considered.

FIFTH RACE—DEA appears best. The Livingston Stable filly beat Brandon Dare and others at Hialeah, and in her last start was third to Our Doctor. She can go a route. YOUNG JOHN is dangerous. BROWN GOLD should have a chance.

SIXTH—TURKEY'S NECK will have MINT TODDY to beat. The Pons horse was second to Kavanaugh in his last start, as good a race as is necessary to win this, and MINT TODDY was third, but should get the place in this. HONEST JOHN does not improve in his racing. Third will be a fortunate break for him.

SEVENTH—LONDON ROCK is selected to win. All the conditions suit this horse, which has been gradually improving this winter. RESPOND may be the contender. PAT CALHOUN is next best.

FANS TO MISS EQUIPOISE AT BOWIE

Whitney Star Not in Shipment Made by Hopkins.

RACE fans who have been expecting to see Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Equipoise, outstanding 2-year-old of last year's racing and future books favorite for the Preakness and Kentucky Derby, in action during the meeting that opens next Monday at Bowie, are destined to be disappointed.

The Whitney horses which will race during the two-weeks' session at the Prince Georges County track—the session which, by the way, inaugurates Maryland's 1931 season—were shipped to that point yesterday from Benning, where they have wintered. And Trainer Freddy Hopkins didn't include Equipoise in the lot.

When the vans pulled away from the once famous track near the Capital, the only 3-year-olds in the shipment were Smear, Thais and a gelding named King Bogen, which did not start as a 2-year-old.

Ten 2-year-olds made up the balance of the band of thirteen. They are Dustemoff, chestnut colt by Mad Hatter—Cobwebs; Habanero, a colt by Blondin—Manzanita; Wingover, black colt by Mad Hatter—Pigeon Wing; Bay Broom, bay filly by Coventry—Bonnie Broom; Blow Fly, bay filly by Wildair—Bubble; Panshala, bay filly by Peter Pan—Porshala; Presecura, bay filly by Chicle—Presco; Phylette, chestnut filly by Pennant—Frillette; Wild Polly, bay filly by Wildair—Polly Flinders, and Wonder Where, bay filly by Mad Hatter—Wonderland.

Stay to Be Kept at Benning.

Equipoise and a pair of 2-year-olds—Fall Apple, a chestnut colt by Pennant—Eden, and Banderlog, a bay colt by Chicle—Flyleaf, will be kept at Benning for the time being. Shortly before the Havre de Grace meeting they will be shipped to the Harford County track.

Young Hopkins is, of course, all wrapped up in Equipoise. The sterling son of Pennant—Swinging has wintered in great style, and he looks right now to be in the best of condition. He has filled out considerably, and his owner and trainer are eminently satisfied that he will achieve more honors this year than he did last year, when he was the leading money-winner of his age.

Talking of Equipoise's chances in the Preakness and Kentucky Derby, Hopkins said: "It looks to me as though Mate and Twenty Grand are the only two horses we have to fear in these two stakes. Of course, something may pop up that may make me change my mind. But basing my views on last year's racing, I feel that I am justified in rating my charge above the others."

J. N. Camden to Quit Turf; Orders Famous Stable Sold

Color Bearers Have Won $3,000,000 in Purses Since 1894; Breeding and Racing Stock to Be Disposed Of.

NEW YORK, March 23 (A.P.).—Johnson N. Camden, whose Hartland Stud, near Versailles, Ky., has furnished the turf with many notable thoroughbreds during the 37 years of its existence, today announced his retirement from the racing field. He instructed C. J. Fitzgerald, of this city, to sell his entire stable of breeding bloodstock and horses in training.

Although announcing his retirement as owner and breeder, the former United States senator will retain his position as chairman of the board of directors of the American Turf Association. Camden has been a prominent figure in the racing and breeding world since the early 90's.

The sale, which will take place May 12 at Hartland Manor, marks the dispersal of the most important offering of bloodstock in the United States since the sale of the famous Nursery Stud six years ago. At that time a group of mares and stallions, headed by the late Fair Play, sold for almost $800,000. Fair Play, then 20 years old, brought $100,000, and the broodmare, Qu'elle Chance, $45,000.

Horses bred at Hartland since 1894, when Spendthrift, great grandsire of Man o' War, and 30 mares secured from James A. Keene, formed the nucleus for the establishment, have won upward of $3,000,000 in stakes and purses.

The acquisition of Ben Brush, founder of the Broomstick tribe, and the importation of Light Brigade furnished the strains of blood that have brought most fame to Camden's stable. Ben Brush is dead but Light Brigade and his son, Hydromel, will be among the 4 stallions, the 71 mares and 10 horses in training to go on the block May 12.

The most famous of the recent Camden runners includes Rose of Sharon, which died last year after leading the 3-year-old filly division in 1929. This year Frigate Bird, a 3-year-old by Man o' War, is being pointed for the big stakes, including the Kentucky Derby.

Georgetown Nine Off For Opener at V. M. I.

Delayed one day by inclement weather, Georgetown's baseball team departed yesterday for Lexington, Va., where it opens its campaign today in a game with Virginia Military Institute. Coach Johnny Colrick and 15 players made the trip.

Tomorrow the Hilltoppers will meet Washington and Lee at the same place. This game was originally scheduled for yesterday. On Saturday Colrick's charges meet Dartmouth here in the Georgetown home inaugural.

Harry Nosnesky, southpaw, is Colrick's choice for pitching duty today, while Harold Poole is slated to take the box tomorrow. Except in two positions, catcher and left field, Georgetown is composed of veteran material.

D. C. S. NINE IN LEAGUE.

The District Grocery Store Baseball Team will enter the unlimited section of the Capital City Baseball League, according to an announcement made yesterday by Carl Denison, who will manage the team this year. Denison is booking games at West 2013.

CITY LEAGUE MANAGERS MEET

Player Contracts to Be Distributed Here Tonight.

OFFICIALS of the Capital City Baseball League will distribute player contracts to managers of all teams to compete in the District unlimited section of the circuit at a meeting tonight in Room No. 2, District Building. The session will start at 8 o'clock.

Managers of teams in The Post's 1931 American Legion series will be given their player contracts at a meeting next Friday night at local headquarters of the legion, the Shoreham Building, Fifteenth and H streets northwest, starting at 8 o'clock. Francis J. McDonald, department athletic officer, who will be in charge of the series this year, will present the contracts.

Banner Season Predicted.

Prospects for a banner season in each division of the league appear particularly bright at this time. From the number of inquiries received so far, league officials expect a record-breaking list of entrants in each of the unlimited, senior, junior, midget, insect and American Legion classes. Officials also have secured the services of the most competent umpires in the city, all members of the District of Columbia Umpires Association.

BALL CLUB MANAGER IS OFFICIAL OF BANK

Walter Johnson Is Elected to Board of Director of Bethesda House.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Two important additions to directorates were announced yesterday. Walter Johnson, manager of the Washington Baseball Team of the American League, has been elected a director of the Bank of Bethesda, and Lewis E. Smoot, former president of the Smoot Sand & Gravel Co., has been elected a director of the Columbia Sand & Gravel Co.

Officials of the latter company, acquisition of which by the Arundel Corporation of Baltimore was announced recently, said there was no definite plan for consolidation of the Columbia and Smoot companies at this time. Regarding reports of recent price advances in sand and gravel, officials of the Columbia company said that as far as they knew local prices were lower than those of any city on the Eastern coast. Clyde B. Asher is president of the Columbia Sand & Gravel Co. and W. A. Smoot is president of the Smoot Sand & Gravel Co.

Members of the Washington Association of Credit Men have been informed by headquarters of the national association of an agreement between the National Association of Credit Men and the Asociacion Nacional de Credito, of Cuba, whereby all credit information gathered by the Cuban association is made available to American firms selling in the Cuban market.

Privilege of Membership.

Under the agreement American firms may be admitted to full membership in the Cuban association, a privilege which has hitherto been restricted to firms actually resident in Cuba, it was stated.

"This new development, according to W. S. Swingle, foreign department director of the national association, "is a significant one for our trade with Cuba." He said, "It makes available to the American exporter detailed credit information on approximately 32,000 buyers in the Cuban market. The data includes both ledger experience and antecedent information, gathered by the Cuban association during the several years that it has been functioning.

"The Association Nacional de Credito is also equipped to handle collections and adjustments for its members, which will be a great convenience to American firms selling to Cuba but having no branches there."

Firms interested in obtaining membership in the Cuban association may communicate either with the Foreign Credit Interchange Bureau of the National Association of Credit Men, or directly with the central ofice of the Cuban association in Havana.

Credit Groups Abroad.

"While the national association has close working arrangements with several credit organizations abroad, this is the first time that American firms have gained the privilege of actually participating in a credit association in a foreign country, except through their foreign branches," Swingle said. "This additional source of information on Cuban accounts will undoubtedly stimulate our trade with the island."

President Joshua Evans, jr., District National Bank, is visiting in Florida.

President George O. Walson, Liberty National Bank, was a recent visitor in Philadelphia.

Secretary Frederick P. H. Siddons, American Security & Trust Co., attended the recent regional savings conference in New York.

Higher Income Reported By Telephone Utilities

Chicago, March 23 (A.P.).—President Marshall E. Samsell, of the Associated Telephone Utilities System, reported today that the company's average gross revenue per telephone had increased 7 per cent during 1930.

He said this was the largest increase for any year since organization of the company.

Curb Review

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—The Curb Market was uncertain of itself today.

Selling of some of the utilities, oils and industrials was counterbalanced by persistent bullish activity in several pool favorites. The volume of trading dwindled. The day's transfers of 472,800 shares were 161,500 less than Friday's.

Electric Bond & Share dropped more than a point before meeting support. Its net loss at the close was ⅛. United Light A finished a point lower, and American Gas & Electric declined 1⅜.

Cities Service, which pushed into new high ground last week, yielded fractionally in heavy trading. Indian also lost a fraction, and Standard of Ohio, 1 point. Vacuum, however, was firm, and Humble recovered a point.

Aluminum Co. was again a sensation, surging up 24 points to 210, bettering last week's new high by 6 points, then slipping back to 204. Noranda turned firm again, and closed a point higher. In the aviations, Fairchild appeared at 5, up 2. Transcontinental rose nearly a point to a new 1931 top at 7⅞, and closed at 7¾. Cord Corporation was firm, in sympathy with Auburn.

Soft spots among the industrials were Ford, Ltd., Anglo-Chilean Nitrate, Mead Johnson and Driver Harris, off a point or so.

Investment trusts were mixed. Shenandoah rose a fraction to a new peak, and United Founders was firm, while Goldman Sachs yielded ½.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 23.—A letter soliciting proxies to be voted at the annual meeting March 26 in favor of a change in management has been forwarded to holders of class "A" and "B" stocks of Container Corporation of America by Spencer, Trask & Co. The banking house states financial interests have made an extensive investigation into the company's affairs and expresses the belief that operations can be improved.

Receipt of $600,000 in gold from Mexico was reported in the daily gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve Board.

The American Tobacco Co. has decided that, since other companies do not publish their sales figures, definite figures on the increase in sales of its leading brand will not be made public in the future. However, figures for February show an increase of more than 2½ times the increase from January, and March showed a continued increase. January sales of the brand increase 246,249,000 over January of last year.

An initial order has been placed by the L. C. L. Corporation with the American Car & Foundry Co. for 50 L. C. L. drop-side container cars and 300 containers. The equipment will be used on the New York Central Railroad, William T. Hoops, president of the L. C. L. Corporation, announced.

The March trade survey of Credit and Financial Management, publication of the National Association of Credit Men, reports a fairly general improvement in retail sales. The survey lists four cities—Des Moines, Iowa; San Diego, Calif.; New Haven, Conn., and Elmira, N. Y.—as reporting brisk sales, against only one city reporting good sales last month. Sales were reported fair by 78 other cities, and 44 said sales were slow. A perceptible slowing up in collections was reported.

Operations of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co. steel plant in the Birmingham district continue at 70 per cent of capacity. Republic Steel Corporation is operating both of its southern district blast furnaces and is reported to be receiving a steady run of orders. The Raymond coal and ore properties are operating on a schedule of six days a week.

The United States Treasury will withdraw tomorrow $20,228,700 from depository banks in the Second Federal Reserve district and an equal amount on Wednesday. From the proceeds of the two issues of certificates of indebtedness dated March 15, withdrawels on those days from all depositories will aggregate $106,021,400. Thereafter the balance remaining on deposit in the second district will amount to $212,400,800, and that throughout the United States will be $356,612,900.

The announcement by the Treasury Department that some $70,000,000 of the $1,109,000,000 series A and B 3½ per cent notes called for redemption on March 15 have not been redeemed suggests a little calculation. Figured at that rate of interest the loss to holders through this oversight since March 15 has approximated $54,000 to date.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 23 (A.P.).—Cotton was lower today under liquidation, together with some local and commission house selling, which appeared to be inspired by relatively easy cables and the publication of reports from Washington regarding the stabilization policies of the Federal Farm Board. The latter appeared to have an unsettling effect on sentiment, which was promoted by weakness in grain and probably accounted for some of the selling. May contracts sold off to 10.80 and closed at 10.82, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 17 to 23 points.

The opening was steady, 1 to 8 points lower, in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and offerings increased right after the call, as if influenced by the easier ruling of grain. This was attributed to the unsettling effect of the announcement that the Farm Board would not authorize stabilization purchases from the 1931 wheat crop, and a later news dispatch intimating that a similar policy would be followed with reference to cotton seemed to bring in additional selling. Trade interests were credited with buying on scale down orders, but otherwise the market was without much support except for covering and prices worked off to 10.80 for May and 11.36 for October, or 19 to 24 points net lower. Offerings were not heavy, but they seemed to be more or less general and closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points from the lowest.

A report received here after the close of the market said the Federal Farm Board had made no statement regarding the 1931 cotton crop and added that cotton stabilization purchases so far had been confined to the 1929 crop. Liverpool cabled that local covering in that market had been supplied by Manchester and continental liquidation and reported buyers of cotton cloths and yarns cautious with a moderate turnover.

Houses with Japanese and other trade connections were said to be buyers here on the decline. Southern selling was said to be very little in evidence and the bulk of the offerings were attributed to liquidation of scattering account. Exports today, 35,688, making 5,510,205 so far this season. Port receipts, 30,669. U. S. port stocks, 3,823,169.

7 BOYS CLUB FIGHTERS IN TOURNEY

4 Unbeaten Among Group Seeking D. C. Amateur Titles.

THAT the Boys Club, beehive of youthful athletic endeavor, will make a bid for District amateur boxing honors was promised yesterday by Mike White, athletic director, who announced the entry of seven title aspirants in the tournament which starts Thursday night at Rockville.

An idea of the seriousness of the Boys Club hopes may be gleaned from the fact that four of the seven have never tasted defeat. Those with the unbeaten records are Louis Givison and John Riley, flyweights; Will Reed, bantamweight, and Ollie Dryzer, featherweight.

Givison's record is especially noteworthy as this 112-pounder has clicked off 21 straight victories including seven clean knockouts and five kayos of the technical variety. Riley, who donned the gloves this winter for the first time, has won seven bouts in a row. Both he and Givison are southpaws.

Coach Twomey's Work Praised.

The other three Boys Club representatives are Steve Thompson, a welterweight, who has won 19 out of 20 bouts this season; Jim Lewis, featherweight, and Dick Knight, middleweight.

Director White took occasion to praise the work of Matt Twomey, the club's boxing coach, who has aroused interest among the members to unprecedented heights. Twomey will be remembered as a former star athlete at Central High School and Devitt Prep.

The Knights of Columbus will have but two entrants in the tournament, it was stated last night by Charley Reynolds, Casey coach. Leo Covaleskie, welterweight, and Al Middleton, middleweight, will represent the Tenth street organization.

Covaleskie Steps Up to Welter Class.

Covaleskie, one of the most experienced amateur boxers in this section, has stepped up to the 147-pound class from the lightweight since last year, when he met defeat in the first round of the tourney at the hands of Harry Winters, of the City Club. Reynolds believes, however, that he will show an improvement with added poundage this year. Middleton is a novice but may prove a surprise, declared the coach.

Navy Varsity Crew Due for Revamping

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 23.—The varsity crew at the Naval Academy, prepping for its inaugural race in New York April 18, is to be revamped this week. With "Duke" Crinkley, one of the most powerful of the oarsmen, who just finished boxing by winning the intercollegiate heavyweight championship, expected within a day or two to join the squad, Coach Richard A. "Old Dick" Glendon hopes to get his eight settled in time for a long workout Saturday afternoon.

Preceding Crinkley from the ring squad was Carpenter, also a heavyweight, who is expected to clinch a varsity seat. Hunter, a varsity man of last year, returned today after an illness and was placed in the jayvee boat. Before the end of the week, Hunter is expected to relieve Hartley.

Cubs' Winning Streak Broken by Oakland.

Oakland, Calif., March 23 (U.P.).—The long winning streak of the Chicago Cubs in exhibition games was broken here today when Oakland, of the Pacific Coast League, defeated them, 4 to 3.

Unfortunately for the major league team, there was no one on base in the ninth inning when Jurges, young shortstop, hit a home run.

Detroit Bows, 11-8 as Wyatt Blows Up.

San Diego, Calif., March 23 (A.P.). Whitlow Wyatt's sore arm failed him and the Hollywood Club of the Pacific Coast League got to him for eight runs in the single inning he pitched to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 11 to 8, in an exhibition game. Trailing, 10 to 3, as they entered the ninth inning, the Tigers laid down a barrage of base hits for five runs, but fell three short of tying the score. Earl Whitehill had held the Pacific Coast Leaguers to two hits and as many runs in the six innings he pitched.

JOHNSON-SCHACHT TAKE MOUND TODAY

The boys like Al, but do not think much of his flinging ability.

Schacht's announcement that he will pitch did one thing which persuasion could not do, however, in that it brings Walter Johnson to the mound in his first competitive appearance since 1927, except for part of an inning while he was manager of the Newark Bears.

Word of Johnson's intention to oppose the rookies on the mound has been passed about town and it would not be surprising if a crowd equaling the size of some of the regular exhibitions turns out.

Capt. Joe Judge pulled up last night with a swollen left ankle—where, how and when he got it he does not know, and so he was excused from working against the Baltimore Orioles here this afternoon.

essays remarking that football is no mollycoddle game and that no team is any better than its fundamentals.

I do not believe that just as essayists, apart from their position and their reputations as coaches, the football coaches would be worth more than, say, a dollar a column yard. But then, what do you suppose Mr. Coolidge's little homilies would be worth if he had not been President of the United States?

It was very disagreeable of him to do this. He weakened my position, and no coach need feel self-conscious any more when he sits down to write that in football it is of the utmost importance to score touchdowns and prevent the other team from doing so.

"Well, anyway," says the coach to himself, "I am only getting a dime a word."

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

MEETING TO DISCUSS LINK FOR BOULEVARD

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Efforts looking to having the county construct a connection with the new Mount Vernon boulevard, in Jefferson District, will be launched at a mass meeting which has been called for tomorrow evening in the auditorium of the Nellie Custis School in Aurora Hills by G. O. Basham, president of the Jefferson District Citizens Association.

In calling this meeting Mr. Basham pointed out that the Federal Government provided for an access to the new boulevard at the request of the county board of supervisors, but that no effort to construct the connection has been as yet made, which, it is said at the Bureau of Public Roads, should be done immediately.

"The time has come," the statement calling the meeting declares, "for the people of this section of the county to determine what they want in the way of public improvements. Several projects involving the expenditure of large sums of tax money are either under actual contemplation or merely proposed, promised, expected or hoped for. Some have been condemned as wasteful and extravagant of public revenues, while others have been actively sought by this or that civic group. There is, however, a limit to available public funds.

"Just recently," the statement continues, "there was a proposal to widen Frazier avenue, which apparently was to be undertaken in preference to the construction of a road connecting this district with the new Mount Vernon boulevard.

"Knowing how deeply interested the people of this section are in securing access to this highway, I wrote to the chairman of the county board of supervisors, stating that while the proposition to widen Frazier avenue was a desirable project, I thought the citizens here, if they could not have both, would much prefer the connection with the new boulevard.

"I understand a petition has been circulated by certain individuals in which the citizens are asked whether or not they favor the widening of Frazier avenue."

Continuing, the statement declares that the opportunity to connect with the new boulevard is the greatest that has ever been presented to Arlington County and that it would be a calamity to lose the opportunity through the lack of concerted effort.

"The sensible way out," Mr. Basham says, "is for the citizens to get together in mass meeting and let the county authorities know how they want their money spent. The supervisors are directly responsible to the people for their action in these matters, and they are certainly entitled to know what the majority wants."

Henry C. Morris, president of the Alexandria - Arlington - Fairfax Real Estate Board, announces the appointment of the following standing committees:

Arbitration and standards of practice—Guy N. Church, chairman; Clarence R. Ahalt, Keith A. Brumback, Ashton C. Jones and R. L. Kane.

Executive—Ashton C. Jones, chairman; John D. Normoyle, Guy N. Church, George M. Reynolds and William S. Hoge, jr.

A charter has been granted by the State Corporation Commission to the Manor Realty Co., with principal offices at Clarendon. Frank G. Campbell, of Arlington Ridge, Arlington County, is president, and Clarence R. Ahalt, also of Arlington Ridge, counsel. The maximum capital stock is $50,000.

John W. Proctor, charged with felonious assault upon James Burton with a deadly weapon, was held for the action of the grand jury.

Charged with reckless driving, C. M. Copenhaver, Fred Harrison and Harry T. Quirk were each fined the sum of $14.25, including costs.

With work rapidly nearing completion in the county engineer's office on the new map showing the proposed rights of way for the approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge along Washington street from the intersection of Wilson boulevard and Court street, it is expected that the committee appointed to obtain rights of way will proceed with their task without delay. Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth is chairman of the right-of-way committee.

The proposal to have the county take over Washington street as an adequate approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge started with the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association more than two years ago. It since has received the united support of every citizens' association in Arlington and Washington districts, together with the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce.

According to L. C. McNemar, chairman of the committee from the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association, as soon as the map is ready there will be a meeting called which will be attended by all committees from the several citizens' associations together with the committee from the Chamber of Commerce, at which time plans to take the matter to the county authorities in concrete form will be made.

ROBBER HANDS BACK HALF 80-CENT LOOT

Three Taxi Men Identify Cherrydale Resident as Toy Gun User.

Paul Clements, 30 years old, of Cherrydale, Va., last night was arrested and held for investigation after he is alleged to have tried to hold up a taxicab driver with a toy pistol.

At the Second Precinct Station Cleemnts was indentified by one of two taxicab drivers, police said, who were taken to Virginia yesterday and held up by a man "with a black derby."

Treat A. Newman, of Hyattsville, Md., the captor of the allaged holdup man, was hailed by the man at Second and Massachusetts avenue northwest and the fare directed him to drive to Sixth street, near U street northwest. As the cab neared Sixth and M streets, the driver said, he heard his fare command him to "Stop!"

Newman looked around into the muzzle of the gun. Newman grabbed the pistol and wrested it from the grasp of the passenger. The "gun" proved to be the harmless cap pistol.

Henry H. Smith, of 810 E street northeast, is said to have identified Clements as the man who hired him at Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest and ordered him to drive to Cherrydale, Va., where the passenger drew what Smith thought was a pistol and took 80 cents from him, later returning half of it. Then the passenger also forced him to return to Pennsylvania avenue and Twenty-second street northwest, where he left the cab.

An hour later, George Byrd, of 8 Boyd avenue, Takoma Park, Md., reported that he was hired by a man who fitted the same description as the one who held up Smith, and drove him to Clarendon, Va., where he was robbed of $3.50. The passenger then forced him to return to Eighteenth and H streets northwest.

Youth Wounds Himself After Tea Room Tiff

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 23.—Following a tiff with a young woman in a Buckhannon tea room while attending the State basket ball tournament with her, Stanley Talbott, 20, of French Creek, Buckhannon High School graduate, shot himself near the heart and today was reported in a critical condition in a hospital. He refused to say whether the shot was intentional or acidental.

Talbott was prominent in high school athletics and in pugilism in the central West Virginia region.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE DELAY COURT TERM

County Buildings Damaged as Blast of Dynamite Rocks Stanardsville.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 23.—Owing to the damage done to the courthouse by the recent fire and explosion at Stanardsville, Judge Lemuel P. Smith, of this city, has called off the March term of the circuit court of Greene County. All cases will be carried over to the May term.

The explosion of 250 pounds of dynamite stored in a shed back of the warehouse of the hardware firm of C. L. Bickers & Son, Inc., did much damage to the court building, scarcely a sash or window pane remaining, and these will have to be replaced because of damaged frames and casements.

Many windows in the county jail were shattered. There was a single prisoner in the place, Ottie Collier, and he called lustily until he was released by Sheriff Melone.

The work of repairing the extensive damage done to the Methodist Church is now under way. The church, which stands opposite the courthouse, and with nothing to obstruct the force of the blast, was badly wrecked. Every window frame was blown out, the front door broken, the pews knocked about, plastering loosened and other damage done. The Sunday school of this church met yesterday in the Baptist Church.

A total of 275 window lights in the former Blue Ridge Hotel building and annex were broken.

SPELLING TITLE WON BY GREENWOOD GIRL

Ellen Apperson Is Held Best in Six-School Contest; Crozet Honored.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 23.—Ellen Apperson, of Greenwood, who lives near Mirador, the Virginia home of Lady Astor, was declared champion speller of Albemarle County, and Crozet the champion choral club, at a contest of six county schools held in Cabell Hall, at the University of Virginia.

Miss Apperson spelled 49 of the 50 words given. Butler Yowell, of Greenwood; Ella Haden, of Crozet; Vennie Wade, of Red Hill, and Margaret Kirtley, of Stony Point, spelled 47 words correctly. Greenwood School scored 231 of a possible 250 points, Crozet was second with 226, while Red Hill and Stony Point tied for third place with 218 each. Scottsville won fifth place with a score of 217, and Meriwether Lewis nosed out Earlysville with 209 and 203, respectively.

A. L. Bennett, superintendent of county schools, to prove that children can spell as well or better than in the "good old days," gave the test to four patrons. Of these one spelled 45 correctly, two 41, and one 40. Two of these patrons had children on the teams, and both were beaten by their children's scores.

Crozet School proved itself a dark horse in the choral contests, for the honor has been won long and consistenly by Red Hill, who were favorites. Earlysville made a good showing to win second place. Meriwether Lewis was third, Red Hill fourth, Greenwood fifth and Scottsville sixth

The judges were Mrs. W. H. Sage, of Schuyler; Miss Mildred Page and Miss Miriam Calhoun.

After a golfer has picked up another player's ball * * * "Something to Remember You By."

For a player who let his companions go on while he continues to look for a lost ball "I'm Alone Because I Love You."

For a golfer whose form is always terrible * * * "I'm One of God's Children Who Hasn't Got Swings."

Song for that occasion when the player who claims a five is reminded of the two strokes in the rough * * * "You Didn't Have to Tell Me."

For a foursome member who never gets two drives in the same direction * * * "East Side, West Side, All Around the Town."

For any golf club locker room, "Comin' Thru the Rye."

When the putt has rimmed the cup * * * "Down the Old Black Road."

To be played when a duffer's ball is sunk in the ditch * * * "Massa's in the Cold, Cold Ground."

For a golfer who has broken up his clubs and abandoned the game * * * "Soldier Rest, Thy Warfare O'er."

CALVIN'S ODE TO SPRING.

"NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—Springtime is advancing up the valleys and slopes of the northern hills where old-time country life still lingers. The sugar season is opening. It is time to bring out the sap buckets and the great pans. The dropping sap will make pleasant music, mingling with the cry of the blue jays and the complaining of the squirrels."—Calvin Coolidge.

Springtime is advancing up the valley,
Around the maple trees the tappers rally
To get the maple syrup while they can.

The perfume of the sap we'll soon be smelling—
The squirrels chatter with the blue jays blue,
And I get princely wages just for telling
These very simple springtime facts to you!

J. W. Probst, secretary of the Fairfax County Service Co., whose warehouse at Vienna was burned Sunday night, stated yesterday that the loss is partially covered by insurance. He also stated that the business at Vienna will be continued in a temporary warehouse. Deliveries were made on schedule yesterday. Supplies were furnished from the central warehouse at Fairfax Station.

Fairfax County authorities, L. L. Freeman, chief of the Vienna Fire Department, and inspectors from the underwriters' bureau are investigating the fire for traces of possible incendiarism. It was pointed out by many that on Saturday night about two months ago a similar fire broke out in the P. T. Moran feed store in Vienna.

James U. Kinchloe, Fairfax County commissioner of revenue, announced yesterday that pursuant to the provisions of the tax code of the State of Virginia, which requires taxpayers of the county to meet him at the voting precincts in the respective districts, he expects to visit Providence District next week. He will be at Feeser's store in Vienna on March 30 and 31; Havener's store in Oakton on April 1; Llewellyn's store, April 2; Tysons Corner, April 2; McLean, April 7 and 8; Oliver's store at Kenmore, April 9, and Stalcup's store at Chesterbrook on April 11.

The commissioner or his deputy will assist the taxpayer in making returns on their tangible and intangible property and their State income taxes for this tax year. The returns must be made prior to June 1. Failure on the part of the taxpayer to comply with this law means a 10 per cent penalty added to the tax on tangible and intangibles and a minimum penalty of $2 added to what the person would regularly pay to the State.

Representatives from a number of garden and community clubs met recently at Fairfax to hear the plans for conducting a farm, garden and yard contest in Fairfax County. County Agent H. B. Derr has been taking the lead in this movement for several months and plans to hold meetings in the different sections of the county. In connection with his talks colored slides will be shown illustrating the work that will be attempted.

Derr states the purpose of this movement is not only to aid in making more profitable gardens, thereby providing more food for the homes, but also to aid in beautifying the home. He declares many farmers have shown their interest by having the soils of their farms tested for acidity and phosphate needs. In scoring the farms, he states much emphasis is laid upon the production of the crops. He plans to give instructions on garden planting and the planting arrangement of shrubs and flowers about the home. Planting lists of shrubs, annual and perennial flowers and instructions as to protecting them from insects and diseases will be given on request.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce and different community clubs have indorsed this movement and will assist in the work. The movement is also indorsed by several subcommittees of the George Washington Bicentennial Celebration Commission and the garden committee of the District of Columbia.

The Women's Home Demonstration Club at Andrew Chapel holds its regular meeting this afternoon. Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, will address the meeting on kitchen work centers and storage spaces.

The Eastern Potomac Federation of the Baptist Young People's Union will hold its meeting today in the Columbia Baptist Church at Falls Church.

The Catholic Students Mission Crusade will meet today in the rectory of St. James' Catholic Church at West Falls Church.

The Blessed Virgin Sodality will hold a card party this evening in St. James' School Hall at West Falls Church. Mrs. Harry Kennedy is general chairman of arrangements.

The night branch of the Women's Auxiliary of the Falls Church Episcopal Church will meet this evening with Mrs. W. S. Browning at Falls Church. They will discuss plans for raising funds for the church's new heating plant. The members are preparing boxes of girls' clothing for one of the mountain missions.

Final arrangements will be made this evening by the Women's Auxiliary of the Falls Church Volunteer Fire Department for a dinner that is to be given Friday evening by the auxiliary in the Odd Fellows Hall, on Broad street, in Falls Church. Mrs. R. E. Kendrick has been named general chairman, with Mrs. E. M. Ward in charge of the dining room.

INCENDIARISM LAID TO YOUTHFUL TRIO

Mystery of Prison Blaze in Prince Georges County Believed Cleared.

Three colored boys, prisoners at the Maryland House of Reformation at Cheltenham, were arrested yesterday on charges that they set the fire which swept the broom factory at the institution on March 10. They were arrested by a Baltimore detective after an investigation by the State fire marshal.

Police say that the three have confessed and have implicated a fourth, who has not yet been arrested. His name is being withheld until he is taken into custody. Those arrested are Granville Haskill, 15; George Johnson, 17 and Thomas Deshields, 16.

According to Detective Joseph Dougherty, who arrested the trio, they admitted that they threw blazing rags through a window into heaps of broom straw. No reason for the act was given. The plant was badly damaged by fire and a stock of finished brooms and raw material was destroyed. Damage was estimated at $5,000.

Three New York men were slightly cut and bruised near Hyattsville when their car ran off the Baltimore boulevard after the driver fell asleep The men, Baldru Arnold, 24; Littlejohn Faulkner, 38, and Michael Woinas, 27, were knocked unconscious, but were otherwise uninjured save for cuts and bruises.

The trio were given first aid by the Bladensburg unit of the Prince Georges County rescue squad and were later taken to Providence Hospital by Albert Anderson, chief of police of Hyattsville. Chief Anderson said that the men had told him that their machine ran off the road and struck a telephone pole when the driver fell asleep. The machine was demolished.

Four men, Frank Manley, Dal Chercholle, Leslie Browning and Edward Selvy, have been arrested by Lieut. Tom Garrison in connection with the robbery early Sunday morning of the Maryland Drug Co. in Laurel in which a quantity of prescription whisky was stolen.

Charges of housebreaking and larceny face the men if they are connected with the robbery. A vault which contained the drug store's stock of liquor was forced open and 21 quarts were stolen. In addition, the money box of a pay telephone was ripped open and an unknown quantity of small change was taken. About $300 in jewelry and cash was taken from this store several months ago when thieves entered the safe, which had been left open.

The next time William E. Lontwill, of Girard street near Tenth street northeast, goes speeding on Maryland roads, he will be certain his gas tank is full, for Lontwill would have escaped after a chase by Prince Georges County policemen, the officers say, if he had not stopped to have his gas tank filled.

The alleged speed of Lontwill's car on the boulevard attracted attention of the policemen, who gave chase, but were outdistanced. They continued however, and found the object of their search in a service station, whereupon he was arrested on a charge of exceeding 60 miles an hour. He was held in Bladensburg Jail in default of a bond of $1,000.

When the Maryland House of Delegates and Senate convened last night for the last full week of their current session, several Prince Georges County bills were nearly through the legislative mill. They include a bill affecting Hyattsville, and several other State-wide measures introduced by members of the local delegation.

The new road law for Hyattsville, which provides a longer time to pay paving assessments and permission for the town to burrow more money, has been introduced by Delegate Richard C. Zantzinger. It was referred to the county delegation for their report.

Delegates Oliver Metzerott's bill to allow veterans' organizations to use schoolhouses for their meetings has been passed by the Senate. Delegate Charles C. Marbury's bill allowing boards of education to condemn 10 acres of land needed for school purposes, was reported out favorably by the committee to which it had been referred. The present law sets a limit of 5 acres to the amount which can be condemned.

Annulment Decree Signed.

Justice Jesse Adkins yesterday signed an interlocutory decree of annulment for Elizabeth V. McNey. The justice found that McNey had gone through a ceremony at Alexandria under the name of McNaney and that he had a previous living wife from whom he had not been legally separated.

DIES IN CRASH

MRS. RUTH PARTIN.

WIFE DIES, HUSBAND HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Police Say Truck on Road Near Bethesda Halted in Front of Partin Car.

A romance that braved parental ire eight years ago came to an end yesterday when the young wife was killed and her mate so seriously injured that he is not expected to live.

Mrs. Ruth Partin, 25, was almost instantly killed when an automobile driven by her husband, Ambrose E. Partin, 40, Rockville automobile dealer, became unmanageable and turned over on the Rockville pike near Grosvenors lane, about 2 miles from Bethesda. The husband was critically injured.

According to police, Mr. Partin was following the car of Bernard Cox, 5428 Eighth street northwest, who in turn was back of a truck belonging to a chain drug store driven by E. H. Satterwaite. When the truck halted on the road, the car of Mr. Cox came to a halt, but the Partin car apparently was traveling too fast to make the stop, police say.

Skids 100 Feet.

The brakes are believed to have locked and caused a skid. After skidding for about 100 feet, marks show, the Partin car, a converted repair car, then crossed the road and turned over, facing in the direction from which it had been coming.

The young wife was killed almost instantly, police say. She was pronounced dead at Georgetown Hospital where she was taken by Mr. Cox. The husband was taken to the hospital in the ambulance of Warner E Pumphrey, Rockville undertaker. Mr. Partin was en route to Washington to obtain parts for one of the Pumphrey automobiles when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Partin was the daughter of Joseph F. Kelchner, pioneer Rockville auto dealer, whose sudden death recently made her one of the heirs to a considerable estate. About eight years ago, when she was in her sophomore year at Rockville High School, she fell in love with Mr. Partin, at that time a mechanic in her father's garage.

Nation-Wide Search.

The two eloped and were the subject of a Nation-wide search, finally being found in Philadelphia. The parents later forgave the couple. A 5-year-old daughter, Marjorie, had not been told last night that her parents had been injured.

The young wife also is survived by a brother, Paul Kelchner, well-known Rockville aviator. Mr. Partin is survived by a divorced wife and son, neighbors say, who are believed to live in Washington.

The wrecking car in which the couple rode had been converted from the automobile in which R. L. Taylor, head of the R. L. Taylor Motor Co., of Washington, was killed two years ago. Mr. Taylor was almost decapitated when the car struck a telephone pole and turned over at Thirty-fourth and Macomb street, June 9, 1928.

A. B. Rasor Weds Miss Hope Bruffey

Ceremony Is Performed at Bride's Home Near Charlottesville.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 23.—Andrew B. Rasor and Miss Hope Bruffey, two popular members of the younger social set, were married last evening at the bride's home at the University of Virginia, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. C. C. Bell, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

H. Clay Powell, of Washington, was best man, and the maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Frances Bruffey. Following the ceremony there was a wedding dinner for the bridal party at the Monticello Hotel.

The bride is a daughter of the late Emmett Bruffey, for 40 years manager of Olivier's Book Store at the University. She is one of the most active members of the Business and Professional Women's Club, of this city. Mr. Rasor is the local representative of the General Electric Co., with headquarters in this city.

Two Drivers Held As Woman Dies

Detention of Husband in Another Fatality Also Is Ordered.

A coroner's jury, investigating the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Mitchell, 37 years old, of Third street, near F street northwest, who died Sunday of injuries received when struck by an automobile, on February 22, yesterday ordered two men held for the action of a grand jury.

Those held are: Merle Hellman, of Hyattaville, Md., and Robert Dixon, 19 years old, of Kings Court, near Fourth street northwest. The accident occurred at Third and G streets northwest.

The jury also ordered Benjamin Brown, 35 years old, colored, held for the grand jury in connection with the death of his wife, Alice Brown, 18 years old, who was fatally shot on Saturday during a quarrel with her husband at their home on Hanover place, near First street northwest.

GOVERNMENT CLUB TO MEET IN SCHOOL

Montgomery County Group Will Carry Out Plans Despite Protest.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4308.

The county congress of the Montgomery Government Club will hold its meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, despite the protests of the Republican women of the county, it was announced last night by Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools.

The protest of Mrs. Helen L. Koch, of Woodside, Md., president of the county Republican women's organization, alleged that the Government Club is a political organization and is barred by school laws from holding meetings on school property. Mrs. Koch declared that all organizations should be permitted to meet in the schoolhouse if this club was permitted to hold meetings there.

Mr. Broome declared that the schools are not in a position to differentiate between political organizations, but that he will be glad to permit any of the groups to meet in the schools that are meeting for the advancement of the county, and will be glad to appear before them and talk on the county school situation, as he intends doing tonight, if they wish it.

A second protest was received yesterday from Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, of Chevy Chase, Md., president of the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League, who echoed the words of Mrs. Koch.

In response to Mrs. Koch, Superintendent Broome said:

"As you know, it has been the practice of the board of education to never refuse the use of Montgomery County school houses to any civic, social, community, fraternal, business or county organization. It has been distinctly in mind that school affairs and general county conditions have been greatly helped by the meetings in the school house of of such county-wide organizations as the Montgomery County Civic Federation, Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs, the county farmers' conventions, the county milk associations, the Farm Bureau and other groups. As it is understood, here is no prohibition in the school law against the use of the buildings by the Montgomery County Governmental Club or similar clubs and organizations, whose meetings, as we understand, will be similar to other county-wide organization meetings, and all of which are beneficial to the county.

"A quotation from the Maryland code covering the use of school buildings is inclosed. There is no prohibition therein against the use of school buildings by any organizations such as the Montgomery Government Club.

"It is noticed that the practice of the board of education in granting requests for the use of school buildings is in line with your statement that, 'I hereby register a protest against the use of school houses by this organization unless the privilege is extended to all organizations.' All similar clubs and organizations do have the same use of school school houses."

Speakers at tonight's meeting will include Mr. Broome, who will talk on the county school program and the school bond issue; Commissioner George P. Hoover and General Counsel J. Bond Smith, of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, who will talk on the park program; County Commissioner Lacy Shaw, who will talk on the county road program and bonds; Roger J. Whiteford and Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, attorneys to the county commissioners, who will talk on pending tax and assessment legislation.

Members of the delegation to the House of Delegates and State Senator Robert G. Hilton will be on hand to discuss pending legislation and proposed measures. Maj. E. Brooke Lee, president of the Montgomery Government Club, will preside.

A final decree of absolute divorce was granted Lacy Shaw, president of the board of county commissioners, yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter in circuit court at Rockville. Commissioner Shaw alleged in his bill of complaint that Mrs. Julia D. Shaw, of Clarendon, Va., had deserted him January 22, 1927.

The couple was married at Washington, February 19, 1910 and has one son, Benjamin C. Shaw, who is in the custody of the father. Commissioner Shaw was represented by the law firm of Cissel & Woodward, of Rockville.

$25,000 Davis Suit Settled for $6,500

Companion of Late Rich Miss Shriver Also to Receive Legacy.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., March 23.—The suit of Mrs. Bertha Cecilia Davis for $25,000 against the estate of Miss Eleanor Shriver, wealthy Frederick woman, deceased, ended abruptly in the circuit today when a settlement was made for $6,500. The settlement is in addition to a legacy of $1,500 left by Miss Shriver in her will to Mrs. Davis.

The plaintiff alleged that she stayed at the home of Miss Shriver at night for nearly seven years at the request of the latter, who promised substantial compensation after her death.

The case was taken up in the circuit court for trial this morning with 32 witnesses, including many women —27 for the plaintiff and 5 for the executor of the estate. Before the judges empaneled a jury attorneys for both sides conferred with the result that a settlement, pending for several months, was effected. The settlement stipulated that the estate pay all costs.

Jury to Probe Slaying Of Dairyman in Bed

Amelia, Va., March 23 (A.P.).—The Amelia County grand jury meeting here today was expected to take up the case of J. Will Jones, prominent dairyman, who was found shot to death in his bed last January 8.

Commonwealth's Attorney George K. Taylor declined to discuss the matter today, but indicated that it was before the grand jury. Mr. Jones, who lived a short distance from Amelia, was apparently killed as he slept. A shotgun had been fired through the bed clothing, the charge striking him in the head.
